RUSSIA USED OLESHKY CEASEFIRE TO BUILD UP ITS MILITARY POSITIONS, ALLEGES UKRAINE

18 killed as Russia struck village school acting as an aid centre, says Zelenskyy

'After the first strike, there was a repeat with 9 more bombs'

UKRAINIAN PRESIDENT Volodymyr Zelenskyy said on Monday that Russian forces had bombed a village in southeastern Zaporihzhia region, killing 18 people and injuring five.

Zelenskiy, writing on Telegram, said Russian forces initially dropped aerial bombs on a school in the village of Komyshuvakha, used for distributing humanitarian assistance.

"After the first air strike, there was a repeat strike with nine more bombs, directly on the shelter where people were gathered," Zelenskyy wrote.

"The Russians could not have been unaware that every week residents who have remained in Komyshuvakha were receiving assistance aid right there. This is yet further proof that Russia does not want any kind of de-escalation, any real justice."

On Monday, Ukraine's General Staff said that Russian forces had used a humanitarian ceasefire last week in the Russian-held southern town of Oleshky to strengthen their military positions, which Moscow said it assumed Kyiv had also done.

The six—day ceasefire, brokered through US First Lady Melania Trump, was meant to allow aid deliveries and civilian evacuations from the frontline town. In total, nearly 800 people were evacuated, Melania Trump said on X.

However, Ukraine's General Staff said it recorded rotations of Russian units, fortification of positions, expansion of anti—drone measures along roads, and logistics activity including deliveries of ammunition.

"Under the ceasefire introduced for the humanitarian operation in Oleshky, units of the Defence Forces of Ukraine ensured that the ceasefire was observed, and acted exclusively within the framework of the agreements reached," the General Staff said on X. "The enemy, by contrast, used humanitarian pause to improve its positions."

In response, Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov said he had no specific information about Russian military operations, but assumed Ukrainian forces had also used ceasefire to regroup. "This is standard practice in such situations. But I'm not familiar with the specifics," he said.

In a video address on Facebook, Ukraine's 34th Separate Marine Brigade "Borysfen" urged residents of the Kherson region not to ignore air raid sirens, saying Russia had "used the ceasefire to prepare and strengthen its capabilities".

Hackers hit emergency apps, send fake nuclear, chemical attack alerts

Reuters
Kyiv, November 2

UKRAINE AND Russia said their emergency alert apps had been hacked overnight, sending false warnings to citizens about impending air raids and chemical and nuclear attacks.

Ukraine's public air raid app started to send false alerts just before 11 pm on Sunday for the capital Kyiv and other areas, warning of radiation and chemical attacks and also the risk of street combat in some areas.

Hours later, Russian state news agency TASS quoted the Emergencies Ministry in Moscow as saying that its own mobile app had also been hit by a cyberattack that resulted in fake public warnings being transmitted.

Reuters was unable to verify which groups were responsible. Experts have linked previous cyber security incidents during the almost five-year-old war to activist hackers as well as intelligence agencies on both sides.

In Ukraine, one of the alarms said Russia had launched a hypersonic Oreshnik missile, capable of carrying a nuclear warhead, and that a nuclear alert had been declared.

Ukraine's air force said shortly after on Telegram hat the alert system appeared to have been hacked by Russia, noting the alerts were broadcast in Russian. "The air alert app appears to have been subjected to enemy influence," the air force said.

Atesh, a pro-Ukrainian hacking group, posted a screenshot of the alert message seen in Russia on its Telegram channel on Monday, with a message saying: "The Ministry of Emergency Situations app has been hacked!"

However, the Moscow ministry played down the impact, saying the app was not one of its main public warning system channels.

A fake message posted by the hackers did not attempt to mimic an official communication and was laced with colloquialisms, profanities and derogatory language about Russia, calling its regions "swamps".

The message told Russians that nuclear warheads had been launched and advised people to stock up on three weeks of food and shelter in their cellars.

MIDTERM POLLS: MICHIGAN ENDORSEMENT ROILS SENATE RACE

Parties make a final push as US gets set to vote

Detroit, Michigan, November 2

DEMOCRATS SOUGHT on Monday to contain a rift in Michigan's US Senate race after one of their own crossed party lines to endorse the Republican, as both parties made their final push before midterm elections that will determine control of Congress for the next two years.

US Representative Haley Stevens, who lost the Michigan Democratic Senate primary to Abdul El-Sayed in a bitter contest, publicly backed Republican Mike Rogers and appeared with him at a Detroit church.

Trump, who has been holding daily rallies around the country for Republican candidates, was due to deliver remarks at 1900 GMT at the belated reopening of Washington's Lincoln Memorial Reflecting Pool.

In Michigan, Stevens' decision to endorse Republican Rogers surprised party leaders, with some, such as Representative Debbie Dingell, saying it created a "distraction" for Democrats. Stevens said in a video posted to social media: "I don't belong in Abdul's campaign."

Nonpartisan analysts generally favor Democrats'chances of winning a majority in the House of Representatives. Winning control of the Senate will be trickier, with those analysts now seeing races in Republican-leaning states including Texas, Kansas and Iowa as competitive for the opposition, giving it more options for a path to pmajority.

Control of either chamber would constrain Trump's ability to pass legislation and empower Democrats to probe his administration, while a Senate majority would also allow them to block his appointees to federal courts including Supreme Court.

According to the University of Florida Election Lab, 55 million votes have been cast in person and by mail already.

Michigan Rift

Stevens called on El-Sayed to condemn an outside group's ad that she said blames Israel for high grocery prices. "That ad was very painful," Stevens told CNN on Sunday night. "There are so many Democrats who want to vote for our Democratic nominee, and they're just being told, 'Hey, this is a party you don't belong in, or this is a campaign you don't belong in.'"

El-Sayed's campaign recently asked Stevens to skip his events through Election Day so as "not to distract from the central issues of the campaign," a person familiar with the matter said.

Republicans sought to capitalize on Stevens' move. "When you see a party, and at least a sliver of the party, veering off into the virulent hate that they have been spewing toward a group of people, it gets dangerous," Rogers said.

Revised peace proposal on table, contacts continue: Iran

Tehran shortens its proposals for faster implementation

Dubai, November 2

CONTACTS BETWEEN Iran and the United States to end their eight-month war are continuing, Tehran's foreign ministry said on Monday, after days of Iranian talks with Qatari mediators ended with altered proposals but no breakthrough.

"I can tell you that the dialogues are continuing. However, the issue is complex," said Foreign Ministry spokesperson Esmaeil Baghaei, adding that the two sides were exchanging messages through mediators.

Amid fears the conflict could reignite after Tuesday's midterm elections in the United States, China and Russia both spoke out on Monday against the possibility of renewed military action in a war that has hit the global economy.

Baghaei said the plan Iran had submitted in September to end the war remained the focus of discussions, but he confirmed comments attributed to Foreign Minister Abbas Araqchi on Saturday that the proposal could be shortened.

Iran's Foreign Ministry spokesman Esmaeil Baghaei

"The basis of dialogue and talks between Iran and the US via mediators is still Iran's seven-steps proposal, which is now condensed, making it possible to implement it within two days," he said.

US President Donald Trump rejected the seven-step proposal in September.

The plan would call for the US to end its blockade on Iranian ports, Iran to reopen the Strait of Hormuz waterway, a US waiver on Iranian oil sales, the cancellation of new sanctions on Iran and then talks on other issues.

Baghaei reiterated condensing the plan would not change Iran's underlying stance that a return to talks on the country's nuclear programme could only happen after it verified that all its conditions were met.

Asked whether the possibility of transferring Iran's highly enriched uranium stockpile to another country was raised in the talks, and whether Iran might agree to that, he said no.

An official briefed on the talks said Iran's negotiators had left on Sunday but not because of any problems in the talks, and added that a draft proposal was being circulated without elaborating.

Meanwhile, China's Foreign Minister Wang Yi said Monday all parties to the conflict should focus on political solutions rather than resorting to arms again after a meeting with senior Iranian security official Ali Bagheri Kani in Beijing.

Trump's team takes Democratic bastion California ballot fight to SC

Reuters
November 2

PRESIDENT DONALD Trump's administration asked the US Supreme Court on Monday to temporarily block California from counting mail-in ballots from more than 20,000 registered voters who federal officials allege are likely non-US citizens.

Escalating a legal fight that could affect thousands of voters in the November 3 midterm elections, the Justice Department filed the emergency request as it seeks to prevent counting the disputed ballots until each voter's citizenship status can be verified.

A federal appeals court had refused the request on Friday. Trump's fellow Republicans are fighting to retain control of Congress in the midterms. California is the most populous US state and a Democratic stronghold.

The administration has intensified its focus on alleged non-citizen voting in the run-up to the midterms.

The US Constitution assigns the responsibility of administering elections to states, though the federal government has some oversight. The lawsuit marked a rare federal intervention in the voting process and signaled a willingness by the administration to contest the election results in court.

The administration already sought to restrict voting by mail — a mode of casting ballots used more often by Democratic-leaning voters — but the Supreme Court in September rebuffed that effort.

The list of 20,000 registered voters was amassed by the US Department of Homeland Security and sent to California officials and to Los Angeles County officials.

Binance sees $4.7 billion in withdrawals after heist raises security concerns

Singapore, Paris, November 2

BINANCE'S CUSTOMERS have withdrawn a net $4.72 billion from the world's biggest cryptocurrency exchange since it reopened, after hackers stole around $6.3 billion of crypto from the platform in what could be the largest financial heist in history.

The exchange froze withdrawals for about 48 hours after the hack, which which the FBI said was carried out by North Korea, then started allowing customers to withdraw again on Sunday .

The theft has underlined the vulnerability of digital assets to attacks and raised questions about the impact on Binance, which has vowed to repay customers in full, and on the wider market. Binance said the net outflows amounted to around 3% of assets on the platform, a relatively modest figure that analysts said suggested customer confidence had largely held up. The majority of the withdrawals from the platform were in form of Tether's USDT stablecoin, Binance added.

The outflow compares with about $7 billion withdrawn from Circle's USDC stablecoin over a week after the collapse of Silicon Valley Bank in 2023. Binance itself processed net outflows of about $6 billion over 72 hours in 2022 after the collapse of FTX .

The attack marks a step-up in North Korea's crypto thefts. Blockchain analytics firm TRM Labs said North Korea-linked hackers have stolen $7.4 billion so far in 2026.

Nepal investigating alleged conspiracy against Balen govt

Kathmandu, November 2

THE INVESTIGATION into the arrest of a former chief justice Cholendra Shumsher Rana in Nepal has widened, bringing politicians, judges, senior police officers, bureaucrats and businessmen under scrutiny over their alleged roles in business deals and policy decisions. Rana was arrested shortly after midnight on September 26. Following nationwide protests, the government released him, saying he had been taken into "protective custody" at his own request because he was receiving "threats" from certain quarters.

PM Balendra Shah has said that no guilty person will be spared. Investigating agencies have indicated that there was a plot to topple Shah government.

Bangladesh's garment factories shut again as wage protests turn violent

Dhaka, November 2

BANGLADESH'S GARMENT factories briefly resumed operations on Monday after a widespread shutdown a day earlier, but fresh clashes between workers and police forced hundreds of plants to suspend production again.

The unrest has raised concerns over shipment delays and buyer confidence in Bangladesh, a key supplier to brands including H&M, Zara, Walmart and Primark.

Workers demanding a minimum monthly wage of 30,000 taka ($243), up from 12,500 taka, blocked roads, vandalised factories and clashed with police prompting 679 factories to halt production.

In a bid to defuse the crisis, the government on Sunday formed a six-member wage board to review workers' demands, which have gained momentum amid persistent inflation and rising living costs.

Police said they used tear gas to disperse garment workers attempting to block roads in Dhaka after protesters hurled bricks and stones at officers. Unrest was also reported in Ashulia and Gazipur, two manufacturing hubs on the outskirts of the capital.

Police and industry officials said protesters set fire to a police vehicle and vandalised a number of factories. The clashes follow Sunday's protests and factory closures, with workers continuing to demand higher wages and resolution of employment grievances.

Fireball after Florida jet crash, 9 killed

A fireball rises into the sky as thick black smoke billows from the crash site after a Bahamas-bound Learjet 60 plunged into the ground at high speed and crashed in a residential area near a busy roadway in Palm Beach County, Florida, on Monday. All nine people aboard were killed, officials said. AP

2 dead, 20 hurt in stampede at Pak social media influencer's wedding

Lahore: Two people were killed and over twenty others sustained injuries in a stampede in Pakistan's Punjab province after a large crowd rushed to enter a wedding venue to collect cash and other prizes announced by a social media influencer, an official said on Monday.

The incident occurred on Saturday evening at Faraz Sports Stadium in Sialkot, about 100 kilometres from capital Lahore.

According to police, TikToker Anser Mahmood, also known as Mr Patlo, leveraged his social media platform to invite the public to his mehndi ceremony, offering prizes as an incentive.

Police officer Dost Muhammad confirmed that six suspects have been arrested after a case was registered against nine named individuals, including TikToker Mahmood, and 45 unidentified people.

Two people, identified as Rehan and Adeel, were killed in the stampede and more than two dozen others suffered injuries, he said. The FIR cites multiple offences, including death by negligence, violation of official directives, property damage, and unlawful assembly.

TikToker Mahmood used social media to invite the public to his mehndi ceremony, promising massive giveaways including 20 million Pakistani rupees in cash, a car, 50 motorcycles, mobile phones, and other luxury gifts, according to police officer Dost Muhammad. PTI

HACKERS SEIZE CONTROL OF FRIDGES AT HUNDREDS OF SUPERMARKETS, RAISING TEMPERATURES AS HIGH AS 50 DEGREES CELSIUS, CAUSING FIRES & FOOD LOSSES

Hackers turn up the heat on Europe's supermarket chillers — again

Stockholm, Brussels, November 2

A HACKING attack on European supermarkets spread across the continent on Monday, hitting fridges and freezers from Sweden to Belgium and forcing stores to throw away food in an incident that echoed a similar attack in France last month.

The attack, which raised temperatures in refrigerator and freezer units at dozens of stores, hit supermarket groups Ahold Delhaize and Colruyt in Belgium and Luxembourg, as well as Swedish grocers ICA and Coop. Furniture-to-meatballs retailer IKEA also saw at least one store affected.

"Everything is destroyed," Engla Ingwall, sales manager at an ICA franchise store in Stockholm, told Reuters during a visit to the store on Monday, adding the attack occurred at 2 am but was only noticed hours later.

"There has been a cyberattack and all our freezers reached 50 degrees (Celsius)."

A spokesperson for privately held ICA said the company was aware that a "limited number of stores were affected by an incident overnight, which impacted their refrigeration and freezer systems".

The latest incidents follow an attack in France last month when police said hackers seized control of cooling units at hundreds of supermarkets, causing fires and food losses.

A sign reads 'all of our freezers are broken due to a cyberattack' at a supermarket in Stockholm, Sweden, on Monday. REUTERS

While no one has claimed responsibility for either attack, the incidents have heightened concerns among European authorities about hybrid threats to infrastructure amid growing security tensions since Russia's 2022 invasion of Ukraine.

Moscow has repeatedly denied involvement in sabotage or hybrid warfare operations. Reuters could not establish who was behind Monday's attacks or whether they were linked to the incidents in France.

"It is not known who is behind this attack, and it may never be determined," said Katrien Eggers, spokesperson for Belgium's Centre for Cybersecurity, adding she was concerned about the growing number of incidents, in part due to AI.

"All IT systems are potentially vulnerable, and AI can now be used to successfully exploit these weaknesses — especially by sophisticated actors," she said.

From refrigerators and heating systems to security cameras and alarms, an expanding range of devices once largely mechanical can now be monitored and controlled remotely, creating new opportunities for cybercriminals.

At least some of the refrigerator units affected on Monday used temperature control technology from Danish firm Danfoss that was also targeted in the French attack. The firm said it had been working with customers to implement fixes.

The European Commission said the latest incidents highlighted how digital threats are becoming increasingly disruptive.

"They are a deliberate attempt to disrupt our food supply chain and undermine consumers' confidence in it – a warning that we must take seriously," said EU commissioner for agriculture Christophe Hansen.

In Ireland, wholesaler Musgrave said the incident affected systems in 13 of its SuperValu stores, forcing it to remove some chilled and frozen products from sale. "Our monitoring systems alerted and we took immediate actionOur investigation is ongoing," it said.

FM open to investor concerns, weighs case for foreign capital

Says Tata Group a 'critical component of economy', conflict a 'delicate matter', expect it not to spill in public domain

Prasanta Sahu
Mumbai, November 2

UNION FINANCE Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Monday acknowledged growing anxiety among retail investors and equity market participants over stretched Indian stock valuations and the capital gains tax regime, and said their concerns would be considered. She, however, cautioned against viewing tax concessions as the principal driver of capital market performance.

Her remarks come amid renewed calls for a review of long-term capital gains (LTCG) tax on equities against the backdrop of sustained foreign portfolio investor (FPI) outflows and concerns over the relative attractiveness of Indian stocks.

Sitharaman, who was the chief guest at the inaugural Financial Express Leadership Awards in Mumbai, made the remarks at a 'fireside chat' with Financial Express Editor Shyamal Majumdar.

Ahead of her 10th consecutive Union Budget, likely to be presented on February 1, Sitharaman said the government would hear stakeholders before deciding on any possible action, indicating that their representations would be taken into account.

"I realise the sensitivity and anxiety prevailing among retail investors, especially equity participants, while not being biased either way," she said.

Pointing out that India witnessed strong FPI inflows with the same capital gains tax structure in 2023-24, she said capital markets thrive on strong fundamentals, not necessarily on tax sops. She, however, acknowledged that circumstances had since changed and challenges had grown, and referred to the net FPI outflows over the past few quarters, even as flows may have turned around only recently.

"The stakeholders are voicing their concerns louder. I will consider all this," she said.

Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman at the Financial Express Leadership Awards in Mumbai, Monday. AMIT CHAKRAVARTY

Sustaining economic growth at 7% or above remained paramount, Sitharaman said, underlining that "for that, we need capital". While policy attention in recent years had focused on deepening India's underdeveloped corporate bond market, she acknowledged the need to address concerns in the equity market as well. "Equity market also needs support, I recognise that voice," she reiterated.

Asked whether foreign capital needed a red carpet to attract inflows, Sitharaman cautioned against a policy approach that could be seen as favouring one class of investors over another. "If you pitch for dollar (investors), what about rupee (domestic) investors?" she asked. "Hear all the stakeholders, what the government can really do, and we'll do that. First, hear them, and then see what we can act on," she said.

Pay and play: SAI pulled fund support while Sindhu, Sen won badminton titles

Shocked... not faced this before: Sindhu

P V SINDHU and Lakshya Sen gave Indian badminton two reasons to celebrate on Sunday, winning the singles titles at the Hylo Open in Saarbrucken, Germany. But weeks earlier, the country's shuttlers had been left to finance their European campaign themselves after funding support was withdrawn at the last minute over an administrative tussle.

The Indian Express has learnt that the Sports Authority of India (SAI) declined to fund the Indian contingent's European swing, comprising four consecutive tournaments in Finland, Denmark, France and Germany. Sources said the players were informed of the decision just days before the Arctic Open began on October 6 in Vantaa, Finland.

"When I got to know, I was a bit shocked and wondered how the funding hadn't gone through. I hadn't faced something like that before," Sindhu told The Indian Express from Saarbrucken.

"But at that point, I couldn't really decide that if there was no funding, I wouldn't play. For me, the priority was to participate and focus on what I needed to do, how I needed to play my matches and keep on improving. Obviously, it was surprising that we couldn't get the funding, whatever the reason may have been. I managed the funding on my own a bit and OGQ (Olympic Gold Quest, her backers) also helped me in this," Sindhu said.

SHOW BIG HEART: COURT TO FRRO

OCIs don't have right to protest, says HC; Imran Khan says sorry

Actor Imran Khan

Omkar Gokhale

SAYING THAT Overseas Citizen of India (OCI) cardholders don't have "any right to criticise the country" and such actions "cannot be tolerated", the Bombay High Court on Monday asked actor Imran Khan, a US citizen, to submit an "unconditional apology" and "categorical undertaking" that he would not participate in future protests. The court said it could then ask the authorities to adopt a "lenient approach".

Khan, represented by Senior Advocate Venkatesh Dhond, submitted the undertaking and unconditional apology. "I am volunteering to give the present undertaking that there will be no participation by me in any protests in the future," he said, adding that he would "not join or indirectly influence others to protest in future". The undertaking, filed through advocates Zulfiquar Memon, Parvez Memon and Chirag Naik of MZM Legal, noted that he has lived in India for the past 42 years, has "utmost love" for the country, and his "life, profession and affiliation are all confined to this great nation".

Convene meeting of legislators on Tuesday: NCP top body to Sunetra

New Delhi, Mumbai, November 2

A GROUP of senior Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) leaders met Union Home Minister Amit Shah in Delhi late Sunday night to discuss the possibility of a merger with the rival NCP led by Sharad Pawar.

The NCP old guard that met Shah in Delhi is in favour of the merger and wants the possibility to be explored even if Maharashtra Deputy Chief Minister Sunetra Pawar and her son, Parth Pawar, a Rajya Sabha MP, are not on board, The Indian Express has learnt. At a meeting of the NCP core committee in Mumbai on Monday,

BJP cautious

The BJP is guarded and treading cautiously on the NCP issue as it does not want to upset its own cadre and old-timers in Maharashtra. In the past, the BJP leadership has received complaints about the party's 'organic leaders' being sidelined because of the power-sharing agreement in place in the state.

Two brothers behind cheetah shooting, held, weapon recovered: STF

Accused had gone hunting, no link to illegal wildlife trade network: Probe

Nikhil Ghanekar
New Delhi, November 2

THE 19-MONTH-OLD male cheetah that died last week was shot by two brothers who had gone hunting in a forest in Sheopur district of Madhya Pradesh, the Special Task Force (STF) investigating the matter said on Monday.

The two men, identified as Bhagwan Singh and Pritam Singh, have since been arrested and a traditional bharmar, a double-barrel muzzle-loading firearm, has been recovered, the STF said in a press note. It said the investigation so far does not indicate the involvement of any illegal wildlife

MAHARASHTRA GOVT SAYS WORKING TO RESOLVE ISSUE

Suicides 'linked' to unpaid bills of contractors, association seeks action

Chandan Haygunde
Jarud (Amravati), November 2

SUNIL WAGADRE (52) in Amravati district on October 8, 2026; Gajanan Devkatte (36) in Navi Mumbai on August 25, 2026; P V Verma (63) in Nagpur on September 1, 2025; Harshal Patil (35) in Sangli on July 23, 2025.

All four died by suicide, and their families say the common thread was severe financial stress over pending bills for work done for the Maharashtra government: Rs 2.5 crore for Wagadre, Rs 40 crore for Verma, Rs 60 lakh for Patil and Rs 2.5 crore for Devkatte.

The four families are left with one question: will they get justice?

On Monday, a group of agitated civil contractors in Maharashtra performed a symbolic "Tervi" — the 13th-day ritual after death — of the state government outside the Public Works Department (PWD) office in Amravati to register their distress over unpaid dues.

ENDURANCE RACE INVOLVES 1.9-KM SWIM, 90-KM CYCLING RIDE, AND A 21.1-KM RUN

At 57, Kerala HC judge completes Ironman: 'Cut down on my sleep, not work'

Pavneet Singh Chadha
Panaji, November 2

"IF YOU want to attain your goal, you will have to overcome and embrace the pain, and not fight it."

As he crossed the finishing line of the Ironman 70.3 held in Goa on Sunday, Kerala High Court judge Justice Bechu Kurian Thomas remembered these words vividly.

Justice Thomas, 57, competed in the Males 55-59 age category, completing the race in eight hours, 46 minutes and 44 seconds.

The Ironman 70.3 Goa is a triathlon endurance race that involves a 1.9-km swim, a 90-km cycling ride, and a 21.1-km run.

Justice Thomas first heard of the race two years ago, when his son competed in it in Goa. "I saw him train. I can say he was my inspiration to do Ironman," he told The Indian Express.

"I have always been interested in sports. But after becoming a judge, I lost out on the health front. Sitting 16-18 hours a day was actually taking a toll on my health," he said. "Occasionally, we have a cricket tournament for judges. We had a shuttle tournament recently, where I was the champion in the singles and doubles category. That probably gave me a feeling that I can compete (in Ironman). And so, I thought it's time to get back in shape," he said.

For the judge, time management was a primary concern. "I was handling one of the heaviest jurisdictions in the court – Writ Petition Miscellaneous. Finding time for the training was difficult. I cut down on my sleep... to gain time for training," he said. "I do not have any single backlog. Not a single case."

"I always say it's all in the mind. We are all busy. And it's an excuse that we can always come up with — to say we don't have the time. But life begins when fear ends."

Justice Thomas started training for the endurance race on April 21, a few days after his son got married. "Three days after my son's wedding, I went for my first swim. The court was on vacation, so I thought, 'Why not give it a try?'"

Kerala High Court judge Justice Bechu Kurian Thomas during the Ironman 70.3 in Goa on Sunday

On the first day, he barely managed to swim 50 metres. But he continued to train for 3-4 weeks, swimming every alternate day.

"After the court resumed, it was tough to find the time to train. But, either late in the day or early in the morning, I would train," he said.

He refused invitations to social engagements to accommodate his training schedule. "I cut down on all social functions, did not attend any speeches or inaugurations... and focused solely on training. On the weekends, I devoted extra hours to running, swimming and cycling. I got one cycle for training inside the house," he said.

Justice Thomas said the path has not been easy, given his history of injuries. "I had surgery on my knee for a meniscus tear a decade ago; I have a varicose vein. I had two meniscus tears last year, and I have not done anything about it. I have got an Achilles tendon rupture. One is wary about injuries, and one has doubts," he said.

During training, Justice Thomas suffered a muscle tear on his calf, and doctors asked him to stop training and to rest. "I consulted another doctor, who advised knee surgery, saying it could worsen. But I always felt that the body would adapt."

Three weeks later, Justice Thomas went on a small run and did not feel any pain. "Slowly, I learnt to manage the pain. I embraced the pain and kept telling myself that unless I overcome the pain, I will succumb to it. If you want to attain your goals, you need to overcome pain and embrace it. Don't fight it," he said.

After a three-week break to recover, Justice Thomas started training again. "I went for my first swim and felt a slight niggle. The next day, I swam for the first time in the ocean for 1.8 km in 49 minutes.

FM open to investor concerns

Analysts attribute the FPI pullout partly to stretched valuations of Indian stocks and weaker earnings growth, while some also flag LTCG taxation as a factor affecting investor sentiment. Alternative investment avenues have remained attractive to foreign capital, with the yield on the US 10-year Treasury, for instance, hovering around 5% in recent weeks.

On the ongoing differences within the Tata Group, Sitharaman described it as a "delicate matter", expressing the hope that the dispute would be resolved amicably without government intervention at this stage.

Praising the Parsi community's role in building the Tata Group into a global brand, she highlighted the conglomerate's wide-ranging business interests and the scale of its investments. Describing the group as a "critical component" of the Indian economy, she said she expected normalcy to be restored at the earliest, without allowing the conflict to spill into the public domain. She also expressed the expectation that commercial wisdom and business acumen would prevail in resolving the differences.

"I wouldn't readily say (anything at this point)," the minister said.

Her remarks come in the backdrop of differences between Tata Sons and its controlling shareholder, Tata Trusts, over the reappointment of N Chandrasekaran as chairman and whether the holding company should go public. The board's decision on September 17 to grant Chandrasekaran another five-year term, despite objections from Tata Trusts chairman Noel Tata, has triggered a governance dispute. While conciliatory efforts are reportedly under way, the next Tata Sons board meeting, scheduled for November 26, could emerge as a key flashpoint.

Separately, Sitharaman criticised the Opposition over its protests and allegations against the government on Sunday, accusing it of undermining parliamentary processes and creating an impression of instability. She said the Opposition should hold the government accountable through debates in Parliament rather than resorting to street protests and mock Parliaments.

"To be in the Opposition and put the government on the mat to answer questions is absolutely right. I'm not against that. I would want more of that to happen in Parliament rather than in mock Parliaments," she said. "You (Congress party) are the Opposition, with 100 MPs elected by the people of India to function in Parliament, and you resort to mock Parliament."

Turning to the forthcoming Budget, Sitharaman said the responsibility of delivering a Budget that makes a difference to people's lives remained paramount. Bridging the skills gap among young job seekers, accelerating private investment and strengthening the contribution of micro, small and medium enterprises (MSMEs) would remain important priorities as India works towards Viksit Bharat, she said.

As she prepares to present her 10th consecutive Budget, Sitharaman said the milestone brought with it an overwhelming sense of responsibility rather than personal achievement. "It's always an overwhelming feeling of the responsibility to deliver a proper Budget, which means a lot to the people, helps growth and faces the challenges," she said.

She credited the policy direction of successive Budgets and the stability provided by Prime Minister Narendra Modi's leadership for helping the economy navigate challenges. Every Budget, she said, had benefited from the experience gained through implementation, public feedback and consultations at different levels of government. "The responsibility to deliver something that will make a difference to people's lives is what is at the top of my mind," she said.

On employment, Sitharaman said the government would continue to focus on skilling to bridge the gap between employers' expectations and the capabilities of young job seekers. "Training youth and giving them the skill sets so that they are job-ready is what we want to spend time on," she said, adding that the government had already begun to address the issue through its previous two Budgets.

On private investment, the minister said she was beginning to see industry come forward with fresh investments, marking a shift from her earlier assessment that companies were holding back despite strong balance sheets. She attributed the improvement partly to the next-generation GST reforms, which, she said, had strengthened consumption and made demand more visible to businesses. "Industry today has the confidence that it can see demand in the market. It can invest and produce, and therefore reach the level it wants to reach," she said.

Citing the October GST collection, which she described as the highest, Sitharaman said domestic consumption was holding up the economy and giving companies greater confidence to expand capacity. "Consumption having really come up has given that clear visibility, and therefore, I'm seeing investments happening from the private sector," she said.

Responding to concerns that India's economy was increasingly dominated by a handful of large business groups, Sitharaman pointed to the growth of MSMEs and startups as evidence that expansion was taking place across different layers of industry.

She also urged industry to maintain regular engagement with the government rather than limiting its interaction to annual pre-Budget consultations. "They are welcome to ask the government for anything they want," she said. "But after that, I would also want them to keep engaging with us to say whether they're moving forward or not. Are there more troubles? Are there more challenges? That interaction should be active and live," she said.

On regulatory reforms, Sitharaman said the government was taking the Economic Survey's observations seriously and working with states to address industry concerns. Procurement rules, tender conditions and project execution requirements were being reviewed to improve transparency and ease of doing business, she said.

Reiterating the government's policymaking approach, she said trust in businesses, industry and taxpayers would remain central. "Whichever policy we make, trust the business, trust the industry, trust the taxpayer. That will be our charter," she said.

NCP explores merger

Sunetra Pawar was urged to convene a meeting of the party's legislators Tuesday to discuss the matter.

NCP insiders said the lack of "collective leadership" in the party was one of the issues discussed with Shah in the meeting at his official residence. The Home Minister is learnt to have told the NCP leaders that their party's organisational weakening was adversely affecting the Mahayuti alliance government in Maharashtra. The NCP delegation included senior leaders Sunil Tatkare, Praful Patel, Dhananjay Munde, Hasan Mushrif, Chhagan Bhujbal, Sameer Bhujbal, and Dilip Walse-Patil.

"While the issue of lack of collective leadership within the party was discussed, they (the delegation) were told that NCP leaders need to ensure smooth functioning of the party. These leaders were told that the problems within the NCP were not harming only them. Being in Mahayuti, it is affecting the ruling alliance as a whole. If these issues are not resolved, then the alliance will face problems," said a source in the NCP privy to the discussions.

The NCP core committee, which met at Sunetra Pawar's residence in Mumbai in the evening, urged the Deputy CM to convene a meeting of the party's MLAs Tuesday to "understand their sentiments" and decide the next course of action.

While the NCP denied a rift and said the merger issue was "over", the NCP (SP) said it had not been approached.

"We only discussed how to work collectively under the leadership of Sunetra Pawar. The issue of merger is already over. This stance was earlier put forth by Sharad Pawar's party as well, and we have also clarified our position," said Tatkare, the NCP's Maharashtra president.

"It is highly unfortunate that unnecessary political colour is being given to today's meeting in Delhi between Union Home Minister Amit Shah and senior leaders of the NCP, attempting to fabricate a narrative of internal differences," said NCP national spokesperson Umesh Patil. The meeting had been fixed during Sunetra Pawar's meeting with the Home Minister in October, he claimed.

The NCP (Sharadchandra Pawar) said it does not know about a merger. "Nobody has approached us, nobody has talked of a merger," said a senior party leader.

BJP insiders said the party was keen on the NCP reuniting and joining the NDA as it would help the alliance consolidate non-Brahmin and Maratha votes in Maharashtra. The party is learnt to have offered two Union Cabinet berths to balance the power equations between the two NCPs.

However, the "ambitions" of certain leaders were proving to be a hurdle, said BJP sources. They said Parth wants his mother to get the Maharashtra Finance portfolio, a post that his father, the late Ajit Pawar, held in the Devendra Fadnavis government. He is also learnt to have expressed the desire to be the NCP national president. However, Tatkare, NCP's working president Praful Patel, and Chhagan Bhujbal want the power-sharing to be more inclusive.

The NCP joined the Mahayuti after Ajit Pawar broke ranks with Sharad Pawar, his uncle, in July 2023. However, the party leadership has been at odds since Ajit Pawar died in a plane crash this January. The old guard is unhappy with the party's functioning under Sunetra Pawar and Parth. Recently, both Patel and Tatkare publicly called for introspection following the party's defeat in the Legislative Council elections. Chhagan Bhujbal is learnt to be miffed about not being consulted on the appointment of MLC Zeeshan Siddique as Mumbai NCP chief, while Walse-Patil and Munde have not been accommodated in the state Cabinet despite vacancies. In the MLC elections, Mushrif was asked to give up his claim on the Pune graduates seat and the ticket went to the BJP instead of his trusted aide Bhaiyya Mane.

Pay and play

capacities told The Indian Express that they believed the funding withdrawal was linked to India's performance at the Asian Games. The Indian shuttlers had a below-par campaign in Aichi-Nagoya, returning without an individual medal for the first time since 2014.

"This is the first time such a thing has happened. There was no official communication explaining why this step was taken. It is suspected that the decision is linked to performance because, in terms of budget, it is not the case that the badminton federation has exceeded the limit," sources said.

However, a senior SAI official categorically denied that the funding cut was linked to performance, attributing the non-release of funds to the failure of Badminton Association of India (BAI) to submit its proposal within the stipulated timeline.

"Earlier, the rules required federations to submit proposals 90 days in advance without names and 60 days in advance with the names. This was primarily because you could plan your trip well in advance. But the federation said it could not do it that early, so we revised the deadline to 30 days. Even then, we did not receive the proposal. These new guidelines apply to everybody. If we don't have the proposal with the names 30 days before a tournament, we will not process it," the official said.

The official said funding for upcoming tournaments will be restored but the shuttlers will not be reimbursed for expenses incurred over the past four weeks.

BAI general secretary Sanjay Mishra did not respond to calls or messages seeking comment. It is learnt that the BAI informed the players about the funding cut through a WhatsApp message. The federation said it would provide accommodation for the first tournament in Finland, but that players would have to bear the costs of travel, food, accommodation and other expenses for the rest.

The financial constraints also meant that some players had to compete without their coaches. During the French Open, for instance, Ashmita Chaliha had fellow player Isharani Baruah in her corner while beating Akane Yamaguchi, effectively doubling up as her coach. Tanvi Sharma, who reached the quarterfinals in Denmark, also had no coach to guide her during a match.

"The situation arose because of the funding cut. Who would bear the coach's costs? The players couldn't afford to pay for their coaches when they had to take care of their own expenses," the sources said.

While a 26-member Indian contingent competed at the Arctic Open in Finland without any withdrawals, six players pulled out of the Denmark Open in Odense, seven from the French Open in Paris the following week and nine from the Hylo Open last week.

Despite the financial uncertainty, Indian shuttlers produced notable performances on the European circuit. Sindhu made the final of the S750 French Open losing only to An Se-young, while Ashmita stunned World No. 3 Yamaguchi at the French Open. Anmol Kharb, meanwhile, made the semifinals of the Hylo Open. Sen ended his year-long title drought by winning the men's singles crown, while Sindhu claimed her second title of the year. It was the first time since 2017 that she had won two BWF Super 500 or higher titles in a calendar year.

The Hylo Open triumph also boosted Sindhu's prospects of qualifying for the season-ending BWF World Tour Finals, while taking her back to No.6 in the world rankings. "For me, the focus was on how I could improve my performance. That was the most important thing at the end of the day. See, these things keep happening, but they shouldn't stop us," Sindhu said.

The HC was hearing Khan's plea against the Leave India Notice issued by the Foreigners Regional Registration Office (FRRO) on October 14, days after he was detained at a protest against Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) Gyanesh Kumar in Mumbai on October 10.

While the FRRO notice asked Khan to leave India by October 28, the court, last week, kept it in abeyance until November 2. On Monday, the court put the notice in abeyance until the next hearing on December 7.

"In the meantime, we expect that he would reside in India as a law-abiding person, not associating/ indulging in any activities/ protest, rights which are available to the citizen/s of this country under the Constitution," the HC noted in its order.

During the hearing on Monday, the bench of Chief Justice Mahesh Chandra Tripathi and Justice Advait M Sethna also questioned the FRRO and orally remarked that Khan should have been given "at least an opportunity" to present his side before being issued the Leave India Notice.

Addressing Khan, Chief Justice Tripathi said in oral remarks: "You have to give a categorical undertaking that you will not participate in any such agitation because it is not available to the OCI card(holders). You cannot behave like an Indian citizen... because you are not even remotely affected to that cause. Therefore, you had no right at all to participate in this."

"You had no role at all in the agitation of SIR (Special Intensive Revision of electoral rolls). You are not even remotely concerned with that...You cannot be put at par with Indian citizens. (An) unconditional apology has to be there if you have made certain statement inadvertently. That's all and it would suffice, and we accordingly can direct the State to have some lenient approach," he said.

"Prima facie, there can be no quarrel with the proposition that the rights of an OCI cardholder and an Indian citizen operate in distinct and different spheres," the bench noted in its order, adding that the OCI document issued to Khan in December 2025 mentioned his occupation as "searching for job".

"The State, in exercise of its sovereign functions, would have the right to deport a person out of India in a given case," the bench noted. It sought the Centre's affidavit "further clarifying this aspect" and making clear its stand.

The bench also said that "mere tendering of an unconditional apology... is not a green signal for you (Khan) to venture (into) all these things". "This activity is permissible in USA, where you can go and cast your vote too, but so far in India, you have to abide with the law and order. Because it's a very serious matter. Would an Indian doing this in another country be permissible?," it said.

"Since your childhood, you are here in India, (you) work here, why don't you accept Indian citizenship? You are a celebrity... See the magnanimity of the country that, despite you being a US citizen, all recognition and employment is from India, in Maharashtra...," Chief Justice Tripathi said.

Additional Solicitor General (ASG) Anil Singh, who represented the FRRO, argued that an undertaking would set a wrong precedent and the Centre had "unfettered rights to deport the petitioner". However, the bench said that Khan should have been given an opportunity to present his side before being issued the Leave India Notice.

"OCI cardholders cannot be put at parity with Indian citizens. They are at the mercy of the sovereign, and they have no right at all to stay here and criticise the country. This cannot be tolerated... Even though you (FRRO) have complete power, but you acted in a certain situation, and once it (the situation) goes, your decision would be different. So, for a person who is here for last so many years... we have to be Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam (world is one family). You have to show a big heart," Chief Justice Tripathi told Singh.

Cheetah shooting

trade or organised wildlife crime network.

The cheetah, KNG-22, was found injured outside Kuno National Park on October 25. It died during surgery two days later. Five pellets, identified as being consistent with those used in muzzle-loading firearms, were recovered from its body.

The Madhya Pradesh government had set up a four-member STF, comprising forest and police personnel, to probe the incident. The STF said it relied on an informer network, and also carried out a search operation in the forests with the help of a dog squad.

Based on information obtained during the investigation, ground verification and analysis, Bhagwan Singh, a resident of Navalpura-Behrara village in Morena district, was arrested on October 31. According to the STF, Bhagwan Singh revealed during questioning that he and his brother, Pritam Singh, had gone hunting in the forest near Nitanwas village, in Sheopur district, when they saw a cheetah moving in the area.

"He fired at the wild cat with their licensed Topidar Bharmar rifle and then fled the scene," the STF said. Based on Bhagwan Singh's statement, his brother Pritam Singh was also taken into custody. Investigators later took the accused to the site and recovered the weapon from a forest area in Morena district, the STF said.

A case has been registered against the accused under the Wildlife (Protection) Act, 1972, relating to sections prohibiting hunting of Schedule I species which are accorded the highest protection, and penalties for violating those provisions.

State forest department officials said that the shooting seemed to be a case of "opportunistic hunting". Madhya Pradesh Chief Wildlife Warden Sameeta Rajora could not be reached for comment.

During the probe into the cheetah's death, investigators had questioned around 20 people and searched houses in the Morena-Sheopur region. They also examined data from KNG-22's radio collar to reconstruct its movements.

The Union Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change has also constituted a three-member team, comprising officials from the National Tiger Conservation Authority and the Wildlife Crime Control Bureau, to examine the circumstances of the incident and security arrangements for cheetahs moving outside protected areas.

Suicides 'linked' to unpaid bills

Contractors Association (MSCA) claims nine contractors have died in the last year-and-a-half because of pending government dues, which it puts at Rs 90,000 crore, mainly for projects sanctioned during 2022-23 and 2023-24. The state government says it is working to resolve the issue but pegs the pending amount at Rs 17,000 crore, of which Rs 6,200 crore has been "cleared".

According to Ujjwal Pande, Amravati district president of the State Engineers Association, a year before the November 2024 state elections, the Maharashtra government released work orders amounting to four times the available funds. He alleged that every contractor gets a work order only after paying about 10 per cent of its amount as "commission".

The contractors also question the government's spending on the flagship Ladki Bahin scheme, launched ahead of the polls, while ignoring their dues. Opposition leaders, such as MLA Rohit Pawar of NCP-SP, have also claimed the government is clearing the bills of contractors from Gujarat and Andhra Pradesh while the dues of local Marathi contractors remain unpaid.

Speaking to The Indian Express, Maharashtra PWD Minister Shivendraraje Bhosale said, "The government makes the payment to principal contractors. Sub-contractors are not registered with us. Bills of Rs 17,000 crore were pending with PWD. Of these, we have cleared Rs 6,200 crore so far, ensuring that all small contractors having pending bills of less than Rs 1 crore got their dues."

However, the contractors say much more needs to be done. During statewide protests on October 19, they arranged a mock funeral of the state government in Amravati, calling Maharashtra a financially "dead" state. The "Tervi" ritual followed on Monday.

At Jarud village in Warud taluka of Amravati district, Varsha Wagadre sat beside her husband's garlanded photograph with a vacant look in her eyes. Her husband Sunil, a licensed contractor, took his life in his agricultural field in the village on the evening of October 8, when Varsha had gone out with their son, 13, and daughter, 19. Varsha says he was under huge stress because, even after completing government projects in 2023-24, his bills of approximately Rs 2.5 crore were unpaid.

"He demanded his money several times, but did not get it. A man with immense self-respect, he finally took the extreme step. Now I just want the government to return my husband," Varsha told The Indian Express.

Wagadre left a suicide note asking his nephew and colleague Ghanshyam to shoulder the family's responsibilities and sell some of the property to clear a bank loan, a gold loan and other debts. Ghanshyam said Sunil "desperately wanted the government to clear his bills". Sunil had also participated in the "Bheek Maango Andolan" organised by contractors in Nagpur in August 2025.

According to Wagadre's family, he was a licensed contractor who also took up a subcontract from a construction firm, which was the main contractor for road and bridge construction related to a work order dated October 7, 2024.

P V Verma, also known as "Munna" Verma, died by suicide at his residence in Raj Nagar, Nagpur. His family and the contractors claimed that his dues of Rs 40 crore for completing various government projects were pending.

Following the death, Nagpur police arrested three persons: NCP-SP politician Sharad Maind of Pusad Urban Co-operative Bank, an alleged illegal money lender Manjeet Singh Wade, and another contractor, Radheshyam Biyani. Police alleged that they were part of a nexus that provided high-interest loans to people like Verma and then exerted pressure for repayments.

Harshal Patil died by suicide at his farm land at Tandulwadi village in the Walwa taluka of Sangli district. His family member Prakash Sankpal said he was not a licensed contractor but worked with a few other contractors, and was owed about Rs 60 lakh for work, such as laying a pipeline and constructing a water tank.

Sankpal said Harshal had taken loans to complete the work and could not repay them. He is survived by his wife and a daughter. About Rs 3.8 lakh were cleared after his death, but the remaining bills are pending, Sankpal said.

Gajanan Devkatte left no suicide note when he died at his house in Ulwe. His family says he took the final step after failing to recover dues of Rs 2.5 crore for government work completed over the last three years. He is survived by his wife Sheetal, two children and an ailing mother.

Sheetal has filed a complaint at the Ulwe police station, blaming a few government officials for allegedly taking a bribe from her husband to clear his bill, and then avoiding him. Police Inspector Arjun Rajane said, "The probe revealed that Gajanan Devkatte was not a licensed contractor. He was working through a subcontractor. We have received a complaint from his wife with allegations of bribery, but so far there is no evidence to prove it. The inquiry is ongoing."

Sheetal cited a letter titled "Amhi Jagave Kase... (How should we live?)", which her husband submitted to authorities in the Mumbai City division on July 4, 2025. In it, he wrote about unpaid bills of small contractors and said, "We visit every sub-division to seek work, but get nothing. Nobody sees anything beyond money..."

Dipesh Kolurwar, a member of MSCA in Nagpur, said Verma mortgaged some of his properties and took loans from financial institutions and illegal money lenders to complete the work in time. "Had the government paid his bills, he would have survived," he said.

MSCA president Milind Bhosale said that of the Rs 90,000 crore owed, about Rs 38,000 crore are pending dues for Jal Jeevan Mission work and Rs 27,000 crore are unpaid bills at the PWD.

"There are many contractors who have taken loans, borrowed money to manage expenses, pay labourers, buy materials, to complete the government works in time. Their bills have not been cleared since 2022. Now they are unable to handle the mounting financial pressure," said Bhosale.

ED tightens noose, four Patnitop hotels attached

Arun Sharma
Jammu, November 2

THE ENFORCEMENT Directorate (ED) said Monday it had provisionally attached four hotels at the hill resort of Patnitop in J&K's Udhampur district under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA).

Valued at nearly Rs 10.66 crore, the properties include hotel buildings and the land on which they stand, an ED spokesperson said. Earlier, the ED had issued two provisional attachment orders in 2025, attaching properties worth approximately Rs 30.72 crore in the same case.

The ED initiated its investigation based on an FIR registered by the CBI's Anti-Corruption Bureau (ACB), Jammu, against owners and directors of hotels, guest houses, resorts, cottages and residential properties in the Patnitop area, as well as officials of the Patnitop Development Authority (PDA).

The allegations relate to the commercial use of residential buildings, construction beyond approved limits and operation of commercial establishments in prohibited areas, including dense forest, agricultural and residential zones. The investigation also revealed alleged lapses by PDA officials in ensuring compliance with prescribed rules and regulations, the spokesperson said.

In 2023, the CBI had filed six chargesheets against eight hotel owners associated with six hotels and several PDA officials under various provisions of the Jammu and Kashmir Prevention of Corruption Act, Ranbir Penal Code, Registration of Tourist Trade Act, and Jammu and Kashmir Forest Act.

At 57, HC judge completes Ironman: 'Cut down on my sleep, not work'

So, I realised that I am on target and swimming was perhaps my strength," he said.

However, that evening, he developed pain in his shoulder, which doctors said was a muscle tear. He was advised to rest and recover. "This was a month before the race. Slowly, I started cycling again and went for short runs. I would feel pain, but I took a rest and recovered."

Just a week before the race, he considered withdrawing from the event. "Last week, I tried swimming for 300 metres and felt pain. I thought I would withdraw and did not know whether I would be able to compete... but then again, I kept telling myself that it is better to try it and not be able to finish, rather than not trying at all," he said.

"I told my family if the pain comes back, I will stop swimming wherever I am, and will just float and come back. Fortunately, I did not feel the pain that day, and everything went off well," Justice Thomas said.

Justice Thomas said his aim was to finish the race in eight hours, 29 minutes and 59 seconds. "I overshot that by over 16 minutes. I want to do it again and better my timing. I lost time during the transitions, from swimming to cycling and cycling to running. I should have been a little wary about transitions," he said.

"But as a first-time participant, I just wanted to complete it. I was not looking for any podium finish. I wanted to just complete it for my own satisfaction," he said.

On how he changed his diet in preparation for the race, Justice Thomas said, "For the past year, I have been consuming only four eggs in the morning. From 97 kg, I came down to 86 kg. For lunch, I had two chapatis and chicken. I started having an early dinner, which had only protein. That has been my diet for the last six months, except for the occasional cheat day."

STIR AGAINST TRANSFER OF TWO POLICE OFFICERS FOLLOWING A SCUFFLE WITH LAWYERS LAST MONTH

'Don't behave like protesters': Delhi Police sees protest within own ranks

Sakshi Chand

ABHINAV SAHA

Police personnel protest outside the headquarters on Monday.

UNPRECEDENTED SCENES were witnessed outside the Delhi Police Headquarters (PHQ) on Monday as around 100 personnel protested the transfer of two police officers following a scuffle with lawyers on October 24 as seniors tried to persuade them to call it off.

The protest began outside Gate No.1 at 8.30 am. Soon after, DCP (New Delhi) Sachin Sharma reached the spot and spoke to Assistant Commissioner of Police (ACP) Manasvi Vashistha — one of the officers who was transferred — urging him not to stage a protest. He also urged personnel to maintain discipline and not behave like protesters.

Negotiations and demands

The personnel initially refused to go inside the PHQ and meet senior officers, before agreeing to wait until noon, saying more personnel were on their way. Around 11.45 am, the protesters were taken to the Adarsh Auditorium where Police Commissioner Anurag Kumar and other senior officers, including Special Commissioners of Police, interacted with them.

At the meeting, Commissioner Kumar sought to reassure the 500-strong gathering, saying Prime Minister Narendra Modi and the Home Ministry stood with them, as per sources. However, sources added, Vashistha insisted that he would not withdraw the case filed against lawyers after the last month's confrontation, it is learnt.

At the time of the incident, the ACP held the charge of Shahdara and the Gandhi Nagar subdivision. Hence, the case was filed at Shahdara police station.

The ACP, who was posted in the Gandhi Nagar subdivision, and Inspector Arun Kumar, the SHO of Shahdara police station, were transferred following the incident in which an advocate allegedly sustained a serious head injury. This triggered a strike by district court lawyers, who demanded action against the officers concerned. The lawyers called off their strike on October 28 after the transfer orders were issued.

Vashistha, at the meeting, also raised concerns over the treatment of police personnel in courts, seeking an increase in security presence, formation of a redressal committee, and no action against those part of the Monday's protest.

With regard to the allegations against him by lawyers of brandishing his weapon, he said, "The lawyers barged inside my office when I was counting my rounds. There was no other intention which is why it was immediately handed over the armoury incharge." The ACP has laid out the demands including a SOP in order to deal with "such people".

Monday's protest brought to the fore a wider resentment within the force. "It hurts our self-esteem. We join the uniformed service to protect people. Every time there is a confrontation between the police and lawyers, it is the police who are suppressed and action is taken against us," a sub-inspector who was present at the meeting told The Indian Express.

Women personnel recalled the 2019 Tis Hazari court violence, during which a senior woman IPS officer was allegedly manhandled, and questioned the action taken against police personnel in the aftermath.

ASI Jyoti, who participated in the protest said women personnel also face harassment when they go for court proceedings, claiming lawyers use derogatory remarks against them.

The meeting ended around 3 pm, after which the personnel came out and sat outside Gate No. 1. They later moved to the footpath opposite the headquarters, next to the YMCA bus stand, saying they did not want to disrupt traffic. They said they would wait to see whether their demands were met.

Round 2 of talks

Around 5 pm, Vashistha and five other personnel went inside again to speak to senior officers. Around 6:40 when Vashistha came out, he said he met Joint CP Nupur Prasad. "With regard to my transfer order to be reversed, the top brass will look into that. Our main agenda was never to protest but to hold a Sampark Sabha and share our issues with the CP and senior officials and since that happened, it's a success. I have been assured no action would be taken against those who protested today," the ACP told The Indian Express. He added their grievances will be resolved in due course of time.

The ACP asked those who continued to protest should wear black bands and continue their work. Before the crowd dispersed around 7:40 pm, policemen gathered around the ACP and clicked selfies .

The protest, negotiations, and reassurances come ahead of an interaction programme scheduled by LG Taranjit Singh Sandhu with Delhi Police personnel on Tuesday.

How parking dispute snowballed into stir after ACP's transfer

Sakshi Chand
New Delhi, November 2

Video grab of the incident.

IT WAS an alleged parking dispute between a group of lawyers and a salon owner in North East Delhi's Rohtash Nagar area last month, which ended in the transfer of Manasvi Vashishta, ACP of the Gandhi Nagar subdivision, and the SHO of Gandhi Nagar police station. The action then triggered an unprecedented protest on Monday by around 100 personnel outside their own police headquarters.

A confrontation allegedly took place on October 23 when a parked motorcycle blocked the access to a salon in Rohtash Nagar. The salon owner, Sheetal Thakur, and her husband, Rahul Thakur, said they asked the person who had parked the bike to move it.

According to Sheetal's sister, Shweta Bharti, the exchange escalated into an argument. "They said, 'This is not your father's road,'" Shweta claimed. This happened around 11 am. Around 4:30 pm, Shweta alleged, a group of lawyers returned to the salon, vandalised it and assaulted Sheetal, who is eight-month pregnant.

The family dialled up the police helpline number and went to Shahdara police station to file a complaint. However, Shweta said, their complaint was not turned into an FIR. The family was asked to submit a written complaint.

According to Shweta, around the same time, two lawyers entered the police station and began assaulting her husband and brother-in-law Rahul. She claimed that police personnel tried to intervene but the duo kept hitting them.

The family alleges that a case was registered on the lawyer's complaint, while no FIR was registered on their complaint. Shweta said her husband and brother-in-law were subsequently called to the police station by the investigating officer. They went there the following day but found a large gathering of lawyers. It was the same group, according to her, which later misbehaved with the ACP and SHO.

The two left the premises and have not returned home since, according to the sisters, who said the family has been unable to contact her husband.

The sisters have since approached senior police officers, including the DCP and the SHO, seeking action and access to the CCTV footage. DCP Shahdara RP Meena did not respond to queries by The Indian Express.

On Monday, Sheetal and Shweta reached the police headquarters after learning about the protest. They said they had come to support the ACP and the SHO, alleging that the two officers had intervened to protect their family.

Sheetal said the CCTV footage from the police station should be seized and examined. "The entire truth will come out once the footage is seen," Sheetal said.

'Incompatible with secular character': Centre says Krishi Bhawan mosque to be removed

Court seeks to know if there are rules that bar religious structures inside govt complexes

Sohini Ghosh
New Delhi, November 2

Krishi Bhawan is set to be razed under the Central Vista plan. FILE

THE CENTRE has told the Delhi High Court that it plans to "remove" a century-old mosque on the premises of Krishi Bhawan and that retaining the structure within the office complex is "impermissible and incompatible with the secular character of Government property".

The submission marks the first clear acknowledgement by the Government that the mosque is set to be removed from the site as Krishi Bhawan and adjoining Shastri Bhawan are slated to be demolished to make way for new buildings under the Central Vista redevelopment plan.

Earlier, in December 2021, in a plea by Delhi Waqf Board before the High Court seeking protection of six mosques likely to be affected by the project, including the Qadeemi Masjid situated in the open court in Krishi Bhawan, Solicitor General Tushar Mehta had told the court: "Nothing is happening to these properties ... It (the project) is a very long plan and we have not reached anywhere near it."

On Monday, the High Court sought to know whether there are rules that bar religious structures within the premises of Government complexes.

Justice Anish Dayal said: "What we need to understand is, what are the rules for providing an alternate space? Are you saying no (alternate) spaces are to be provided for (any) faith?..There has to be some rules to say that 'in no government space can be a space for prayer to provide for any community'. This is just an observation... You can communicate to the ASG....We are curious to understand the stance you have taken..."

Addressing the Centre's counsel Nishant Gautam, Justice Dayal said: "Once we understand what is really the conspectus (implication) of that statement (of religious structure being impermissible in a central government complex) and the impact it has, we can understand the legal position."

The court granted time to the Masjid's committee to respond to the Government's submission by the next date of hearing on November 23.

The caretaking committee of Waqf-notified Qadeemi Masjid had moved the court in September, apprehending demolition. The apprehension arose after a tender was floated by the Central Public Works Department (CPWD), under the Union Ministry of Housing and Urban Affairs (MoHUA), on January 19 for construction of Common Central Secretariat (CCS) buildings 4 and 5, at the site of Krishi Bhawan and Shastri Bhawan.

The Indian Express reported in February that while the mosque did not figure in the list of structures to be removed, it also did not appear at its site on the map of the proposed new building in drawings attached to the tender for redevelopment.

Stating that the construction of the two CCS buildings is "a public project of paramount national importance", the Land and Development Office under MoHUA said in a status report on October 27, "The mosque in question presently stands on the project site and is required to be removed".

"Krishi Bhawan and the Central Secretariat complex are secular public premises, dedicated exclusively to governmental, administrative and public service functions. The establishment or retention of a permanent religious structure, or a demand for one, within the confines of a central government office complex is impermissible and incompatible with the secular character of Government property. That the public land situated within a central administrative zone cannot be encumbered by any permanent religious reservation," the Government stated.

The Government said "reserving any portion of the project site for a religious structure would be inconsistent with the Master Plan" for Central Vista Redevelopment project. In an agreement in 1940, the administration had granted permissive possession of the mosque to the managing committee of Jama Masjid "for the limited purpose of its use as a mosque."

While the mosque's committee is seeking that CPWD and NDMC be restrained from demolishing or removing the mosque, it is also seeking that, in case retention of the Qadeemi Masjid is "unavoidable or incompatible with the approved redevelopment", a "reasonable, proximate and adequate alternative prayer facility" be provided. The Centre said that being the owner of the land, it "cannot be compelled to allot or set apart any separate space for the said mosque within the Krishi Bhawan compound or the Central Secretariat complex."

As per the masjid's committee, Qadeemi Masjid has been used for offering prayers by employees working in Krishi Bhawan and the neighbouring government offices, and has thus "become an established prayer facility for persons required to remain within or around their workplaces during working hours." The Centre contended that Shahi Masjid Zabta Ganj is within a 2-km radius from the Krishi Bhawan vicinity.

AIR QUALITY LIKELY TO REMAIN 'VERY POOR' IN COMING DAYS

Delhi AQI worsens: Unfavourable weather, farm fires across border to blame; GRAP-II invoked

Sophiya Mathew
New Delhi, November 2

AS THE air quality in the Capital deteriorated sharply to enter the 'Very Poor' category on Monday, the Commission for Air Quality Management (CAQM) invoked Stage II of the Graded Response Action Plan (GRAP) across Delhi-NCR.

Citing a sharp rise in the air quality index (AQI) from 117 on October 31, in the 'Moderate' category, to 261 ('Poor') on Sunday, followed by a further jump to 324 ('Very Poor') on Monday, the watchdog attributed the deterioration to unfavourable meteorological conditions and ordered intensified pollution-control measures.

Farm fires across the border, in Pakistan's Punjab, are also adding to the pollution load in the Capital, data analysed by The Indian Express shows. The Indian Institute of Tropical Meteorology (IITM) has forecast that Delhi's air quality will remain in the 'Very Poor' category till November 5, with the outlook for the subsequent six days ranging from 'Very Poor' to 'Poor'.

Stricter measures

With GRAP Stage II in force, authorities have rolled out a range of anti-pollution measures across Delhi-NCR, alongside restrictions on the entry of non-BS-VI vehicles into the Capital. These include daily mechanical road sweeping, intensified water sprinkling with dust suppressants, and stricter inspections of construction sites to enforce dust-control norms.

To encourage public transport use, parking fees have been hiked, traffic personnel have been deployed at congestion hotspots, and public transport services have been augmented.

The Delhi Metro Rail Corporation has announced 20 additional train trips on weekdays.

The measures also ban the use of coal and firewood in hotels, restaurants and open eateries, while restricting diesel generator sets to emergency and essential services. Resident Welfare Associations and commercial establishments have been directed to provide electric heaters to security guards and other outdoor staff to curb the open burning of wood and biomass. Separately, the DMRC said it has intensified dust-control measures at its construction sites and adjoining roads. It has also installed over 250 anti-smog guns and misting systems across construction sites, Metro stations and office buildings, officials said.

Farm fires add to load

The deterioration comes amid a combination of unfavourable weather conditions and smoke from agricultural residue burning in neighbouring regions, including across the international border in Pakistan's Punjab province.

Even as the number of farm fires recorded in India remains relatively low compared with previous years, 219 residue-burning events were recorded on Monday, taking the seasonal total since September 15 to 3,535, according to the data from the Indian Agricultural Research Institute (ICAR-IARI). The institute monitors satellite-detected fires by filtering them against specific agricultural land boundaries.

So far this season, Punjab has accounted for 1,612 fires, followed by Rajasthan (738), Madhya Pradesh (614), Uttar Pradesh (349), Uttarakhand (176), Haryana (44) and Delhi (2). This is an all-time low for the three major states: Punjab, Haryana and UP. However, farm fires in Madhya Pradesh have picked up and are higher compared to 486 recorded in the corresponding period last year.

Meanwhile, cross-border pollution continues to impact the broader airshed. A week-long analysis by The Indian Express of NASA's Fire Information for Resource Management System (FIRMS) satellite imagery, up to November 2, showed a dense band of active fires immediately west of the international border in Pakistan's Punjab province.

This comes amid a weekend spike in fires on the Indian side. Punjab recorded 292 fires on Saturday, its highest single-day count of the season, followed by 175 on Sunday and 98 on Monday.

According to the IITM's Decision Support System (DSS), stubble burning accounted for 8.5% of Delhi's PM2.5 pollution on Monday. Its contribution is forecast to rise to 22% by Thursday.

Other factors

Among Delhi's internal sources, transport accounted for 20.07% of the pollution load.

Meteorological conditions have also been unfavourable for the dispersion of pollutants. North-westerly winds prevailed over Delhi, with speeds reaching 10-15 kmph through the day on Monday, according to the India Meteorological Department.

The IMD had also reported shallow fog at a few places in the morning. Safdarjung, the Capital's base station, recorded visibility of 800 metres between 6.30 am and 7.30 am on Monday.

IN A NUTSHELL

- Stubble burning accounts for 8.5% of PM2.5 pollution in Capital on Monday, set to rise to 22% on Thursday
- Transport accounted for 20.07% of pollution load on Monday
- But farm fires at all-time low for 3 major states: Punjab, Haryana, UP

6-7 am, 8-10 pm: SC fixes timings for green crackers in Delhi-NCR on Diwali

Express News Service
New Delhi, November 2

THE SUPREME Court on Monday allowed the sale of certified green crackers at designated locations in Delhi-NCR ahead of Diwali, permitting people to burst them only between 6 am and 7 am and 8 pm and 10 pm on November 7 and 8. The court clarified that the temporary relaxation would end on November 8, with the complete ban on firecrackers set to be restored from November 9.

A bench of Justices MM Sundresh and PB Varale directed that "(the) authorities shall ensure that bursting of firecrackers is allowed only between 6 am and 7 am, and 8 pm and 10 pm on November 7 and 8."

The October 29 order — made public on Monday — also allowed the manufacture of such crackers in the region for a limited time.

The ruling added that "there shall not be any bursting of fireworks within a 300-metre radius of hospitals, nursing homes, primary and district health centres, old-age homes and any notified silence zones". These areas will be declared as 'No-Cracker Zones', and shall be marked on the ground and published. Similar restrictions shall also be applicable to educational institutions.

Certification must

The order read, "The firecracker and fireworks manufacturers, who possess valid certification for the green crackers, as certified by the CSIR – National Environmental Engineering Research Institute (NEERI), as well as Petroleum and Explosives Safety Organisation (PESO), are permitted to manufacture only those green crackers that have been uploaded on the website of CSIR-NEERI from November 2 to November 6."

The bench ordered that "the licences of traders that have been cancelled, shall be restored for a temporary period commencing from November 4 to November 6 to facilitate the sale of approved green crackers purchased from CSIR-NEERI certified manufacturers. Such licences shall be immediately cancelled, if they are found flouting the aforesaid directions, and they shall be prohibited from selling the firecrackers during the remaining period."

The order added, "All necessary efforts will have to be made to ensure due compliance as endeavours should be made not to cause any inconvenience to those who are suffering from ailments."

It further said that "boxes containing the green crackers must be completely sealed to ensure that they are not mixed with any of the unauthorised or conventional firecrackers" and "there shall be no manufacture or sale of firecrackers joined in series ('ladis') and garlands" or firecrackers that use Barium. "Each of such boxes shall contain the QR code, and there shall be sale of only those firecrackers that carry product-specific QR codes," it stated.

The Supreme Court had on October 23, 2018, in the case Arjun Gopal & Ors. v. Union of India & Ors., while striking a balance between competing interests of concerns about air pollution and the religious significance of Diwali, permitted manufacture and sale of crackers with reduced emission - improved crackers, and green crackers.

Later, in 2024, pursuant to the directions issued by the court in M.C. Mehta v. Union of India & Ors, the Government of the National Capital Territory of Delhi (GNCTD) on December 19, 2024, imposed a complete perpetual ban on manufacturing, storage, selling and bursting all kinds of firecrackers throughout the year, with immediate effect from January 1, 2025.

However on October 15, 2025, the SC in the M.C. Mehta case relaxed the total ban and allowed sale and use of green crackers as a temporary measure.

HC: No stay now on ban on entry of non BS-VI vehicles

Sohini Ghosh
New Delhi, November 2

THE DELHI High Court on Monday refused to interfere with the government's decision on banning the entry of non-BS-VI vehicles, registered outside the Capital, till January 31 to tackle winter air pollution. The ban, which kicked off on Sunday, is one of the several anti air pollution measures being taken.

A division bench of Acting Chief Justice Nitin Sambre and Justice Sanjay Sharma, hearing a plea filed by Advocate Gurmukh Dass Kohli Ahas, has also sought a response from the government.Kohli, a resident of Haryana's Faridabad, in his plea, has challenged the government's ban, noting that "differential treatment" has been meted out to non-Delhi-registered vehicles when no such restriction applies for Delhi-registered vehicles.

Apart from seeking an interim suspension of the government's notification, the plea also called for the quashing of the directive. The bench, while refusing to stay or suspend the operation of the notification as an interim measure, also recorded that the issue is already subjudice before the Supreme Court.

The High Court instead issued notice to the Delhi government, seeking its response to the contentions being raised in the petition by November 27 when it will hear the matter next.Kohli, in his plea, has highlighted that as per the notification, while a Delhi registered BS-IV vehicle is allowed to ply, a Haryana-registered BS-IV vehicle is not even allowed to enter the Capital even though the National Capital Region (NCR) "functions as a single integrated urban region".

Kohli has flagged that the restriction impacts not only him, who has to travel to various courts and tribunals in Delhi while possessing a BS-IV Haryana-registered vehicle, but also lakhs of other commuters.

"The recurrence of this prohibition each winter, together with the imminent threat of enforcement, constitutes a direct and continuing interference with (Kohli's) ordinary professional travel arrangements," the plea flags.

The plea highlighting that "pollution is a function of emission standard and fuel, not of the registering authority", noted that "congestion at choke points, poorly maintained roads and the absence of effective traffic management multiply emissions far more" than the state where a vehicle is registered.

'We're sitting on road, family worried': On Day 2 of BS-VI checks, commuters stranded, scramble for costly rides

Drishti Jain & Abhimanyu Hazarika
New Delhi, November 2

NEWLYWED NAHIDA (23) boarded a Delhi-bound AC sleeper bus from her hometown, Benipur in Bihar, around 11:30 am on Sunday.

She was travelling to her in-laws' house in Delhi's Udyog Vihar. The bus had reached a stretch near the Delhi-Uttar Pradesh border — only a few kilometres away from her marital home — when it was stopped, and the passengers stranded. She said she booked the bus tickets for herself, her sister and aunt for Rs 3,500.

The non-BS-VI compliant vehicle was challaned at Chilla Border. The Delhi government has imposed a ban on the entry of vehicles below the BS-VI emission standard as pollution has started tightening its grip.

Monday marked Day 2 of the ban, with officers stationed along Delhi's border with states like UP and Haryana. Only BS-VI-compliant, CNG and electric vehicles were allowed to enter the Capital.

Unaware, many commuters, like Nahida, were left stranded. They were caught off-guard while police personnel grappled with "unclear instructions"."

The bus Nahida took was ferrying around 40 passengers. It pulled over under the shade of a tree, forcing some of them to toggle multiple online taxi service apps on their phones, while others hunched over clutching their bags in a row.

"My family was very excited to see me, but we're here sitting on the road. They're worried now. They (the bus operator) are not even giving us money to go back," said Nahida.

She was not alone.

Varun (43), who drives an auto rickshaw in Sonipat, was travelling with his wife, children and a relative.

"We boarded near Muzaffarpur and paid Rs 6,000 for five people to be dropped near GT Karnal," he said as the relative waved at an autorickshaw, asking it to stop.

"I don't have much money left. A cab will charge Rs 1,600. We have been here since the last two hours," he fumed as an app on his son's phone showed their cab was "31 minutes away".

Umesh Singh, the bus driver, was equally confused. "There was a chatter that few vehicles would not be allowed (to enter Delhi), but nothing was confirmed. Some said that the rules will be fixed by November 5," he said with the challan in his hand.

They would have to pay Rs 66,000, he claimed.

A few hours earlier, another vehicle bearing an UP number plate, was turned back from Chilla Border, leaving its occupants — including a couple in their late 50s — visibly distressed.

A police officer, meanwhile, was heard telling occupants of a non-BS-VI car travelling from Noida to Delhi: "Sir, you will not be allowed to proceed."

The owner, Bhupendra, who was driving the vehicle, frowned. "I don't know anything about these rules. We live in Paschim Vihar and came to meet someone in Noida."

His wife said, "I can show you our Aadhaar cards... How can you stop us? How will we go home now?"

"I will turn 60 in November. This is so troubling for people of our age," Bhupendra added.

The police officer suggested alternative routes, telling the couple, "We are following the Supreme Court order. You should too."

He then stopped the traffic, moved barricades aside as the couple made a U-turn and drove towards Noida again.

A Delhi Police officer said that a total of 8,263 vehicles were checked in the Capital and along its borders till 8 pm.

A total of 37 were challaned, 1,228 were sent back and two impounded and sent to scrap yards.

While space constraints led to traffic disruptions in Ghazipur, at checkpoints in Kalindi Kunj and Chilla Border, the traffic flow was heavy, as usual.

At the DND Flyover, 28 vehicles were checked until 10:20 am, and at least three sent back.

At the Delhi-Gurugram Aya Nagar border, ASI Deepak Kumar said all 10 vehicles stopped by his team were BS-VI-compliant.

"There's nothing to worry about. People have become aware of the rules now," he told his seniors over the phone.

Enforcement in numbers on Day-1

- 14,930 vehicles checked
- 1,539 vehicles turned back at borders
- 127 vehicles challaned for violating the BS-VI entry ban
- 566 PUCC challans issued for pollution certificate violations
- 300 construction sites inspected
- 33 construction sites found violating dust-control norms
- ₹68.40 lakh in total penalties imposed

Traffic snarls at Ghazipur border. PRAVEEN KHANNA

- On Day 2, a Delhi Police official said a total of 8,263 vehicles were checked, 37 vehicles were challaned, 1,228 were returned from the borders, 2 were impounded.

'Society impacted as a whole': Court denies bail to accused in medical procurement case

Nirbhay Thakur
New Delhi, November 2

A DELHI court Saturday denied bail to former deputy controller of accounts at Delhi government's Central Procurement Agency (CPA), Neeraj Chopra, a key accused in an alleged Rs 842-crore medical procurement scam.

"There is no gainsaying that the applicant/accused was holding responsible position, and his alleged acts constitute economic offences, which has not only caused severe damage to the health system of Govt. of NCT, Delhi, but has also adversely affected the society as a whole," said Special Judge Vidya Prakash of Rouse Avenue Court."...if the applicant/accused is enlarged on regular bail at this stage, there is a reasonable apprehension that, having regard to his former senior official position..., he may influence.. the material witnesses, ... hamper ongoing probe," the court added.

As per the government's Anti-Corruption Branch, Chopra was a member of the CPA's procurement committees and bid files for purchases were placed before him for approval.

The ACB alleged he signed notings without objecting that the winning bidder did not meet the tender's eligibility conditions.In one instance, a bill from M/s F-Med Devices, a firm allegedly owned by the "mastermind" in the case, Rajiv Rangila, reached Chopra after processing. He marked it to the cashier for re-verification, after which it went to the then Directorate General of Health Services for approval.

"The material available on record, would prima facie show that the officials who had raised objections to the questioned files, were subjected to pressure, and that one such officer was allegedly taken to the residence of co-accused Rajiv Kumar on the directions of co-accused Dr. Vinod Kumar Ranga. The apprehension of interference is, therefore, not theoretical," the judge said in the order. The case centres on the CPA, the nodal agency responsible for supplying medicines, vaccines and medical equipment to Delhi government hospitals and healthcare facilities. The chargesheet filed in the case in September alleged that tenders were manipulated to favour two companies owned by pharmaceutical trader Rajiv Rangila.

The ACB described Rangila, who has been arrested, as one of the alleged masterminds.The chargesheet names Dr Ranga, Head of Office of the CPA; Directorate General of Health Services chief Dr Vatsala Aggarwal; and Chopra. The ACB also alleged that 10 important procurement files could not be traced.

HC stays JNU's order to dismiss Cong MP Akoijam amid sexual harassment case probe

Press Trust of India
New Delhi, November 2

THE DELHI High Court on Monday stayed the Jawaharlal Nehru University (JNU) administration's decision to terminate the services of professor Angomcha Bimol Akoijam over allegations of sexual harassment. Justice Anup J Bhambhani issued notice to the university on Akoijam's petition challenging the dismissal order and listed the case for hearing in January.

Akoijam, the Congress MP from the Inner Manipur Lok Sabha seat, was a professor at the JNU's School of Social Sciences.

Angomcha Bimol Akoijam

According to reports, at least 11 female students filed sexual harassment complaints against the professor in May. The complainants alleged that Akoijam invited students to his campus residence under the pretext of meetings or gatherings and attempted to sexually harass them.

Some students have also alleged that he made obscene and inappropriate remarks during classes. On October 9, JNU dismissed Akoijam over the sexual harassment complaints.

The termination order, signed by Vice Chancellor Santishree D Pandit, said the university's internal complaints committee had conducted an inquiry and recommended disciplinary action based on its findings.

"Upon following the due process and considering all available facts and as per the report of the Internal Committee, the punishment of dismissal from the services of the university is hereby imposed," the order stated.

The dismissal order cited the relevant service rules and Rule 11(ix) of the Central Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules while imposing the punishment.

The Congress MP has denied all allegations and termed his dismissal a "witch hunt". Days after his dismissal, the Delhi Police registered an FIR against Akoijam on charges of sexual harassment and insulting a woman's modesty. The FIR was registered on a complaint lodged by the university's chief security officer on October 11. The FIR was registered at the Vasant Kunj North police station on Sunday.

DELHI CONFIDENTIAL

Crown Prince?

WHEN BSP national convener Akash Anand reached Saharanpur on Monday to announce the name of party leader Naresh Kumar Saini as the BSP candidate from Nakur Assembly seat for the 2027 Assembly elections, Saini welcomed the senior leader with a gold crown. A senior BSP leader said the gold crown was offered on behalf of the Saini community. Notably, when BSP supremo and Anand's aunt Mayawati was the Uttar Pradesh chief minister in the late 2000s, she had drawn criticism from Opposition parties for accepting gold crowns as gifts from party workers.

Crowd Contest

THE RAMLILA Maidan rally of the INDIA bloc on Sunday seems to have set off some "healthy competition" among frontal organisations of the Congress. Sources said senior leaders of the Seva Dal have been claiming within the party circles that the Indian Youth Congress (IYC) could mobilise only around 3,000 workers for the rally. The IYC, on the other hand, has asserted that it managed to bring more than 10,000 workers from across the country to the Capital. This competition will soon be addressed by the senior leadership of the party, said the sources.

Punjab: 3 MLAs who quit AAP join BJP

Speaker accepts resignations of two, issues notice to Jouramajra

Chandigarh, November 2

THREE MLAS of the ruling Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) in Punjab jumped ship to the BJP on Monday, months ahead of Assembly polls. Sanaur MLA Harmeet Singh Pathanmajra, Samana legislator Chetan Singh Jouramajra and Amritsar North MLA Kunwar Vijay Pratap Singh joined the BJP at the party's Delhi headquarters. Sources said the BJP has promised to field the three leaders in the constituencies they represented.

BJP's Punjab unit chief, Kewal Singh Dhillon, and the state in-charge, Satish Poonia welcomed the trio into the partyfold. Poonia said the leaders' "political, social and administrative background" will strengthen the BJP's "victory mission" in Punjab. "There is an undercurrent in favour of the BJP and anti-incumbency against the AAP," he said.

Dhillon described the AAP as a "sinking ship" and said more resignations are expected. "AAP leaders are saying BJP is getting leftovers from other parties. They need to remember that Surjit Singh Rakhra in their party came from the Shiromani Akali Dal, Dimpy Dhillon and Harmeet Singh Sandhu, too. And Dr Raj Kumar Chabbewal from Congress. Leaders keep going to different parties. It is a question mark on the party as to why MLAs are leaving despite the government in power with over 90 MLAs," he said, adding that the three leaders will "get due respect" in the BJP.

AAP's Punjab unit chief Aman Arora, however, said the BJP has failed to build its own political base in Punjab. "The BJP has neither been able to develop its own leadership nor present a clear agenda for Punjab. Instead, it is inducting leaders from other parties who have faced serious allegations and disciplinary action, suspended by other parties," Arora said. "If the BJP believes that it can form a government in Punjab through such inductions, it is mistaken. The people of the state will judge every party on its record, its policies and its commitment to Punjab."

While Jouramajra and Pathanmajra quit AAP on Sunday, Kunwar Vijay Pratap announced his resignation from the Assembly on Monday. The developments in quick succession came soon after the AAP released the first list of 40 candidates for the Assembly polls on October 31.

Jouramajra and Pathanmajra had earlier said they were in touch with the BJP. Sandeep Pathak, Rajya Sabha MP and senior AAP leader who joined the BJP in April, is learnt to have played a key role in the three MLAs switching to the BJP. Pathanmajra was earlier with the Shiromani Akali Dal. He then switched to AAP before moving to the Congress. He returned to AAP ahead of the 2022 election and won the Sanaur seat. Jouramajra won the Samana seat in his electoral debut in the 2022 polls.

The AAP, meanwhile, has submitted a petition to Assembly Speaker Kultar Singh Sandhwan, seeking the disqualification of Jouramajra and Pathanmajra under the anti-defection law. AAP's chief whip Baljinder Kaur told The Indian Express, "I have filed the petition against both with the Speaker, seeking their disqualification from the Vidhan Sabha under the anti-defection law. Both joined the BJP without resigning from the Vidhan Sabha."

Sandhwan told The Indian Express that he had accepted Kunwar Vijay Pratap's and Pathanmajra's resignation. "I am issuing a notice to Jouramajra. If he doesn't respond with resignation, he will be disqualified," he said.

With the acceptance of the two resignations, the Amritsar North and Sanaur Assembly constituencies have become vacant. With this, the strength of AAP will now come down to 92 in the 117-member Assembly. The Congress has 16 MLAs, the SAD has three MLAs, BJP two, the Bahujan Samaj Party one, while one seat is held by an Independent.

The development spotlights an earlier political switch in Punjab. Ahead of the 2024 Lok Sabha elections, the AAP brought Akali MLA Dr Sukhwinder Kumar Sukhi into its fold. However, no disqualification proceedings were initiated against him, and he continues as an MLA.

SP's Azam Khan moves top court over ED arrest after jail release

Express News Service
New Delhi, November 2

SAMAJWADI PARTY (SP) leader Azam Khan Monday moved the Supreme Court challenging his arrest and judicial remand by the ED on money laundering charges. He was arrested shortly after his release on bail in a separate case involving dual PAN cards.

Appearing for Khan, advocate Nizam Pasha mentioned the matter before a bench led by CJI Surya Kant and requested an urgent hearing. The CJI-led bench said it would list the petition for hearing this week.

The Allahabad High Court granted bail to Khan and his son Abdullah Azam Khan on October 29 in the dual PAN card case, while dismissing their prayer for a stay on their conviction. After stepping out of Rampur jail on October 31, the agency immediately took Khan into custody over alleged financial irregularities in the construction of Mohammad Ali Jauhar University in Rampur. His son was released, and he returned home.

On November 27, 2025, a Rampur trial court sentenced both to a maximum of seven years of RI under charges of criminal conspiracy, cheating, and forgery. An appellate court then enhanced Azam Khan's sentence to 10 years of RI. The FIR alleged a conspiracy between the father and son to forge papers to overcome age-eligibility constraints for the election.

After Mamata-mukt Bengal, it's time for Rahul-mukt Delhi: BJP chief in Kolkata

Atri Mitra
Kolkata, November 2

BJP chief Nitin Nabin and West Bengal CM Suvendu Adhikari in Kolkata on Monday. PTI

LEADING A march in Kolkata to counter INDIA bloc's campaign against Chief Election Commissioner Gyanesh Kumar over alleged irregularities in the SIR process, BJP national president Nitin Nabin on Monday targeted Lok Sabha Leader of Opposition Rahul Gandhi, accusing him of "working with foreign forces seeking to destabilise the country".

Nabin asserted that the BJP would defeat the Samajwadi Party in Uttar Pradesh next after having defeated the RJD in Bihar and TMC in West Bengal. He called for making Delhi "Rahul-mukt" (Rahul-free).

Addressing a rally at Dharamtala after concluding the 'Save Democracy, End Anarchy' padyatra along with Chief Minister Suvendu Adhikari and state BJP president Samik Bhattacharya, Nabin alleged, "Rahul Gandhi is a toolkit of those forces which engineered the unrest in Nepal and other neighbouring countries. He is leading those forces who are behind the anarchy across the country."

"Just as Bengal has become Mamata-mukt, we will make Delhi Rahul-mukt. We defeated Congress and Rahul Gandhi in 2014, 2019 and 2024. We will do so again in 2029." His sharp attack on Opposition leaders came a day after the INDIA bloc parties held a huge rally at Delhi's Ramlila Maidan against CEC Kumar, claiming vote theft.

Nabin claimed that had the Congress and Rahul "learnt lessons" from their electoral failures, they would not have raised "baseless allegations" against the ECI. "Rahul Gandhi has no vision; he will be responsible for the Congress' complete wipeout," he said.

Nabin also asserted that Modi will once again hoist the national flag from the Red Fort in 2029 as the country's PM. Nabin also claimed the BJP will win in all five states where Assembly elections are due, including Punjab.

He also took a dig at former West Bengal CM Mamata Banerjee, who had also attended the INDIA bloc rally in Delhi on Sunday. "West Bengal has already become completely free of Mamata (Banerjee). Unable to cope with the setback of defeat in her own state, the former CM now goes to Delhi and cries there."

Meanwhile, Mamata AITC leader Derek O'Brien took a swipe at the BJP over its nationwide street mobilisation against the Opposition over the "vote theft" issue, saying its top leadership was playing catch-up. He wrote on X, "...Imitation is the best form of flattery."

'Became PM with foreign help': Rahul slams Modi over 'obstructionist side' comment

Express News Service
New Delhi, November 2

LOK SABHA Leader of Opposition (LoP) Rahul Gandhi on Monday said that Narendra Modi became the country's Prime Minister with "foreign help" and challenged him to an open debate.

Gandhi was reacting to PM Modi's comment that the Opposition had turned into an "obstructionist side (avrodh paksh)". Attaching a news report of PM Modi's remarks, Gandhi said, "Mr Modi, stop lying to this nation. You became PM because of foreign help. You remain PM because of foreign help."

"Your financial system is fully controlled and supported by foreigners. Foreign social media fully backs you," Gandhi wrote in a post on X.

He "challenged" PM Modi to an open debate, saying, "Any stage, any time. Come if you have the guts."

"You won't dare, because you are terrified of what I know about you," said the LoP.

Speaking at the Rashtriya Ekta Diwas celebrations on Saturday, to mark the birth anniversary of Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel at the Statue of Unity in Gujarat's Ekta Nagar, PM Modi had said, "In a democracy, the responsibility of the Opposition is to oppose government policies, but it is our misfortune that the Opposition (virodh paksh) has become an obstructionist side (avrodh paksh)... Driven by frustration and disappointment, these people are creating obstacles in the path of the country's development. This is not Opposition, this is obstruction... They are engaged in undermining the dignity and sanctity of the Constitution."

Union Home Minister Amit Shah leads the 'Save Democracy, Remove Anarchy' march in Hyderabad. PTI

'Never existed': Shah says 3 crore votes dropped in SIR 'infiltrators'

Nikhila Henry
Hyderabad, November 2

UNION HOME Minister Amit Shah said in Hyderabad that the INDIA bloc rally held in Delhi on Sunday was not to save votes but to save infiltrators who form the vote bank of "Congress and company".

Speaking at Hyderabad's Mozamjahi Market Monday, Shah said the SIR had identified 3 crore people as non-voters or infiltrators. "Now, I'm coming to what is causing a stomach ache for [Congress leader] Rahul Gandhi. Three crore votes were those which never existed. These votes were those of Bangladeshi infiltrators. Three crore people are such that they aren't there. They aren't around. Tell me whether these votes should be cut or not?"

"Who are these three crore people? They are infiltrators. Should we not remove them from the rolls? But Rahul ji says we shouldn't remove them (from the rolls)," Shah said, adding that the BJP would remove "every infiltrator from the electoral rolls". He later said the government was ready to hold a special session of Parliament on SIR, infiltrators and EVMs. "I challenge you from Hyderabad's soil... If you have the courage, come for this discussion," he said, adding Gandhi wouldn't come for the debate. "Because he knows that only anarchy keeps Congress in the news."

"Rahul Gandhi says that 13 crore people have lost their vote in the country. He is lying." Of the 13 crore, 6.15 crore were people who had shifted to a different place. "Should they get votes in two different parts of the country?" he asked the crowd. "As many as 2.8 crore to 3 crore people are the ones who have died. Should their vote not be removed? Rahul Gandhi, who will cast the votes of those who have died? The Congress party. The Congress party wants to come to power by casting bogus votes."

He claimed that 1 crore of those removed were "duplicate voters". "Shouldn't one of the votes of the duplicate voters be removed or not?" he asked.

Responding to the Congress' charge that the BJP was coming to power because of SIR, Shah said, "In 2014, there was no SIR. Modiji won that year. In 2019, Modiji won again, but no SIR was held. In 2024, Modiji won again, and no SIR was held. Modiji has come to power on the votes of Indian voters." He listed the states that the BJP and its alliance partners had won after the 2024 general elections. "After 2024, Maharashtra, Haryana, Delhi, Bihar, Bengal and Assam were won. Now we are going to win Telangana too."

Referring to the recent Opposition mock impeachment session of CEC Gyanesh Kumar, Shah said, "It would have been good had Rahul Gandhi played the role of the PM in the mock parliament session because he would never be PM in the real parliament." To win in India, he said, "you have to be one with the country" and the people, and sweat it out. He then called for a door-to-door campaign to "end the confusion around SIR that the Congress has created".

SC tells Rajasthan election body to reconsider voter campaign plea

ENS & PTI
Jaipur, November 2

THE SUPREME Court on Monday set aside a communication by the Rajasthan State Election Commission (SEC) rejecting an application for a voter awareness campaign.

Social activist Aruna Roy and others had filed a plea on October 6, seeking the SEC's permission to conduct voter awareness campaigns in Rajasthan. However, the SEC rejected it.

On Monday, a Bench led by CJI Surya Kant, which also included Justices Joymalya Bagchi and V Mohana, directed SEC "to reconsider the petitioners' request for permitting them to conduct the voter awareness campaign during phase 3 of the Panchayati Raj poll", asking it to pass an order within two days.

Advocate Prashant Bhushan, appearing for the activists, had challenged the SEC's refusal to allow the petitioners to undertake voter awareness activities in the run-up to the local body polls. Opposing the plea, the SEC said it had examined the representation and apprehended that the proposed campaign could be undertaken at the behest of another person.

Justice Bagchi rejected the Commission's reasoning, observing its awareness initiatives could not be a ground to prevent other organisations from undertaking similar efforts.

Rajasthan puts investment package of firm linked to IAS officer on hold

Hamza Khan
Jaipur, November 2

VIRTUALLY BREAKING his silence on the corruption allegations against senior IAS officer Shikhar Agrawal, Rajasthan Chief Minister Bhajan Lal Sharma, through his office, said on Monday that "the state is committed to a zero-tolerance policy towards corruption."

He also put on hold the customised package for the firm that, along with Agrawal, had been at the centre of the allegations. "Under the leadership of CM Bhajan Lal Sharma, the state government is committed to a zero-tolerance policy towards corruption. The government is taking necessary steps to ensure transparency, accountability, and financial discipline in matters related to government schemes and investment promotion," the CMO said.

It said that after the matter came to the attention of the CM, the state-level scrutiny committee for Industry and Commerce has placed a hold on the customised package approved for Messrs Goyal Fashions Private Limited. "This exemption was granted to the company under the Rajasthan Investment Promotion Scheme. After being put on hold, the company will not be granted the benefits and disbursements of the approved benefits until the ACB completes its preliminary investigation."

As per the ACB's assessment, there was "prima facie evidence" of collusion between Agrawal and the firm, with the IAS officer allegedly "abusing his position and influence, thereby conferring undue benefits upon himself and the related firm, and causing substantial financial loss to the state government."

ACB said that Agrawal facilitated benefits for the company, including relaxations in resort construction conditions, approvals without verification of requisite certificates, and special concessional financial packages.

Why Bihar BJP landed in a soup over 'defection' of Independent MLCs

Patna, November 2

Jan Suraaj Party leaders meet Bihar Legislative Council Chairman Ram Bachan Rai on Monday, to demand disqualification of newly elected Independent MLCs Bansidhar Brajwasi and Rahul Raj

THE ANNOUNCEMENT by Bihar's newly elected Independent Members of Legislative Council (MLCs), Bansidhar Brajwasi and Rahul Raj, about joining the ruling BJP has triggered a political controversy in the state, with the Opposition parties demanding their disqualification under the provisions of the anti-defection law.

On Monday, a Jan Suraaj Party (JSP) delegation met the Bihar Legislative Council's Chairman Ram Bachan Rai to demand the immediate disqualification of Brajwasi and Raj, who recently won, respectively, from the Tirhut Graduates seat and the Saran Teachers' constituency.

Besides the two Independents, in the October 23 MLC polls for eight seats in the state, the BJP and the principal Opposition RJD bagged two seats each, with the NDA ally JD(U) and the JSP winning one seat each.

The row erupted after the Bihar BJP issued a press release on Saturday evening, declaring that Brajwasi and Raj had joined the party in the presence of state party president Sanjay Saraogi. The two Independent MLCs also echoed this before the media. Their pictures, showing them wearing the BJP's saffron scarves while holding party membership slips, flooded digital and social media, even as the BJP later withdrew its press release.

The Opposition, including the RJD, Congress, and JSP, seized upon the issue to demand the disqualification of Brajwasi and Raj as MLCs under the anti-defection law.

RJD working president and Leader of Opposition in the Assembly, Tejashwi Prasad Yadav, demanded that both the Independent MLCs be disqualified for allegedly violating the anti-defection law. He also accused the BJP of "making a mockery of the Constitution".

RJD MP and national spokesperson Manoj Kumar Jha said, "The Tenth Schedule of the Constitution, known as the anti-defection law, clearly states that if an Independent candidate joins any political party after their election, they face immediate disqualification from the House."

JSP spokesperson Kumar Saurav cited the numbers on the BJP membership slips purportedly given to Brajwasi and Raj when they joined the party. "It is a blatant violation of constitutional provisions. If needed, we will also move court to demand their disqualification," he said.

Senior JSP leader and former MLA Kishore Kumar Munna, who led a delegation to meet Council Chairman Rai, said, "We have informed the Chairman how the two Independent MLCs joined the BJP within 72 hours of winning their elections. We also produced all relevant evidence to support our claim. The two MLCs had openly admitted to joining the BJP. We were assured of appropriate action by the Upper House."

State Congress spokesman Asit Nath Tiwari underlined that "the Opposition is united over the issue".

On their part, the two Independent MLCs have now recalibrated their position, claiming that they have not joined the BJP but "merely offered support" to the party.

Brajwasi said, "I have decided to support the BJP as the state government has agreed to address the grievances of teachers... I have also decided to support the BJP as I am highly impressed with the development vision of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Bihar Chief Minister Samrat Choudhary, and former Chief Minister Nitish Kumar."

Echoing them, state BJP chief Saraogi, who had presided over the induction event for the two Independents, said: "The two leaders are impressed with the NDA's functioning and have decided to support us." He avoided answering media queries whether the two Independent MLCs risked disqualification for their moves.

Paragraph 2(2) of the Tenth Schedule dealing with anti-defection provisions says that if an Independent legislator joins any political party at any time after being elected, the member incurs disqualification from the membership of the House. It is unlike provisions in the case of nominated members who do not face disqualification if they switch their political allegiance within six months of becoming members of the House. The final decision on whether a member should be disqualified rests with the Chairman or Speaker, whose decision remains subject to judicial review by the courts.

Misri to visit Nepal tomorrow, set stage for Balen's likely trip to India this month

Shubhajit Roy
New Delhi, November 2

FOREIGN SECRETARY Vikram Misri will travel to Nepal on November 4 and 5 as part of the preparations for the likely visit by Nepal Prime Minister Balen Shah to India later this month.

According to the Ministry of External Affairs, Misri will undertake an official visit to Nepal to "discuss bilateral, regional and global matters of mutual interest."

"India and Nepal share strong and friendly ties which have seen substantial progress across diverse areas of cooperation. Foreign Secretary's upcoming visit continues the tradition of regular high-level exchanges between the two countries and will help further enhance comprehensive bilateral partnership," the MEA said.

On September 19, The Indian Express had reported that six months into the new Nepal government led by Prime Minister Shah, Delhi and Kathmandu are working towards scheduling a bilateral visit by him in the latter half of November. The two sides are looking at dates between November 22 and 24.

In September, Nepal's Finance Minister Swarnim Wagle had met Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman and External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar and had discussed the possibility of the visit.

According to sources, Misri's visit is aimed at preparing the ground for Balen Shah's India visit — taking forward the conversation that started during Wagle's visit.

During the visit, India and Nepal will prioritise cross-border connectivity, including roads, railways, air routes and transmission infrastructure, sources said. Clean-energy cooperation is central, with Nepal targeting 35,000 megawatts (MW) over the next nine years through run-of-river and storage projects.

Nepal seeks expanded Indian investment, digitalization, high-value agriculture, green manufacturing, tourism and production-sharing opportunities, sources said. They will also discuss updating the trade treaty to cover services, investment protection, profit repatriation, and movement of parts and components, according to sources. Since this is the first bilateral visit after the devastating August 26 flash flood, this will also be an opportunity to exchange notes on the rescue and relief efforts. At least 270 Indians are still missing.

India sent humanitarian aid and extended emergency power support. It had delivered aid material and disaster relief supplies, apart from Bailey bridges.

Wagle's visit was part of Kathmandu's efforts to make up for its earlier actions -- when Nepal PM Shah refused to meet the Indian Ambassador to Nepal, Naveen Srivastava, and his subsequent reluctance to meet Foreign Secretary Misri in May, which resulted in the latter's visit being cancelled.

In early September, the Nepal PM thanked India for its timely assistance in response to the flood.

The course correction, they say, began well before the flash flood. In June, Nepal's top leader Rabi Lamichhane of the ruling Rashtriya Swatantra Party (RSP) visited New Delhi and met Prime Minister Modi and Union Home Minister Amit Shah.

RAJASTHAN: CONSTRUCTION MACHINE COMES IN CONTACT WITH POWER LINE

8 labourers working on road project electrocuted

Parul Kulshrestha
Jaipur, November 2

EIGHT LABOURERS were electrocuted and five others sustained injuries after a road construction machine came in contact with an overhead high-tension power line in Chapoli village of Rajasthan's Jhunjhunu district on Monday morning.

According to police, the incident occurred around 10 am when the labourers were shifting a cement mixer machine to another location. The hydraulic jack of the machine came in contact with an overhead live power line.

Jhunjhunu Collector Arun Garg said the villagers had started constructing a road connecting the village to Kadam Kund temple. However, since the road passed through a forest area and the forest guards were on panchayat election duties, they had not received the required permission to carry out the work.

"However, the villagers arranged some financial assistance at their own level and started the road construction work themselves. During the work, the cement mixer came in contact with a live wire. The labourers who were pushing the machine got electrocuted," Garg said.

Rajasthan Minister Jhabar Singh Kharra meets the injured who is undergoing treatment at a hospital in Jhunjhunu on Monday. ANI

The deceased have been identified as Hariram Gurjar (30), Mangalchand Gurjar (22), Kaluram Gurjar (29) and Pawan Gurjar (23), all residents of Haleda Mandawara village and Vishnu Saini (38), Surendra alias Suresh Saini (30), Mukesh Saini (27) and Fatehchand Saini (32), all residents of Chapoli. Vishnu was also the contractor.

One of the injured labourers, Gidaram Saini, told the media, "We were working in Chapoli. We were in the process of pushing the machine to another location when it came in contact with the power line."

Following the incident, villagers staged a protest and demanded compensation for the families of the dead. Former minister Rajendra Gudha said the victims belonged to economically weaker families and demanded compensation of Rs 20-25 lakh for each family.

Urban Development and Housing Minister Jhabar Singh Kharra also reached the spot and later visited the hospital to take stock of the situation.

Chief Minister Bhajan Lal Sharma expressed grief over the incident and ordered a high-level inquiry.

"Saddened by the loss of lives due to a mishap in Jhunjhunu, Rajasthan. My condolences to the bereaved families. May the injured recover at the earliest. An ex-gratia of Rs 2 lakh from PMNRF would be given to the next of kin of each of those who lost their lives," PM Narendra Modi tweeted.

Former Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot expressed grief over the deaths and demanded a probe to determine who was responsible.

As per the state government's policy, a compensation of Rs 5 lakh is provided in cases of death due to electrocution. Additionally, Rs 2 lakh has been announced from the Prime Minister's Office, while Rs 5 lakh will be provided under the PM Ayushman Arogya Yojana, taking the announced assistance to Rs 12 lakh per deceased victim, subject to applicable eligibility and scheme provisions.

NTA recently shifted its headquarters from South East Delhi's Okhla area to the Government of India Press building on Minto Road

NTA overhaul: 5,000 experts empanelled for setting, vetting question papers

Gayathri Mani
New Delhi, November 2

ABOUT 5,000 academicians, scientists, researchers, professionals, educators, translators and moderators have been empanelled with the National Testing Agency's (NTA) panel of subject matter experts for question paper setting, translation, vetting, moderation, answer key verification, curriculum mapping, research, psychometric validation and other confidential assignments, said sources.

After the NEET-UG paper leak in May this year, which led to massive protests and the resignation of former Union Education Minister Dharmendra Pradhan, the NTA sacked about 600 subject matter experts. It also shifted its headquarters from South East Delhi's Okhla area to the Government of India Press building on Minto Road.

As part of its ongoing overhaul, the NTA has invited Expressions of Interest (EOI) from academicians, scientists, educators and others to join its three-year panel of subject matter experts.

"More than 5,000 experts, including subject matter experts, moderators and translators, have been added to NTA's panel... We are not hiring them; they are being empanelled following multi-layered scrutiny and verification. The NTA is building its own large question bank for conducting examinations — a common pool of questions to prevent paper leaks. Therefore, the NTA has not set any deadline for empanelling translators and subject matter experts. The EOI remains open, and experts are being added to the panel throughout the year," sources said.

NTA had invited EOI to empanel subject matter experts and translators to review AI translated materials last month.

The plan is to ensure that subject matter experts and translators set question papers, vet them and verify them without having the knowledge of which question will be asked and even which examination the questions are meant for. The question bank will be so large that there will be no scope for question paper setters or translators to memorise and reproduce the questions, the sources said.

Explaining the process, officials said subject matter experts are empanelled after a strict four-layer verification process. "In the first stage, the applicant's details, eligibility, educational qualifications, experience, etc are checked and verified. Following the documentary verification, the NTA has constituted a subject matter committee which reviews and evaluates an applicant's academic standing, research record, experience in setting question papers, etc," an official said.

Only those who clear these stages are shortlisted, officials said, adding that the agency also conducts background checks to ensure that the applicants are not associated with any coaching institute or have prepared question bank material for students.

"The agency has also specified restrictions on how the confidential work is to be carried out. Empanelled experts are required to sign a comprehensive Non-Disclosure Agreement at the time of empanelment and reaffirm it at the start of every assignment," the official said.

A senior government official said the NTA had already started working on the question bank so that questions could be selected and a question paper could be finalised a few minutes before an examination to prevent paper leaks.

"The NTA has already started implementing this for some of the entrance examinations it conducts...," the official said.

The NTA conducts some of the major entrance examinations, including JEE (Main), CUET (UG and PG), UGC-NET, CSIR-NET and NEET. Except for NEET, all the other examinations are conducted in the Computer-Based Test (CBT) mode.

SC closes plea for CBI probe in temple donation 'theft' case

Express News Service
New Delhi, November 2

THE SUPREME Court on Monday disposed of a plea for a CBI probe into the donation theft at the Ayodhya Ram temple, stating that the Special Investigation Team (SIT) that had probed the case had filed a chargesheet.

A three-judge bench presided over by Chief Justice of India Surya Kant said, "State of Uttar Pradesh has filed a status report, according to which, the chargesheet has now been filed in the matter. Keeping this in view, we dispose of this writ petition and other connected matters with a direction to the learned Judicial Magistrate to proceed in the matter in accordance with law."

The bench added that "since there is an element of public interest involved, liberty is granted to the writ petitioners to assist the learned Magistrate on the same premise as the law enables a victim of crime to assist the court."

The bench, also comprising Justices Joymalya Bagchi and V Mohana, clarified that it "has not expressed any opinion on merits" to "ensure that no prejudice is caused".

Appearing for the state, Solicitor-General Tushar Mehta said the theft mostly took place during counting.

"Individuals who were counting have taken the money," he said.

Mehta said an audit was also conducted and that "all artefacts or all chadava are found to be intact". He added that measures have been taken to ensure such incidents do not happen again.

Manipur: Kuki group extends shutdown in Kangpokpi district by 48 hours

Jimmy Leivon
Imphal, November 2

ACCUSING THE government of failing to deliver justice for the abduction and murder of two Kuki-Zo civilians, the Committee on Tribal Unity (CoTU) on Monday prolonged its total shutdown in Manipur's Kangpokpi district by another 48 hours.

Essential services, including schools, healthcare, media, and airport-bound transit, have been exempted from the shutdown.

On October 29, the Kuki-Zo civil society and tribal organisation had called a 48-hour shutdown in the district, which was later extended for another 24 hours last Saturday.

The CoTU accused authorities of failing to act decisively despite the gravity of the crime, leaving the victims' families and the Kuki-Zo community waiting for justice. "The patience of a grieving community must never be mistaken for weakness, nor its demand for justice be treated with contempt," its statement read. The Committee stated that the Kuki-Zo community would no longer accept administrative delays or empty assurances, demanding immediate, time-bound justice against the perpetrators of the heinous crime.

It warned that failure on the part of the government to ensure decisive action and timely justice within the extended 48-hour period would compel it to take its own course of action with the help of its community.

"... will hold the government responsible for the consequences of its continued failure to respond to the community's demand for justice," the statement added.

BJP corporator booked for slapping man who questioned UP Dy CM

Express News Service
Lucknow, November 2

A MAN was allegedly slapped by a BJP corporator after he posed a question on the issue of UGC reservation to Uttar Pradesh Deputy Chief Minister Keshav Prasad Maurya at an event in Prayagraj on Sunday, triggering sharp reactions.

Local BJP MLA Harsh Vardhan Bajpai condemned the assault on the man, writing, in a post on X, that "raising questions over the UGC (reservation) is a right of every Brahmin". By late Monday evening, Rohit Tiwari, the man who was allegedly assaulted, got an FIR registered against BJP corporator Vinay Mishra on charges of assault and criminal intimidation.

The controversy erupted at 'Prabudhha Mahakumbh' organised by Rashtriya Parashuram Sena in the Daraganj area of Prayagraj on Sunday when two men questioned the Deputy CM over the University Grants Commission regulations aimed at addressing caste-based discrimination on college campuses.

While Maurya was addressing the event, the two men shouted, "Will you speak about us? Will you speak something on UGC?" Apparently upset by the interruption, Maurya replied, "Keep quiet. Go from here. I will speak over everything."

Soon, policemen deployed at the event caught hold of the two men and started to escort them out of the venue. In the meantime, local BJP corporator Vinay Mishra walked towards them and slapped one of the two men. The policemen took the two men to Daraganj police station and released them later.

On Monday, BJP MLA from Allahabad North, Harsh Vardhan Bajpai, reacted on social media. In a post on X, he wrote, "Opposing UGC is a right of every Brahmin/upper caste. Those who resorted to violence against people of their own community only to curry favour should remember that no one names their child Vibhishan."

'Selective agenda': BJP objects to Dia Mirza anti-firecracker video, BMC takes it down

Pratip Acharya
Mumbai, November 2

THE BRIHANMUMBAI Municipal Corporation (BMC) on Monday deleted a video featuring actor Dia Mirza from its pollution-free Diwali campaign after BJP members objected to it, sparking a controversy. The civic body had on Sunday posted the video of the actor, urging Mumbaikars not to burst firecrackers during Diwali festivities amid concerns over the city's deteriorating air quality.

Within hours after the video went live on social media, BJP members, including the party's Mumbai chief Ameet Satam, criticised the civic authorities, following which the video was taken down.

"The festivities are here and while indulging in the celebrations, we shouldn't forget about our health and well being. Firecrackers emit noise and air pollution, which is harmful to all of us. Therefore, it is my request to celebrate Diwali by spreading happiness and not noise," Mirza said in her video.

Dia Mirza

Mumbai Mayor Ritu Tawde called a press conference and said she was not consulted by the civic authorities before roping in Mirza for the campaign.

"Our problem is not with the message that was shared, but with the celebrity that was appointed for the campaign... the elected representatives should have been consulted by the administration," she said.

Labelling Mirza's appeal as "selective agenda", Tawde said, "If we look at Dia Mirza's profile, we see that she has opposed the Narmada project and the Uniform Civil Code (UCC)... She has even opposed statements made by Prime Minister Narendra Modi. Consistently, her opposition appears to be directed against Hindutva."

After the video in which Dia Mirza appealed to the citizens to refrain from bursting crackers during Diwali started gaining traction, Mumbai BJP chief and Andheri West MLA Ameet Satam posted on X: "@mybmc We don't need lessons on how to celebrate #Diwali from @deespeak Our traditions are deeply rooted in our culture."

Following Satam's tweet, several other users also criticised the civic body for roping in Dia Mirza for the anti-cracker campaign. Within hours after Satam's tweet, the civic administration deleted the post from all its social media handles.

"Following the public outcry against the earlier posts, the administration decided to remove them. However, the civic body's stand on cracker bursting continues to be the same as we are just following the Bombay High Court's (HC) order," a civic official told the Indian Express.

Mahayuti ally Shiv Sena, meanwhile, maintained that there was nothing wrong with the message that was shared by Mirza. Speaking with reporters on Monday, Mumbai deputy mayor and senior Shiv Sena corporator Sanjay Ghadi said, "Our problem is not with the person giving the message, but the way the person was chosen. The administration should have consulted the Mayor, deputy mayor and leader of the house or at least should have presented the proposal in the civic house," he said.

"I don't think Dia Mirza has said anything inappropriate. It was unnecessary for the administration to take down the video or for BJP chief Ameet Satam to oppose it," he added.

Jalaun bar panel head killed after being lured into car, four arrested

Manish Sahu
Lucknow, November 2

THE PRESIDENT of the Kalpi Bar Association in Uttar Pradesh's Jalaun district was killed over a long-standing land dispute, hours after he was allegedly abducted on the pretext of discussing a court case, police said. The body of Gayadeen Ahirwar, 68, was recovered on Sunday afternoon from a drain in Kanpur, nearly 80 kilometres from Kalpi.

Four men, including the prime accused, Indrajeet Singh Yadav, a Kanpur-based contractor, have been arrested. Yadav has been embroiled in a legal dispute with Ahirwar over a piece of land in Jalaun's Kadaura area since 2015.

Officials claimed that two of the accused, Sarvesh Shukla alias Sabbu and Ashish Vishwakarma, both aged 27, were shot in the leg in an encounter when they allegedly tried to flee from a forest area where they along with their accomplice Keshav Katiyar, 26, were taken on Sunday evening to recover the car allegedly used in the crime.

Another accused, Monu Yadav, 24, who was allegedly hired by Indrajeet, is absconding, they added.

"We have recovered the body and the car used in the crime...," said Jalaun Circle officer Rajesh Kamal. Police said a search was launched after they were informed by Gayadeen Ahirwar's son, Harsh, on Saturday that some men had abducted his father in a car.

During the preliminary inquiry, Harsh told police that his father had gone to the court on Saturday. Around 3.30 pm, his father asked him to drop him at a crossing, saying a client was waiting there, he added.

Harsh took him there, where he said three men were waiting in a car.

He added that one of the men stepped out of the car, touched Ahirwar's feet and took him away under the pretext of discussing a case, police said.

When Ahirwar did not return home by late evening, his family tried calling him, but his phone was switched off. They then approached the police, who registered a kidnapping case.

Navy to add eight next-gen corvettes from two PSUs

Amrita Nayak Dutta
New Delhi, November 2

This is the first project in which the ships will be indigenously designed by the Indian Navy and constructed by defence PSUs

DAYS AFTER the Cabinet Committee on Security greenlighted the project, the Ministry of Defence on Monday signed contracts worth Rs 53,866.50 crore with Garden Reach Shipbuilders and Engineers Limited (GRSE) and Goa Shipyard Limited (GSL) to acquire eight next-generation corvettes for the Indian Navy.

This is the first project in which the ships will be indigenously designed by the Indian Navy and constructed by defence public sector undertakings (PSUs) selected through a competitive process, marking a major milestone in India's indigenous warship design and construction capabilities, the ministry said in a statement.

While GRSE will build five corvettes, GSL will build the remaining three.

According to the ministry, the corvettes will be equipped with state-of-the-art capabilities, including advanced missiles, weapons and sensor suites, enabling them to undertake missions across the air, surface and sub-surface domains.

Welcoming the deal, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh wrote on X, "The construction of these ships will generate approximately 72 lakh person-days of employment in the shipyards and 460 lakh person-days in ancillary industries and micro, small and medium enterprises (MSMEs) over the next ten years."

"The induction of these ships will significantly enhance the Indian Navy's operational capabilities in safeguarding maritime trade routes, conducting anti-surface and anti-submarine warfare operations, strengthening coastal defence, undertaking littoral combat operations, and carrying out maritime presence and surveillance missions," the ministry stated.

The project will also give an impetus to India's indigenous shipbuilding ecosystem by strengthening collaboration among defence public sector undertakings, private shipyards, and Indian industrial partners, including micro, small, and medium enterprises (MSMEs).

The project is intended to create a versatile combat platform that can perform a variety of roles, including anti-submarine warfare, maritime surveillance and reconnaissance, search-and-attack missions, and coastal and littoral defence, among other deterrence and maritime security operations.

The Defence Acquisition Council granted acceptance of necessity for the project at an approximate cost of Rs 36,000 crore in June 2022.

The ministry inked the contracts in the presence of Defence Secretary Rajesh Kumar Singh in New Delhi.

PM: India to add 500 GW non-fossil fuel capacity in the next 10-11 years

Pratyush Deep
New Delhi, November 2

INDIA WILL add 500 gigawatts (GW) of new non-fossil fuel capacity over the next 10-11 years, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said on Monday.

"This target is somewhat difficult, but I have faith in the capabilities of our country. And that is why I say, 'We will do it!'," PM Modi said while speaking at the inaugural session of the Bharat Renewable Energy Summit & Expo 2026.

"Under the Paris pledge, India had also set a target of meeting half of its installed power capacity from non-fossil sources, and achieved this in 2025 itself. That means we achieved it five years ahead of schedule. Today, more than 50% of our installed power capacity is based on non-fossil sources," he added.

He said India is also working resolutely towards achieving the target of 500 GW non-fossil fuel capacity by 2030 and has achieved nearly 300 GW.

"Today, India is among the top three countries in the world in solar and renewable energy," he added.

Currently, India has 308 GW of installed non-fossil capacity, about 55.1% of the total power generation capacity of 558.89 GW, according to data from the Central Electricity Authority.

Modi said that investments in the renewable energy space in India helped the country avert an energy crisis amid the West Asia war.

"If India had not invested in clean energy and created new systems for it over the past decade, our crisis could have been much more serious than that faced by the rest of the world," he added.

"And we all know that the future of energy security lies in clean energy. If we continue to depend heavily on fossil fuels, the global economy will keep facing disruptions...," he added.

Modi said more than $164 billion has been invested in the renewable energy sector over the past decade.

In just two years since the RE-INVEST Summit in 2024, he said investments of around $63 billion have come into the sector.

"It is estimated that by the end of this decade, investment opportunities worth more than Rs 20 lakh crore, or around $220 billion, will emerge in this sector. Therefore, a new horizon of opportunities is going to open up for all of you in India's clean energy sector," he added.

Woman kills dad with a cooker lid after he broke her phone over gaming addiction

Kamal Saiyed
Surat, November 2

AN ARGUMENT between a Surat man and his daughter over her habit of playing games on her phone ended in tragedy when she allegedly hit him on the head with a pressure cooker's lid before stabbing him to death.

Kajal, 22, was arrested on Sunday night for allegedly murdering her father, Ramesh Chauhan (55), after he broke her phone during an argument over her habit of playing games on her phone. According to his wife Manju, the argument began when Chauhan asked Kajal to stop playing games and help with household chores.

According to the police complaint, the family lives in Surat's Kosad area. On Sunday, when Chauhan returned home from work, Manju complained that Kajal was busy playing games on her phone and was not helping with chores. Chauhan then asked Kajal to keep her phone aside and help with the chores. When Kajal did not comply, Chauhan snatched the phone and slammed it to the ground, breaking it.

Police said this angered Kajal, and she allegedly took the pressure cooker's lid from the kitchen top and hit Chauhan hard on the head. She then stabbed him with a knife.

Hearing his screams, Manju ran to the kitchen and found him on the floor, blood coming out of his head and stomach.

Chauhan was rushed to a nearby private hospital, where he was declared dead. After Manju filed a complaint, police filed a case and arrested Kajal.

Police Inspector J B Vanar said, "We arrested the accused, Kajal, late on Sunday night. A quarrel broke out between the father and the daughter over a petty issue of her playing games on the phone, and it led to the murder. Kajal's father died a few years ago in Saurashtra, and her mother moved to Surat and married Ramesh Chauhan."

Tent, bags spotted but no trace of missing trekkers in Uttarakhand

Vidheesha Kuntamalla
Dehradun, November 2

FOUR DAYS after seven trekkers and a local guide went missing in Uttarakhand's Kedartal region, rescue teams found a tent and a few bags along with other belongings near the Kedarkadak area during a search operation Monday.

However, the rescue personnel could not locate any of the missing persons, Uttarakhand SDRF Commandant Arpan Yaduvanshi told The Indian Express.

"There was a search today. We found tents and their belongings there, but we did not find anyone," Yaduvanshi said. He said that an aerial reconnaissance was also conducted on Monday, but yielded no further leads.

The search operation is being jointly conducted by the State Disaster Response Force (SDRF) and the Nehru Institute of Mountaineering (NIM), with teams continuing efforts in the high-altitude region despite difficult weather and avalanche-hit terrain.

The eight missing persons are among a 12-member trekking party that set out for the Kedartal trek from Gangotri on October 27. The group comprised seven trekkers, a guide, a cook and three porters. The trekkers were granted permission for a three-day expedition on October 26 and were expected to return by October 29.

Hours after the group set out, authorities received a weather alert around 10.30-11 am on October 27, warning of adverse conditions expected on October 29. However, the team had already entered the trekking route, and officials were unable to contact them to convey the warning, Mayank Garg, Deputy Director of Gangotri National Park, had told The Indian Express.

On October 30, a day after the group was expected to return, authorities received information that its members had been trapped by heavy snowfall and avalanches in the Kedartal region.

Four members of the party — three porters and a cook — were rescued on October 31 near Kachchi Dhang, a stretch below the avalanche-affected area. The remaining eight, including five trekkers from West Bengal, two women from Uttar Pradesh and a 25-year-old local guide from Uttarkashi, remain missing.

Rescue operations have been hampered by multiple avalanches along the route. Garg had said that the avalanche-affected stretch near Sukhi Dhang was approximately 11-12 km on foot from the entry point, while its direct aerial distance was around 5.5-6 km.

Information available with the department indicated that avalanches had occurred at around 10-12 locations along the route.

Earlier attempts to reach the missing trekkers on foot had to be aborted after the rescue teams encountered avalanche-hit stretches. Aerial reconnaissance operations conducted over the past few days had also failed to locate the missing persons or their belongings.

The Kedartal route sees relatively fewer trekkers compared to the Gomukh route, which accounts for around 95% of visitors undertaking treks in the area. Monitoring on the Kedartal route is, consequently, less frequent.

Andhra braces for landfall, rescue teams mobilised in Odisha as Murasu approaches

Sreenivas Janyala & Sujit Bisoyi
Bhubaneswar, Hyderabad, November 2

EVACUATIONS, DEPLOYMENT of government officials and closure of educational institutions. Less than a week after Cyclone Arnab hit India's eastern coast, Tamil Nadu, Odisha and Andhra Pradesh have begun preparing for another cyclonic storm, Murasu.

According to the IMD, the severe cyclonic storm is moving at 14 kmph. Currently centred 110 km from Nellore, it is likely to cross the coast near Ongole early Tuesday morning.

"The severe cyclonic storm Murasu is very likely to move northwestwards and cross the south Andhra Pradesh coast as a severe cyclonic storm with a wind speed of 100 to 110 kmph (and) gusting up to 120 kmph between Nellore and Narasapur to the south of Ongole during midnight (11.30 pm) of today to early hours (4 am) of tomorrow, November 3," the Met department said in an official release.

Under its influence, light to moderate rain is expected at most places across Coastal Andhra Pradesh, Yanam and Rayalaseema on Monday. Extremely heavy rainfall is likely at one or two places in Bapatla, Prakasam, Nellore, Chittoor and Tirupati districts. In Odisha, the IMD has forecast heavy rainfall in parts of Gajapati and Ganjam districts on Monday, along with thunderstorms and gusty winds of 40-50 kmph.

Rayagada, Koraput, Malkangiri, Puri and Khurda districts are also likely to receive rainfall. Several parts of Odisha have already begun experiencing light rain, with its intensity expected to increase, officials said.

For the governments of Andhra Pradesh and Odisha, this means a second round of evacuations in less than a week. Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister Chandrababu Naidu held a review meeting with senior officials at the secretariat on Monday and directed the administration to remain alert.

Naidu asked officials to make effective use of the rainfall to fill tanks and reservoirs through efficient water management.

Officials told the Chief Minister that Palnadu district was expected to receive the highest rainfall, at around 30 cm, followed by Prakasam with 24 cm and Markapuram with 19 cm. Krishna and Guntur districts may receive up to 9 cm, while Eluru and Nellore are also likely to receive around 9 cm each. Naidu directed officials to complete post-cyclone restoration work within 48 hours.

In Odisha, the government has prioritised evacuations from vulnerable areas and strengthened emergency response mechanisms, officials said. Disaster Management Minister Suresh Pujari said although the storm is likely to make landfall along the Andhra Pradesh coast, it would affect several parts of Odisha, particularly the southern districts of Ganjam, Gajapati, Rayagada, Koraput and Malkangiri. He said all district collectors had been put on alert, with the southern districts placed on high alert.

In Tamil Nadu, the state government has deployed 500 electricity department personnel in 25 teams to assist Andhra Pradesh in restoring power supply disrupted by Cyclone Murasu, following a request from CM Naidu, state Electricity Minister R Nirmal Kumar said.

Chamoli helicopter crash: Probe finds no Mayday call

Initial report blamed bad weather but probe looking beyond

Vidheesha Kuntamalla
Dehradun, November 2

Wreckage of the private helicopter, operated by Trans Bharat Aviation, that crashed into a hillside near Chai village in the Joshimath area of Chamoli district in Uttarakhand, Friday. FILE

NO MAYDAY or distress call from the pilot of the Trans Bharat Aviation helicopter was recorded before it crashed near Sthan Marwari in Uttarakhand on Friday, investigators probing the incident have told The Indian Express. The crash killed the pilot and five passengers.

The absence of any distress communication, along with eyewitness accounts and videos showing the helicopter's descent, raises the possibility that something happened suddenly, leaving the pilot with little time to alert other aircraft, an official familiar with the ongoing investigation told The Indian Express on condition of anonymity.

"Some aviation experts suggest there might have been a mid-air collision — a bird or a drone — though we are still figuring it out," he said.

The official added that the manner in which the helicopter fell did not appear consistent with an engine failure.

The Chamoli district administration's initial Action Taken Report had attributed the incident to adverse weather conditions in the Hathi Parvat area, where the helicopter reportedly crashed while descending towards a lower altitude. The IMD had issued an orange alert for Chamoli on October 30, warning of thunderstorms, lightning, hail and gusty winds of 40-50 kmph in isolated areas.

However, the official said, "There was no communication about poor visibility or any issue that this particular pilot faced. Otherwise, some issue would have been raised over the RT (radio telephony)."

As The Indian Express had earlier reported, another helicopter took off from Badrinath just eight minutes after the Trans Bharat aircraft. It landed safely at its destination. Yet another helicopter departed nearly an hour later, while two flights that had flown before the crashed aircraft also completed their journeys safely.

The timing and sequence of these flights are among the aspects being examined as part of the investigation.

The official said pilots of other helicopters operating in the area have shared their versions with authorities. None reported receiving a distress call or hearing any communication about poor visibility or other operational difficulties over radio telephony (RT).

The Trans Bharat Aviation helicopter had departed from Dehradun at 12.20 pm on Friday and landed at Badrinath at 1.11 pm. After picking up five passengers, it crashed while returning to Dehradun.

Flight operations in the Badrinath Valley were suspended between 9 am and noon on Friday due to inclement weather, but resumed after conditions improved. The official said there was no black box in the single-engine helicopter. Investigators are instead trying to recover a camera usually installed behind the pilot's seat, which could offer clues about the final moments.

"The team is active on the ground trying to find the camera. It's difficult terrain. It's getting difficult to find the camera. But yes, our priority is to find it anyhow," he said.

The investigation team is also questioning eyewitnesses who saw the helicopter descending before it crashed and consulting aviation experts. The Aircraft Accident Investigation Bureau (AAIB) is probing the accident. "Everything is under investigation. Maybe if we get some more clues, more evidence, we'll be in a better position to conclude something," the official said.

Meanwhile, charter helicopter services for the Char Dham Yatra have been suspended for the remainder of this season following a meeting between helicopter operators and the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) on Monday.

The meeting came after 11 helicopter operators wrote to the authorities opposing the DGCA's decision to make two pilots mandatory for charter helicopter operations for the remainder of the ongoing pilgrimage season.

The operators raised concerns that the requirement would make it financially unviable for them to continue operations, particularly with only a week left in this year's yatra.

"They raised a few concerns that this might not be financially viable for them to continue the chopper services. And considering that only one week is left in the Char Dham Yatra for this year, they requested DGCA to relook at this decision," CEO of UCADA Prateek Jain told The Indian Express.

He added that deliberations would continue and a final decision on the twin-pilot requirement would be taken before the commencement of next year's yatra. "For now, we've agreed to call off the charter services for Char Dham Yatra for this season," he said.

Fire breaks out at HPCL facility in Vizag

A FIRE broke out at the HPCL facility in Vizag on Monday night, police said. However, there were no casualties, said an official. Vizag police commissioner Shankabrata Baghci said, "A fire broke out in Vizag HPCL facility and there were no casualties." The official added that the exact cause of the blaze is yet to be confirmed by the oil marketing company. Visuals of towering column of fire accompanied by thick smoke, illuminating the night sky over the port city went viral. PTI

One dies in blast triggered by gas leak in Bihar

ONE PERSON died and at least six were injured after an explosion triggered by a leaked gas pipeline on Monday. The blast sent shockwaves, which damaged a four-storey building and shattered windowpanes that came in a 100-metre radius, officials said. Eyewitnesses said the explosion happened when a JCB machine touched an underground PNG pipeline in the Gobarsahi-Dumri area. The blast also led to a blaze that was doused by rescue teams. PTI

Homebuyers pen letter to PM: After 10 yrs, objectives of RERA 'far from being achieved'

Express News Service
New Delhi, November 2

A HOMEBUYERS' forum has written to PM Narendra Modi raising concerns about the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, claiming even 10 years after the law was enacted it has failed to address malpractices, including the misuse of homebuyers' money, one-sided nature of buyer-seller agreements and project delays.

In its letter on October 26, the Forum for People's Collective Efforts (FPCE), which was one of the campaigners behind the RERA, acknowledged the law led to the registration of an increasing number of projects, but its objectives were "far from being achieved".

The primary cause, according to the forum, was that the Real Estate Regulatory Authority—set up in 2016 under the Act—had been entrusted with the conflicting responsibilities of both promoting the sector and protecting homebuyers.

The forum suggested a mandate overhaul, allowing the Housing Ministry to continue looking after the promotion of the sector, while entrusting the Department of Consumer Affairs with the sole responsibility of protecting homebuyers' interests. "We fully recognise that RERA has brought a large number of projects within a registration framework and introduced important disclosure requirements. But registration and disclosure alone cannot be the measure of success when violations continue and homebuyers struggle to obtain effective remedies," FPCE president Abhay Upadhyay wrote.

"A family that has invested its lifetime savings needs a completed home and enforceable rights - not merely a project registration number."

The letter noted that during CAC meetings with ministry officials, the forum repeatedly raised concerns that projects were being registered without proper document scrutiny, promoter declarations, or agreements to sale.

Bhilai stall to Dubai villa: Mahadev promoter's journey to extradition

Mahender Singh Manral

Saurabh Chandrakar at the Rouse Avenue courts in New Delhi on Monday. ANI

THE ENFORCEMENT Directorate's (ED) investigation into the money laundering case against Saurabh Chandrakar, the prime accused in the Mahadev Online Book betting case, traces his journey from working at a juice shop in Madhya Pradesh's Bhilai to living in a villa in Dubai, and a Rs 200-crore wedding that led to the unravelling of an alleged Rs 6,000-crore scam.

Indian agencies have extradited Chandrakar from Oman. A CBI team brought him to India on Sunday evening. He is wanted in two CBI cases in which chargesheets have been filed, and in an ED case under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) in which a prosecution complaint has been lodged. Indian authorities had been trying to trace Chandrakar since 2023. They recently tracked him down to Oman and coordinated with the authorities there for his extradition.

"Chandrakar, along with co-accused Ravi Uppal, is the principal promoter, controller and beneficiary of Mahadev Online Book. He ran the head office from Dubai and did not return to India after he left on February 16, 2022," a source familiar with the investigation said.

Investigators describe Mahadev Online Book, along with its allied platforms Reddy Anna, Fairplay, Skyexchange and Lotus365, as an organised transnational betting syndicate run as a franchise of panels controlled from a Dubai head office. The head office issued master credentials to operators and settled weekly profit-and-loss statements. The agency estimates more than 3,200 such panels operated across India and the UAE.

According to the investigators, the proceeds of crime in the case are between Rs 88,000 crore and Rs 94,000 crore. Of this, Mahadev Online Book accounts for Rs 75,000-80,000 crore, Skyexchange for Rs 11,000-12,000 crore and Lotus365 for Rs 2,400 crore. "Of this, Rs 4,000-5,000 crore is estimated to have been remitted out of India to promoters in the UAE. Six prosecution complaints — one main and five supplementary — have been filed against 116 accused, and 14 persons have been arrested," the source said.

Chandrakar is from Chhattisgarh's Bhilai. His father worked as a clerk with the Bhilai Municipal Corporation and took voluntary retirement. His mother is a homemaker. "Before setting up the betting business, the family ran a juice shop in Bhilai named Juice Factory under M/s Orbique Foods Pvt. Ltd. His elder brother, Gitesh, held 51 per cent of the company, and Chandrakar worked at the shop. He drew around Rs 15,000 a month from it," a source said.

The probe revealed that Chandrakar's co-accused Uppal was a frequent visitor to the juice stall. The investigation found that Chandrakar took money from the shop to set up his own business and operated on a small scale till December 2020. But within two years, the family moved to an ultra-rich lifestyle.

Chandrakar left India in 2022. "Family members and friends from Bhilai settled with him in the UAE, and a Dubai investment company, M/s Perfect Plan Investment LLC, declared in its KYC papers that its villa was given to him to live in and to use as his address," the source added.

On May 6, 2022, while holding an Indian passport, he obtained a Vanuatu passport issued at Port Vila. His Indian passport has since been revoked. Besides Chandrakar, co-promoter Uppal and associates Vikash Chhaparia, Shubham Soni and Anil Kumar Agarwal alias Atul Agarwal are named as accused.

Gujarat: 61 'foreigners' detained

Brendan Dabhi
Ahmedabad, November 2

POLICE IN Ahmedabad have claimed to have detained 61 alleged illegal immigrants, most of whom belong to Bangladesh.

The Detection of Crime Branch (DCB) of the Ahmedabad City Police said on Monday (November 2) that the alleged foreign nationals had been rounded up from across Ahmedabad in a pre-Diwali crackdown targeting illegal migrants.

"In a major proactive step to bolster public safety ahead of the upcoming Diwali festivities, the Ahmedabad Crime Branch launched a comprehensive, city-wide crackdown targeting illegal foreign nationals residing in the metropolis, resulting in the detention of 61 illegal immigrants, predominantly hailing from Bangladesh," the Crime Branch said.

The Crime Branch said it had carried out raids across multiple zones in Ahmedabad city starting Sunday night. DCP (Crime) Ajit Rajian told The Indian Express that the alleged illegal immigrants had been picked up from Danilimda, Pirana, Jamalpur, Naroda, and Nikol.

The Gujarat Police usually carries out crackdowns and raids across the state during the Navratri-Diwali period, but the drive that began on Sunday night was conducted in Ahmedabad city alone.

The detainees, which include women and children, were taken to the headquarters of the Crime Branch, and will be sent to the Joint Interrogation Centre (JIC) in the city, where around 40 others are already lodged, police said.

'We are suffering': In Goa village, a railway line cuts off homes

Pavneet Singh Chadha
Panaji, November 2

Residents of Velsao say that an average of seven goods trains carrying coal pass daily, covering their houses with dust. EXPRESS

SANDRA RODRIGUES says her family is "land-locked". A 51-year-old resident of Velsao in South Goa's Mormugao taluka, Rodrigues lives in a 400-year-old heritage house facing a railway track.

Her ancestral home was built long before the railways arrived in the area in the late 19th Century. But now, with the ongoing double-tracking project, mud, soil and other construction material have been dumped near her house by the South Western Railway (SWR) contractor, blocking the traditional motorable access road (Level Crossing 26) and the family's right of way, she says. As a result, she has to "trespass" on a neighbour's property to leave her house. The debris has also cut off vehicular access for ambulances and fire tenders in an emergency.

For years, residents of Velsao have been protesting against the 363-km Hospet-Tinaighat-Vasco da Gama double-tracking project, being executed by state-owned Rail Vikas Nigam Limited (RVNL) to increase the line's capacity to handle passenger and freight traffic.

The proposed doubling of the 91-km Tinaighat-Vasco stretch, including the section passing through the Western Ghats between Castle Rock and Kulem, has been particularly contentious. Environmentalists and residents argue that the project will facilitate coal transportation from Mormugao Port in Goa to Karnataka and threaten the ecologically sensitive Western Ghats.

In Velsao, residents say the project is being carried out without regard for their property rights, access to their homes and health. Rodrigues's neighbour, Oscar Goes, says cracks have developed in some walls of his house because of vibrations when trains pass. Residents say an average of seven goods trains carrying coal pass daily, covering their houses with dust.

Orville Dourado Rodrigues, founder of NGO Goencho Ekvott, which has been at the forefront of protests against the double-tracking project, says: "We are already suffering because of a single (railway) track. If and when this double-tracking project is complete, the coal dust will severely impact our health."

The opposition extends beyond Velsao, particularly over the project's potential impact on the Western Ghats. The Supreme Court in 2022 set aside the clearance granted by the standing committee of the National Board for Wildlife for doubling the railway line from Castle Rock in Karnataka to Kulem in Goa.

The apex court accepted the recommendations of the SC-appointed Central Empowered Committee (CEC), which said in its report that it did not find any justification for the track as it "will destroy the fragile ecosystem of the Western Ghats which is an internationally recognised biodiversity hotspot and also one of the most important wildlife corridors of the country".

What is the double-tracking project?

Sanctioned in the 2010-11 Railway Budget, the Hospet-Tinaighat-Vasco da Gama double-tracking project has been implemented in phases. While 312 km of the 363-km route had been commissioned by September 2025, sections in Goa – including the Castle Rock–Kulem stretch – remained pending amid environmental clearance issues.

The existing single railway line between Hospet and Vasco, laid in 1900, connects iron ore mining and industrial areas in Hospet in Karnataka to Mormugao Port in Vasco. The project seeks to add a second line to increase the route's capacity to carry freight and passenger trains. The 26-km stretch between Castle Rock and Kulem, which has faced strong opposition, passes through natural forests of the Western Ghats.

The Railways has argued that industrial growth and an increase in tourism have saturated the capacity of the existing single line, which needs to be doubled to meet rising demand and accommodate more goods and passenger trains. Environmentalists and residents dispute this argument.

The protests

In September 2025, the Goa government said that no expansion of coal transportation capacity would be permitted in the state, adding that reports suggesting additional land was being acquired for coal handling in connection with the Hospet-Vasco double-tracking project were "incorrect".

In Velsao, residents allege that the "temporary" second railway track has been laid haphazardly and soil dumped despite the SWR not having title documents for the land. The issue of land ownership near the Velsao railway line is being contested in a civil suit before the District Judge, South Goa, at Margao, and the Court of the Inspector of Survey and Land Records, Salcete.

In the suit, the SWR has denied any trespass, encroachment or illegal interference with private property, arguing that RVNL and SWR are carrying out the double-tracking work strictly on land in the Railways' possession and occupation. The SWR has also submitted that the Government of Goa, through an official gazette notification issued in May 2023 under the Goa Land Revenue Code, 1968, recorded that certain lands in the SWR's possession and occupation had not been assigned survey numbers and had no records of rights in Forms 1 and 14.

It has further argued that railway land along the Castle Rock-Vasco da Gama section has been in the exclusive possession of the Railways for railway purposes "from time immemorial" and that the area residents refer to as a "pathway" or access has never formed part of privately owned land.

When contacted, Sashibhusan Sahoo, general manager of the Rail Vikas Nigam Limited (RVNL), declined to comment. The Public Relations Officer of the South Western Railway could not be reached.

Max Rodrigues, whose house faces the railway tracks, worked as an architect in Mumbai for several years before returning to his ancestral home in Velsao in 2013 to pursue farming.

"If the double-tracking project goes through, we will have sleepless nights. Every hour, a goods train will pass from here. The coal transportation would exacerbate air pollution from coal dust and pose a severe risk of respiratory ailments," he says.

Opposition climbs stage but needs sharper script

THE CONGRESS-LED Opposition's rally at Ramlila Maidan on Sunday was a significant moment in the protests against the Chief Election Commissioner's conduct of the Special Intensive Revision of electoral rolls. For parties pushed to the wall by the BJP's serial electoral victories that it has regularly leveraged to squeeze spaces for opponents and to short-circuit debate, the crowds and the line-up of INDIA bloc heavyweights was a reclaiming of public space that was, arguably, cathartic. A day earlier, a similarly united Opposition, along with civil-society groups that joined hands with it on both days, had staged a "mock impeachment" of CEC Gyanesh Kumar. But the day after Ramlila Maidan, and ahead of crucial polls early next year in UP and other states, the Opposition may need to pause and take stock. Is symbolism overtaking the substance of its politics, and even undermining it? By refusing to make vital distinctions, by spreading the net too wide — from CEC-SIR, to lack of jobs, shrinking farmers' incomes, price rise and capture of institutions in general — is it losing the issue while sounding nihilistic? Most of all, by folding into this unwieldy campaign their own electoral defeats, by using high-pitched rhetoric in place of evidence to connect dots, parties of the Opposition risk looking like defeated players in search of a fall guy.

At their joint rally, speaker after speaker sought to make a hold-all accusation of illegitimacy against the BJP-led ruling establishment their starting point. In a way, this also reflects the genuine problem that the Opposition confronts in framing the CEC-SIR issue for a larger audience. It is challenging to communicate institutional integrity in terms that touch the hearts and minds of voters. But the Opposition does itself no favours by not stepping up to that challenge. The greater danger is that it also does disservice to an issue that fundamentally affects the health of democracy. The Election Commission of India underwrites the constitutional guarantee of equal voting rights for all citizens, which is essential for democracy to renew itself through free and fair elections. As this paper's investigation showed, there has been, under this CEC's direct watch, a disquieting erosion of checks and balances within the ECI, which needs to be addressed urgently.

Opposition parties' invocation of generally apocalyptic spectres is unpersuasive and self-defeating also because it has not found resonance on the ground. And because it is vulnerable to the charge that it is a thin cover for the absence of an affirmative politics — the inability of these parties to showcase alternative governance models in states where they are in power, Karnataka to Jharkhand, Himachal to Punjab. These parties will have to reconsider whether mechanically adding the name of CEC Gyanesh Kumar to their already existing villains' gallery is enough. For the losing side in a democracy, to keep knocking the electoral process is, after a point, dispiriting for the voters they are addressing and appealing to. The energy comes from the harder labour of politics. That, for those who took the Ramlila stage on Sunday, is still work not done.

The challenge is more productive employment

INDIA HAS made remarkable progress in lifting millions out of abject poverty. Extreme poverty, as measured by a $3 per day poverty line, has fallen to 2.6 per cent in 2023, according to the World Bank's latest estimate. At a higher threshold — the lower-middle income country line of $4.2 per day — the decline from 57.7 per cent in 2011 to 16.1 per cent in 2023 is equally impressive. This improvement in living standards can be observed across the rural-urban divide, in most states. Yet, the lack of more productive and better paying non-farm employment opportunities remains an obstacle in the path to mass prosperity.

India's labour force participation rate has increased to around 59 per cent in 2025 (15 years and above), according to the periodic labour force surveys. Much of this is because more women are joining the labour force. But a significant number are either engaged in agriculture or self-employed. The less productive farm sector now employs around 43 per cent of the workforce. In comparison, in China, 21.68 per cent are engaged in agriculture, in Vietnam the figure is 25 per cent, according to the World Bank. In the non-farm sector in India, roughly three-fourths of workers are employed in informal enterprises — another segment characterised by low levels of productivity. Unlike in other Asian countries that have moved up the income ladder, manufacturing in India hasn't been able to absorb the millions of low and unskilled workers. Employment has steadily expanded, instead, in the less productive, low-end services.

Poverty in India is now concentrated in north India — 57 per cent of the poor are found in the "belt stretching from Uttar Pradesh to West Bengal", according to the World Bank. This region, where per capita incomes tend to be lower than the national average, offers fewer job opportunities, leaving migration to high-income regions as a channel for greater access to non-farm employment. For India to move up the income ladder — to the ranks of the upper-middle-income group and then to the high-income category — it needs to shift its workforce from low to high productivity jobs. That is one of the biggest development challenges.

What's in a meme? A player and a league

EVERYONE IS fair game for a meme, but memes can have consequences. Kylian Mbappé, captain of the French football team, is learning this the hard way. Asked about his favourite online joke, he picked one that superimposed his face on "some guy", saying "I think he's a Chinese dictator." That "guy" was Mao Zedong. China's response has turned a football meme into a diplomatic and commercial headache.

The Mbappé-as-dictator meme was born in a kebab shop in Marseille, after its owner was served a legal notice over a sandwich he called "as round as Mbappé's skull". The owner retorted that Mbappé "had turned his name into a dictatorship". The internet ran with the joke, with phrases like "Dictator Mbappé" doing the rounds. The meme also drew upon a narrative of him wielding outsized influence in his previous club, Paris Saint-Germain.

Only the internet could have brought together two figures so disparate. But the controversy has now ballooned, it threatens La Liga's ambitions in the Chinese market. Sponsors have walked away, and despite apologies from Mbappé, Real Madrid and the League, the League went dark in China. A meme about one man's hold over a football club has been displaced by a different kind of power: It decides what may be said, and what it can cost to say it. Mbappé has been portrayed online as running his club like a politburo. It seems he has now met his match.

The Communist Party with Xi Jinping characteristics

JABIN T JACOB

DEVENDRA KUMAR

SINCE THE 18th National Congress of the Communist Party of China (CPC) in 2012, when Xi Jinping took over as general secretary, discipline inspection and supervisory organs across the country have filed 8.105 million cases and punished 7.922 million officials. Contrast this with the situation in India, where even if it were the claim that the problem does not exist at the scale it exists in China, it should still be concerning that consolidated figures are not issued by the government and that available figures are scattered across multiple sources.

However, the real significance of China's long-running anti-corruption campaign is in the sustained targeting of the "tigers", or Party officials in senior ranks. Of the millions punished, 963 are "officials registered at and supervised by the CPC Central Committee", which is to say very senior officials including Central Committee (CC) members.

Each Party Congress elects a CC of approximately 200 full members and 170-odd alternate members. The full members choose the politburo of about 25 members from within their ranks and it is from the politburo that the Standing Committee, including the general secretary, are chosen. In other words, the full CC members are the 200 most powerful people in China, comprising party secretaries (equivalent to Indian chief ministers) and governors of provinces, central government ministers, military leaders at the theatre command level and heads of Central Military Commission (CMC) departments, heads of the party organisations that report directly to the CC — such as, for example, the Communist Youth League — and heads of national-level organisations such as the All China Women's Federation, All China Federation of Trade Unions and state-owned enterprises. The alternates, meanwhile, occupy junior ranks and constitute leaders-in-waiting.

By the end of the fifth plenum of the 20th CC, a total of 51 members — full and alternate — had been expelled, an unprecedented number in the post-Mao period. At the end of the 18th and 19th CCs, the numbers were respectively 49 and 12. In other words, approximately an eighth of the 20th CC membership were removed before the full term concluded. It is against this backdrop that the fifth plenum issued its communiqué, 'Resolution on Certain Major Issues concerning Persevering with Full and Rigorous Party Self-Governance'.

What are the implications for China and the rest of the world of this stringent CPC approach to "self-governance"?

To start with, the communiqué declares that the Party "has secured progress" in, among other things, "balancing domestic and international imperatives; ensuring both development and security; delivering tangible results in high-quality economic development... safeguarding national security and social stability... modernising national defence and the armed forces; carrying out work related to Hong Kong, Macao, and Taiwan; and pursuing major-country diplomacy with Chinese characteristics".

> By the end of the fifth plenum of the 20th CC, a total of 51 members — full and alternate — had been expelled, an unprecedented number in the post-Mao period

In other words, the domestic and the external are closely tied. In this respect, one of the first things that impacts the rest of the world is China's economic policymaking. Like other aspects of policymaking, this too, is increasingly top-down and centralised. Xi seeks to shape local economic policies and their implementation through the appointment of officials who are not just competent economic administrators — a large number of new appointees to the positions of governor and vice-governor in provinces have backgrounds in economics and finance — but also hew to his political agenda of firm Party control over the economy.

However, just like the Party cannot will Chinese families to produce more children, it is unlikely that it can will them into parting with their savings to boost domestic consumption — the lack of which is a fundamental weakness of the Chinese economy. In external economic policy, meanwhile, Party control does not necessarily translate into good Chinese economic behaviour. The Party has noted that "safeguarding... [China's] development interests" has become "even more arduous". This is a recipe for greater pressure both on Chinese enterprises engaged abroad and on foreign enterprises doing business in or with China.

The other important aspect of China's external policy affected is its security policies. The CMC was reduced to just two members in January this year and the sole vice-chairman, General Zhang Shengmin, has now been promoted to the politburo. Zhang is a political commissar with a focus on anti-corruption work, not a battlefield commander. While this does indicate greater politicisation of the PLA, it does not simultaneously mean that war-fighting is not a priority. If anything, it suggests the opposite — that Chinese military modernisation and expansion is so far advanced that it requires greater political oversight over decision-making within the PLA so that political goals and the military means to achieve them are better aligned. China's neighbours will have much to worry about.

A decade-long anti-corruption campaign that continues with ever-increasing intensity raises several questions, especially when even those considered close to Xi have also fallen. However, the fifth plenum communiqué declares, "deep-seated problems that had plagued the Party for years have been remedied, and serious dangers hidden within the Party, the state, and the military have been removed". Xi is clearly making a case for his continuance in power for a fourth term at the 21st Party Congress at the end of next year. His political strategy is of shaping the next generation of the Party's leadership while pre-empting any potential opposition to his political agenda.

Manufactured distrust and a politics of shortcuts

VINAY SAHASRABUDDHE

ALL OVER the world, people are talking about Gen Z uprisings. Opposition groups in several countries are pinning their hopes on young people taking to the streets to achieve what they themselves could not. Others are riding piggyback on Gen Z and trying to settle scores with their respective establishments. In some countries, Gen Z agitators have struck a popular chord but failed miserably to bring anything substantial to the table. An overview of recent uprisings in countries as diverse as Albania, Bangladesh, Morocco, France and Madagascar suggests that one size simply does not fit all. Besides, creatively talented but thoroughly inexperienced organisers appear largely confused. Understandably, the initial hype surrounding Gen Z is waning everywhere, and India is no exception.

About a year ago, an essay by a researcher-blogger at the London School of Economics identified reasons for failed youth uprisings in several countries. Two observations were particularly realistic and remarkable. First, such movements succeed only when governments are weak, divided or vulnerable. Second, Gen Z energy does catalyse momentum, but lasting victories require workers, unions, professionals and older generations to join in. Their absence has proved a major weakness in most cases.

India has a long history of semi-organised uprisings that people eventually rejected. The Naxalite movement, for instance, illustrates this. Through violence, Naxalites held some sway over vulnerable sections in certain regions for a limited period. However, their influence remained confined to the margins in a handful of states. Openly Naxalite political parties, too, have failed to secure popular mandates.

Those seeking to present themselves as alternatives to established political parties have more often than not failed. Two decades ago, Medha Patkar tried to bring together leaders linked with so-called "mass movements" and form a political platform to contest elections, but failed miserably. Regional outfits invoked language or provincial identity to mobilise people, yet their political impact remained short-lived and geographically limited.

Indian society is averse to instability. True, the present youth movement lacks the maturity of serious, cause-driven movements of the past. Even so, some lessons emerge. Even during the Independence struggle, people were less comfortable with street activism, and manufactured cynicism found few takers. It was not without reason that freedom fighters, too, reposed confidence in the judiciary of their time. Almost all streams of the freedom movement conducted mass awareness campaigns as part of their groundwork. In the post-Independence era, leaders spearheading movements combined popular education with on-ground activism.

> It was not without reason that freedom fighters reposed confidence in the judiciary of their time. Almost all streams of the freedom movement conducted mass awareness campaigns as part of their groundwork

Manufactured distrust in democratic institutions rarely influences the popular mind in India. People trusted the ECI even when the Prime Minister had sole discretion over the CEC's appointment. Even during the draconian Emergency, people continued to believe in the judiciary, media and even a truncated Parliament. The Morarji Desai government could easily have reversed Parliament's decision to add "socialist" and "secular" as adjectives describing the Republic. But it showed remarkable restraint, safeguarding public trust in democratic institutions. The Modi government could have issued an ordinance to take control of land near the Bangladesh border for border check-posts, overcoming Mamata Banerjee's recalcitrance in the interest of national security. But it did not overstep, again respecting the constitutional framework. Since the Emergency, voters have grown more confident in the power of their ballot. They know they can change governments through elections when they make up their minds.

We are witnessing a generational divide, not only in society but within families. It is a conflict between the impracticable "here-and-now" approach of the impatient and the "right decision at the right time" approach of those wiser through experience.

The moral, then, is clear. Changing governments requires years of hard work and sustained mobilisation of public opinion. India has always rejected frivolous attempts masquerading as popular imagination. There is no place for shortcuts here.

Patrick Stewart's greatest role: Power that paused

BIJETRI PATHAK

PATRICK STEWART, who has died at 86, spent a career playing power that does not strike. The man behind the role knew what the other kind looked like. The obituaries will recite the credits: Captain Jean-Luc Picard in Star Trek: The Next Generation from 1987 to 1994, Professor Charles Xavier in the X-Men franchise; Emmy nominations for Frasier and Extras. They will note that he was a Royal Shakespeare Company actor before he was a household name, and that he is survived by his wife, the singer-songwriter Sunny Ozell, and two children. The credits cannot show the argument his career made, or where it may have come from.

Stewart was born in 1940 in Mirfield, West Yorkshire, and left school at 15. His childhood was marked by poverty and domestic violence. He later described his father as a very powerful man who got what he wanted, and he spent his later years campaigning for survivors of domestic abuse, alongside refugees and LGBTQ+ equality. It is tempting, and perhaps not unfair, to read Picard as a long, patient answer to that home: An authority figure whose power was real and whose first instinct was never the fist.

Consider how often Picard's finest hours involve not firing. In "The Measure of a Man", the question of whether the android Data is property or person is decided not by force but by a hearing, in which Picard asks what a civilisation reveals about itself through the beings it finds convenient to own. In "Darmok", an alien people who speak only in allusion are understood through patience. The Prime Directive, forbidding interference in other societies, is usually treated as a plot device. It is better read as a theory of power: Those who can intervene owe the world a discipline of restraint. Picard breaks the rule often, but the show never lets him do so comfortably. This was Stewart's real contribution. Television's captains had been men of action. He, trained in Shakespeare, made thinking itself dramatic. You could watch Picard weigh a decision, and the pause became the point of the scene. At a time when politics everywhere rewards the leader who is fastest and loudest, he made deliberation look like authority, which is a harder acting problem than it sounds.

Then there are the Borg, the franchise's scariest alien. Read them instead as a warning about ourselves. They are efficiency without dissent; "resistance is futile" is the motto of any system that mistakes agreement for harmony. Picard, captured and made their spokesman, returned knowing how persuasive uniformity can be. India's Constitution is a long bet against that logic: Unity without uniformity. Its test is not whether we tolerate a colourful festival or a regional dish, but whether we tolerate the dissenting editorial, the inconvenient question and the minority that declines to assimilate. Nor was the show naive. The Federation's faith in dialogue often looked thin against aggression and exploitation, and Picard knew it. His claim was that a civilisation is judged by whether it keeps talking when it holds all the weapons.

We have built replicators of our own: Instant information, outrage, an expectation of instant verdicts. What we lack is the half-second in which a person, party or government asks, "Is this who we want to be?" Stewart lived in that interval. Our age celebrates the leader who strikes first. A boy from Mirfield who knew the cost of that kind of strength spent a lifetime imagining the other kind, and made it look like the future.

Farooq to lead coalition

THE NATIONAL Conference leader, Farooq Abdullah, will form a coalition government in Jammu and Kashmir sometime this week: It will have nine or 10 members. The seal of approval to the Congress(I)-NC(F) coalition was given at a meeting of the Central Parliamentary Board presided over by the Prime Minister, Rajiv Gandhi. A resolution adopted by the CPB (I) hoped that the coalition would "consolidate the secular and democratic forces in the border state". Hoping that the coalition would fight "anti-national and fundamentalist forces", the resolution recalled how the National Conference had been an active part of the national and freedom movement in the state.

Sikh head priests' appeal

THE FIVE Sikh head priests appealed to the Sikh masses not to give credence to the resolutions at the so-called "Sarbat Khalsa" held at the Golden Temple. The priests discussed the situation after Saturday's Sarbat Khalsa meeting called by Gurbachan Singh Manochahal, the acting chief of the Akal Takht. The Sarbat Khalsa had excommunicated Surjit Singh Barnala, the Chief Minister, and the Finance Minister, Balwant Singh, from the Sikh panth for their "anti-panthic" activities.

13 killed in Karachi riot

IN ONE of the worst ethnic riots in Karachi, 13 persons were killed when groups of Pathans and Muhajirs (Urdu-speaking migrants) exchanged fire and clashed with the curfew-enforcing army and security agencies.

The anti-SIR and anti-CEC agitation is now set to become a pro-democracy movement

DESHKAAL

BY YOGENDRA YADAV

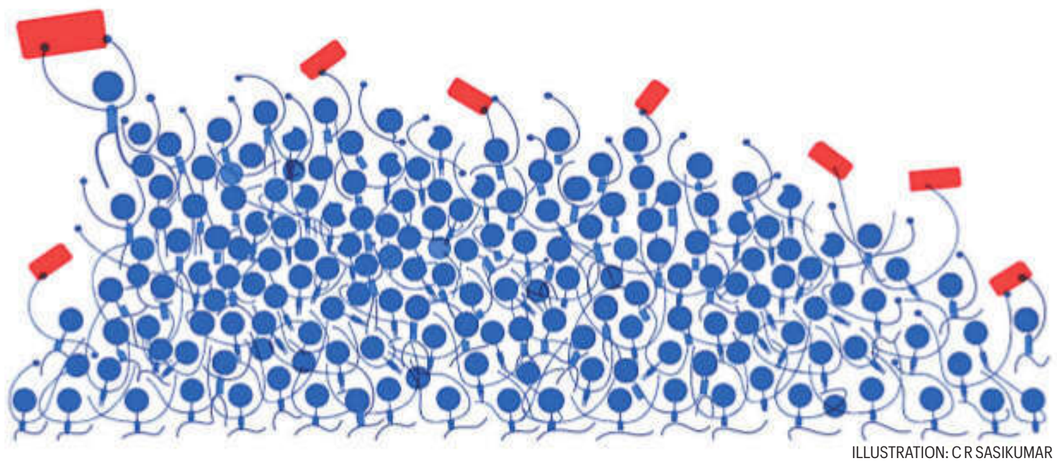

ILLUSTRATION: C R SASIKUMAR

NO ONE expected Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) Gyanesh Kumar to resign after the massive INDIA bloc rally this Sunday. Yet, despite the churlish debate over how many attended the rally, the protest has achieved more than anyone expected. At the same time, this success places greater responsibility on everyone involved in this month-long struggle.

The run-up to the rally had already seen the entire Opposition, not just the INDIA bloc, come together to question the role of the Election Commission of India (ECI). Although AAP and DMK stayed away from the rally, they are very much with the cause. Non-INDIA bloc opposition parties like the BJD, BRS and YSRCP, which have often supported the government, have also come out against the SIR and the ECI. Such a full-spectrum vote of no-confidence by the entire parliamentary Opposition against the election management body would be unprecedented in any democracy. This is like all the non-host teams demanding replacement of the tournament referee.

The "Vote Bachao Desh Bachao" rally and the "public impeachment" of Gyanesh Kumar, the day before the rally, expanded the definition of opposition beyond the political parties. A large number of "civil society" organisations and movements that have led the current campaign against the SIR were present both in the "mock parliament" on Saturday and at the podium of the Sunday rally. These included many farmer organisations and all the youth organisations active in the October protests. In an unusual and significant move, the CJP issued a call to support the Opposition rally. Influencers like Dhruv Rathee and farmer leaders like Rakesh Tikait also endorsed the rally. Though the rally participants were overwhelmingly workers and supporters of INDIA bloc parties, mainly Congress, they exuded confidence that they stood for the people at large. While we should not expect all future protests to be under a single umbrella, this weekend has brought in much-needed cohesion in this medley of protests that we witnessed in October. It has also established Rahul Gandhi, the first leader to bring the "vote chori" issue to a disbelieving public, as the moral leader of the wider oppositional space.

The rally was a significant landmark in the popular acceptance of the "vote chori" narrative. The Indian Express exposé has opened the floodgates of media reporting on the multiple scandals of the SIR, besides the unconstitutional functioning of the ECI. The public now knows about the questions that surround Form 6, misuse of bulk Form 7 objections, the contentious use of Form 8 to change the final voter list, the weird pattern of voter deletion and bulk filing of anonymous appeals in West Bengal and much more. The ECI is on the back foot. The Supreme Court, too, faces questions. True, many of these grave infringements are too technical for the public to grasp. Yet the cumulative impact of the last six weeks has been a shift in the collective common sense towards "daal mein kuchh kaala hai" — something is rotten out there. The gravitas of the "public impeachment" pushed this popular narrative further.

> As of now, a call for free and fair elections encompasses the most widely shared sentiment of the people. This would also entail reclaiming democratic freedoms like freedom of expression, dissent and protest

This imposes a historic responsibility on all those who have contributed to the success of these protests so far. Going forward, the movement is not just about removing Gyanesh Kumar and rolling back the SIR but about reclaiming the democratic space that has been lost over the past 12 years. The anti-SIR and anti-CEC agitation is now set to become a pro-democracy movement.

At this critical juncture, the call for "regime change" is a distraction best avoided. To be sure, there is nothing wrong or unconstitutional about demanding regime change through the normal democratic route of elections. And the onus of keeping that normal route truly open is on the ruling establishment and independent institutions like the ECI and the Supreme Court. Yet at this stage, this is the demand of the Opposition, not necessarily the demand of all the people on the streets. The success of a mass movement depends on floating with the sentiment of the organic protesters, on keeping to the lowest common denominator that ensures the widest possible support.

As of now, a call for free and fair elections encompasses the most widely shared sentiment of the people. Such a call goes beyond the current demands for the removal of the CEC, the repeal of the 2023 Act and the rollback of the SIR. This would also entail reclaiming democratic freedoms like freedom of expression, dissent and protest — all the more relevant in the context of the repressive and intimidatory tactics adopted by the state, like the insistence on a "peace bond". A demand for neutral functioning of autonomous institutions like the ECI, the judiciary, investigating agencies and the media would also be a part of the democracy movement. Yet, all this does not amount to a demand for regime change — and certainly not on the streets — until all peaceful, democratic and constitutional means are truly and fully exhausted. And are perceived to be so by the people.

In that context, the coming elections in Uttar Pradesh could be the litmus test. For someone like me who has observed Indian elections closely for the last four decades, the assembly election in UP will be an agnipariksha that will determine whether we can expect anything like fair elections in the minimal sense of the term under the present dispensation. More than a test of Narendra Modi's or Yogi Adityanath's popularity, it will be a test of the electoral system's credibility. That must be the focal point of the pro-democracy movement.

As this stir enters its second phase, it may not look like a mountain river with its mad and unpredictable gush of water. As it descends to the plains, the movement will be slower and more widespread. This is not to be regretted, as the example of the farmers' stir showed us. The river slowing down allows water to percolate. As the rush of energy unleashed by the spontaneously synchronised protests gives way to a loosely coordinated movement spread across the country, the "vote chori" message is likely to seep deeper into popular consciousness. The regime's decision to brazen it out and block Gyanesh Kumar's resignation could well be a blessing in disguise, not just for the protestors, but for Indian democracy.

On the ballot in US midterms: 'Epstein class', affordability crisis

RAMESH VENKATARAMAN

"GRIFT", ONCE a folksy term for carnival swindlers and petty con games, has become the defining issue of the US midterm elections. Front-page headlines in The Wall Street Journal and The New York Times reported that voter anxiety over corruption now outranks almost every other concern. A Financial Times survey found that 69 per cent of registered voters — and nearly half of those who backed Donald Trump in 2024 — worry about "corruption, self-dealing, or conflicts of interest" in his administration. Even Fox News polling showed 88 per cent of voters "extremely" or "very" concerned about government corruption.

Americans are hardly naive about public corruption. But American political corruption was traditionally clandestine. What is truly remarkable about corruption in the Trump administration is how blatant and in-your-face it has been. Trump has made no effort to hide the fact that he and his family have made an estimated $4 billion while in office. Between presidential pardons treated as currency, venture capital windfalls for his sons, crypto regulations bent toward family allies, insider stock plays, and private jets gifted by foreign regimes, Trump has turned the government into a personal enrichment machine.

The only reasonable explanation for this brazenness is that Trump must not think his self-enrichment is wrong. And, until now, neither did his base.

To understand why, one must look beyond politics to the grotesque evolution of the American Dream. The competitive ethos of American society has long manifested itself in the notion that, as a famous American football coach put it, "Winning isn't everything; it's the only thing." Combine this with the self-image of a nation that was conceived in rebellion against the old European world of pedigreed privilege and you get the wholehearted adulation of self-made winners. In the American imagination, those who climb to the top by talent, hustle, or sheer market savvy earn moral legitimacy — luck and contingency notwithstanding. It is a short step from this to believing that society's winners are inherently superior and unbound by the pedestrian constraints governing ordinary citizens.

Trump weaponised this sentiment. By glossing over the fact that he came from privilege and presenting a myth of self-made triumph, he cast himself as the ultimate "winner". It is no surprise that his go-to insult is to call someone a "loser". Trump never claimed to be a traditional public servant. Instead, he placed himself as an insider of the winning super elite whose exempt status was proof of his dominance.

A hollowed-out middle class that backed Trump out of cultural and economic despair is finding it impossible to reconcile his White House grift with their daily reality. Treading water under the weight of tariffs, rising inflation, and steep petrol prices, voters are watching a billionaire cash in while their own lives get tougher.

Yet Trump is merely the most visible symptom of a deeper structural rot. Over three decades of economic distortion, America has birthed a class of unaccountable ultra-winners: The "Epstein class". Comprising less than 0.1 per cent of the population, this circle spans tech founders, private equity barons, hedge fund titans, and media moguls. Because many come from modest backgrounds, they claim the bulletproof moral armour of meritocracy.

The Epstein class inhabits a separate stratosphere — a world of private islands, gated enclaves, superyachts, corporate jets, plush VIP boxes, and red-carpet extravaganzas. But their real privilege is structural. They enjoy carried-interest tax loopholes, multi-million-dollar compensation payouts from their buddies on company boards and golden parachutes after catastrophic failure, private profits backstopped by Federal Reserve liquidity and public bailouts, and immunity from punishment for obvious criminality. They commercialise billions in taxpayer-funded university research, rely on state subsidies for renewables, and massive government contracts in healthcare, defence, and space.

This is not the capitalism described in textbooks. The "free market" that is practically a religion for Americans is in reality a heavily rigged oligarchy wrapped up in the garb of merit. Armies of well-funded lobbyists, lawyers, and tax advisers, and the opaque web of non-disclosure agreements ensure that it stays this way.

Bernie Sanders and others on the left have been railing about this for years. But they have struggled to make it into a politically sellable issue. As working Americans face an acute affordability crisis, the central question for American democracy is whether voters finally realise the game isn't just broken at the White House — it is rigged across the entire board.

Dignity for workers

WHILE THE article rightly highlights the need for regulatory reforms to promote formal employment and higher wages, it overestimates the role of deregulation in addressing employment crisis ('Challenge is wages, not jobs. Expanding Jan Vishwas interventions can help', IE, November 2). Simplifying compliance and digitising laws are necessary, but cannot independently resolve structural challenges such as inadequate skill development, weak labour protections, and the limited creation of quality jobs. By placing considerable faith in the Jan Vishwas framework, the author risks reducing a complex socio-economic problem to an administrative one. Reform must ensure that growth translates into secure employment, fair wages, and dignity for workers.

Protecting protest

THE RIGHT to demonstrate matters only when citizens can exercise it without intimidation, while others remain protected from violence. Governments may regulate routes and hours for safety, but restrictions must be proportionate and reviewable ('In France, protest is also about the right to protest', IE, November 2). Treating dissent itself as disorder creates a dangerous precedent.

US midterms

POWER IN a democracy is rarely lost in a single election, but it can be quietly borrowed from the people who vote, and the bill often arrives years later ('A larger reckoning lies behind US midterm', IE, November 2). Voters judge leaders on groceries, rent and jobs, yet those worries can redraw the map of distant wars. If the next Congress checks the White House on tariffs and military adventures, partners get a clearer picture of what Washington can sustain. A practical step for every democracy would be publishing plain-language reports on the costs of foreign actions, so citizens can weigh them as they weigh household budgets.

Amid noisy blockbusters, missing the quiet film

POOJA PILLAI

IN THE decade since Baahubali 2: The Conclusion became the first Indian film to earn over Rs 1,000 crore globally, that number has come to be a paradox: Concrete as the threshold that every ambitious filmmaker hopes they will cross, but large enough that it is still an abstraction. What, after all, does Rs 1,000 crore even mean in an industry that spins a tale long enough that most people stop expecting any actual figures? Success is as success is narrated.

Not that the recent blockbuster history of India is all myth. Films like Baahubali, KGF and Pushpa have made money hand over fist, cementing a new appreciation of an old saw: The bigger the better. The formula is essentially reduced to huge budgets, scale and a multistar, multilingual cast. This year, Dhurandhar 2: The Revenge was that juggernaut, netting just over Rs 1,800 crore worldwide. As 2026 draws to a close, two films will hope to top its earnings. Ramayana: Part 1, opening on November 5, is reportedly the most expensive Indian film ever made, with the cost of both parts coming to about Rs 4,000 crore. Then on Christmas Eve, Shah Rukh Khan returns in King, its budget reportedly surpassing the sums spent on Pathaan (Rs 350 crore) and Jawan (Rs 400 crore).

But numbers — whether fact or fiction — are only part of the story. Consider two films that opened in the same week of August. Toxic is among the most expensive Indian films ever made, with a budget estimated at anywhere from Rs 500 crore to Rs 1,000 crore. It opened with the year's biggest advance bookings, then faltered within a week. On the other hand, Bethlehem Kudumba Unit, a Malayalam romantic comedy made for around Rs 25-30 crore opened modestly. Excellent word-of-mouth ensured that on its second Friday, the film earned nearly twice what it did on the first day.

Toxic was not the only big-budget disappointment of the year, which began with the floundering of The Raja Saab, starring Prabhas. Tamil Nadu Chief Minister Vijay's farewell project, Jana Nayagan, broke opening-day records and then just about broke even. Even Ram Charan's Peddi, which did well in the Telugu market, failed to make the larger intended splash. The films that did work belong to popular franchises: Dhurandhar 2: The Revenge, Jailer 2, Drishyam: The Conclusion. Dhurandhar alone appears to have accounted for nearly a fifth of India's box office in the first half of the year.

> The success of a film like 'Bethlehem Kudumba Unit' speaks to a real gap: The sensible budget film that finds an audience simply by being good. In Hindi cinema, the space for that kind of film has largely collapsed

But the success of a film like Bethlehem Kudumba Unit speaks to a real gap: The sensible budget film that finds an audience simply by being good. In Hindi cinema, the space for that kind of film — middle of the road with no big star but a great plot and strong writing — has largely collapsed. It exists elsewhere, but is shrinking under pressure from the changing economics of filmmaking. This year, for the first time, three Malayalam films, including Vaazha II — a coming-of-age comedy with no superstar lead — have each crossed Rs 200 crore worldwide. In Marathi, Deool Band 2, a devotional comedy made for around Rs 10 crore, reportedly earned a 550 per cent profit.

Hollywood's 2026 shows what a healthy range can look like. Its biggest film, Spider-Man: Brand New Day, is a franchise giant at nearly $2.5 billion. But the year was carried by films of every size, from Obsession, a horror film made for under $1 million that became a runaway global hit earning $500 million, to Backrooms, which was made for $10 million and made over $400 million worldwide.

The stakes are higher because audiences are returning. According to Ormax Media's India Box Office Report, the January to June earnings were Rs 6,398 crore — a rise of 10 per cent on last year. More importantly, footfalls rose 5 per cent. Those viewers were drawn to all kinds of films. To respond largely with spectacle cinema would be to bet against the mood. Ramayana and King may well break records. But the lessons of 2026 would still stand, encapsulated in the box office journeys of the most unexpected hits, and flops, of the year.

Smaller cities can lead the way on climate resilience

VAISHNAVI T G SHANKAR AND SANJAY SRIDHAR

EVERY SEASON brings a familiar climate stress to Indian cities. Yet, heat and flooding are often addressed separately even though they are shaped by the same decisions about land, buildings, and infrastructure. The challenge is not simply to respond to each challenge, but to rethink how cities grow.

The Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change offers a useful framework: Climate-resilient development, which brings together adaptation, emissions reduction, and sustainable development. India's Long-Term Low Emissions Development Strategy submitted to the UNFCCC and the National Mission on Sustainable Habitat provide a framework to integrate climate considerations into urban development. More recently, the Urban Flood Risk Management Programme covering 18 cities and the recognition of heat as a notified disaster, enabling the use of disaster funds for heat resilience, reflect growing attention to climate risks. The next step is to embed these priorities in routine planning and investment. And the opportunity lies in smaller cities.

More than half of India's urban population lives in cities with fewer than one million residents, and estimates indicate that more than 50 per cent of the housing needed by 2070 is yet to be built. Unlike large cities, where retrofitting infrastructure or changing development patterns can be costly and complex, smaller cities have an opportunity to shape how they expand. Decisions made today on roads, drainage, buildings, and public spaces can lock cities into high energy use and climate vulnerability or create more resilient and resource-efficient neighbourhoods.

Rising temperatures increase cooling needs, air-conditioning use, and electricity demand. Yet cooling demand is shaped not only by rising temperatures but also by how cities grow. A study across 88 Indian cities highlights that land use patterns, building density, urban expansion, and green cover influence cooling demand. India's Cooling Action Plan estimates that building design, energy efficiency, and thermal comfort practices could reduce cooling demand by 20 per cent by 2037-38. So, urban planning and building regulations are important for reducing heat exposure while limiting energy demand.

> Understanding how people walk, commute, and use public spaces can help smaller cities build on existing practices to shape low-carbon and resilient growth

Realising these benefits requires a shift in how cities plan. Development authorities prepare master plans, public works departments design roads, utilities provide services, and municipalities regulate buildings. These decisions are often made across separate departments and addressing them requires two shifts. Climate considerations must become part of routine planning, project appraisal, and investment, and stronger coordination between departments can help align investments and maximise collective benefits.

Climate-resilient development does not always require a separate funding stream; it can begin with how existing municipal revenues, government transfers and scheme-based grants are allocated and designed. Corporate social responsibility funding, impact investment, and development finance can complement public resources by supporting pilots, generating evidence that can be scaled.

Spatial data, local risk and vulnerability assessments, and scenario modelling can help identify where risks are concentrated and need focus. But these tools are most effective when combined with local knowledge and people's lived experience. Understanding how people walk, commute, and use public spaces can help smaller cities build on existing practices to shape low-carbon and resilient growth, rather than replicating infrastructure models from larger cities.

MP cop run over by truck carrying smuggled liquor

Incident comes amid a state-wide crackdown on illicit liquor

Anand Mohan J
Bhopal, November 2

A POLICE station in-charge died after allegedly being run over by a truck suspected of transporting illicit liquor during an interception operation in Madhya Pradesh's Dewas district Sunday night, police said. The incident comes amid an intensified crackdown on the illicit liquor trade following a series of suspected hooch deaths in the state.

Khategaon police station in-charge Dilip Puri was killed after a truck ran over him on the Harda-Nemawar highway. Police said the driver tried to flee when Puri and his team attempted to intercept the vehicle. A 2007-batch sub-inspector, Puri was leading the team tracking the truck following intelligence inputs that it was transporting illicit liquor from Harda to Gujarat via Indore.

Police said the driver had been arrested and the truck seized. The vehicle was allegedly found carrying liquor. A probe is underway to establish the source of the consignment and whether others were involved in the alleged smuggling operation.

Dewas Superintendent of Police Aditya Mishra said multiple teams, led by the station in-charges of Khategaon, Kannod and Nemawar, were deployed to intercept the truck following intelligence that it was carrying illicit liquor from Harda to Gujarat via Indore. The teams were pursuing the vehicle when the incident occurred.

Family members and police personnel grieve beside the mortal remains of Khategaon SHO Inspector Dilip Puri (left) at his residence in Indore. PTI

"The driver ran the vehicle over the police station in-charge, who was leading one of the teams, leaving him seriously injured. He was rushed to hospital but could not be saved," Mishra said. Police seized the truck and recovered more than 800 litres of alcohol, he added.

Congress leader and Madhya Pradesh Leader of Opposition Umang Singhar condemned the death of Khategaon police station in-charge Dilip Puri, alleging that the incident reflected the growing audacity of criminal networks in the state.

"Has the fear of the government and administration completely disappeared from the minds of the mafia in the state?" he asked, calling the incident a "slap in the face of the system."

Local BJP MLA Ashish Sharma said the administration was taking action against the illicit liquor trade and that the police were conducting a large-scale crackdown on the network.

"The police are carrying out action on a large scale. This incident occurred after police received information and attempted to apprehend the vehicle. The administration will take action against everyone involved in illegal trade," he said.

The incident comes amid a wider crackdown on illicit liquor in MP following the deaths of 13 people in Dewas district in September and October after allegedly consuming spurious liquor.

The Ujjain divisional commissioner ordered a high-level inquiry, while police launched a probe into the liquor network. The government subsequently transferred Dewas Collector Ritu Raj and SP Puneet Gahlot and suspended three excise officials, including district excise officer, over alleged negligence.

Minor survivor points to Veeramani in ID parade

Arun Janardhanan
Chennai, November 2

A MINOR survivor of alleged sexual abuse identified granite businessman R Veeramani during an identification parade at Tamil Nadu's Puzhal Central Prison last week, marking a significant development in an investigation into eight cases registered under the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act involving him and several associates.

The identification took place as the Greater Chennai Police widened their investigation, conducting searches at properties linked to the accused, pursuing a businessman who had fled abroad, and arresting a security guard who allegedly knew that children were being brought to Veeramani's residence but failed to alert the authorities.

The latest arrest, made on Sunday, brought the number of people taken into custody to nine.

Police said Seenu alias Srinivasan, a security guard employed at Veeramani's residence, was arrested in connection with two cases. Investigators alleged that he was aware of children visiting the property but did not report the matter to the authorities.

His arrest followed the detention of eight people, including Veeramani, in connection with allegations of sexual offences against minor girls. The others arrested were Shanthi, Mahendra Simhan, Lazar, Ganesan, Babu, Parthiban and Sakthivel.

Granite baron R Veeramani

All eight were remanded to Puzhal Central Prison.

The identification parade was conducted inside the prison as part of the investigation into one of the registered cases. Police said a survivor identified Veeramani during the procedure. They did not disclose further details of the identification or the circumstances surrounding the alleged offence.

Veeramani was formally arrested in three additional cases, while Shanthi, her husband Mahendra Simhan, and Lazar were arrested in another case on October 28.

Investigators also searched Ganesan's residence in Kolathur and a dance school operated by Shanthi in Neelankarai over the weekend. Police said materials relevant to the investigation were seized from the premises, without specifying their nature.

In a parallel development, police have initiated action against businessman K Prakash, son of Southern Railway union leader N Kanniah, who allegedly helped Veeramani conceal his offences.

Prakash has allegedly fled abroad, according to investigators. Police said action had been taken to revoke his passport and that efforts were underway to secure his return to India. Look Out Circulars have also been issued to prevent accused persons from leaving the country.

The investigation is being pursued by a Special Investigation Team, with the Greater Chennai Police's Anti-Human Trafficking Unit having made the earlier arrests.

Police said they were expediting the investigation and preparing to file final reports before the court in the registered cases this week.

Farmers watch yrs of work dry up as drought hits Maharashtra's fruit belts

Ankita Deshkar & Sadaf Modak
Jalna, Nagpur, Beed, November 2

IN JALNA'S Ambad taluka, sweet lime trees bear wrinkled green fruit barely the size of lemons. Some have turned brown, sun-scorched skeletons, while ripe fruit are scattered on the ground. In Vidarbha's Linga village in Amravati district, orange growers are plucking immature fruit in the hope of saving their trees.

Maharashtra's worsening drought situation is beginning to take a visible toll on its fruit-growing belts. After the state recorded an 18% rainfall deficit between June 1 and September 26, drought or drought-like conditions were declared in 304 of its 358 talukas. In Marathwada and Vidarbha, where rain has been deficient and unevenly distributed, the impact is showing up in shrinking fruit, premature crop loss and trees drying up.

In Linga, orange grower Shivhari Hadke is removing oranges barely the size of an Indian Gooseberry (amla) from his nearly 2-acre orchard of 18-year-old trees. With fruit-bearing trees requiring frequent irrigation, he hopes that removing the immature crop will reduce their water needs and help the remaining trees survive.

Of the nearly 250 trees in his orchard, 10 have already dried up. His younger brother has lost 70 trees. Some of Hadke's trees had withered last year, too. The family has also been dealing with damage caused by animals scratching the bark, further weakening the trees.

In Marathwada, successive droughts and pest attacks have steadily reduced sweet lime production in parts of Jalna. Rohilagad, Ambad and Ghansawangi in Jalna, along with Georai in Beed and Paithan in Chhatrapati Sambhajinagar, were once known for their sweet lime orchards. Repeated crop losses have since driven many farmers out of fruit cultivation.

A dried orange tree at Shivhari Hadke's farm in Linga village. EXPRESS

Shivaji Takle, a 35-year-old farmer from Rohilagad, says he has lost nearly Rs 2.5 lakh this year after his pomegranate crop failed. "I had spent nearly Rs 2.5 lakh on my 2.5-acre farm, which has 500-600 pomegranate trees. There was no rain and irrigation is not viable for the entire crop. Over 400 trees just dried up and the remaining had small fruit but not fit for sale. We will be cutting down those trees. I am not sure how much insurance and compensation I will get but the losses are difficult to come to terms with," he says.

Takle's father began planting sweet lime on their land in 1998 and harvested over 2,500 fruits every year. With no local market at the time, he would sell the produce in Nagpur. But droughts in 2012 and 2014, followed by pest attacks, dealt a severe blow to orchards in the region. Sweet lime is available in limited quantities in local markets at Rs 35 per kg. The state may have to depend on supplies from other states, including Andhra Pradesh, this year.

Jagdish Deshmukh, a farmer from Ambad who earned lakhs from pomegranate cultivation in 2023, says the lack of rain has turned this year into a season of losses.

Scientists at ICAR Central Citrus Research Institute (ICAR-CCRI), Nagpur, warn that adverse weather could cause substantial losses in both the Ambia and Mrig flowering cycles of citrus cultivation.

A Thirugnanavel, principal scientist at the institute, said rain in major citrus-growing belts like Vidarbha was deficient by around 30-40% this year. Fewer rainy days and uneven distribution had left farmers struggling to irrigate their orchards. "Both the amount of rain and its duration are important. This year, the duration and amount of rain were inadequate, and farmers were unable to irrigate their crops. High temperatures, low water availability and increased evaporation together contributed to drought conditions."

The impact is visible in fruit size and tree survival. "When water is scarce, the plant uses the available moisture primarily for survival rather than transferring it to the fruits. As a result, fruit size has reduced. Plant mortality has also been reported," he said.

Under normal conditions, citrus yields average around 13 tonnes per hectare, with fruits weighing 140-180 grams. In affected orchards, yields could fall to seven or eight tonnes per hectare, pointing to substantial production losses.

Institute director N G Patil said state departments were assessing the full extent of damage. "People often look at the total rain and assume the situation is not bad. But rain distribution matters. Rain at the wrong stage of the crop cycle may not benefit farmers. Agricultural drought and hydrological drought are also different."

Poor colour development can further depress market prices, while prolonged moisture stress weakens trees and leaves them vulnerable to pests and diseases. Trees that have dried beyond the stage of permanent wilting may not recover. Farmers may have to uproot and replant them, and a new orchard takes around four years to yield its first harvest.

For growers in both regions, the damage is not limited to one failed harvest. It means losing years of investment and facing the cost and wait involved in rebuilding an orchard. As Deshmukh puts it, "This year, the lack of rain has meant only losses for farmers."

'Don't travel by air': SC declines urgent hearing on 'inflated airfares'

Express News Service
New Delhi, November 2

THE SUPREME Court Monday declined to grant an urgent hearing to an application seeking its intervention to cap the "inflated" airline fares on domestic sectors ahead of festival season.

Filed in a pending PIL challenging the fare hike, the application pointed out the petition is next listed for hearing on November 16 – by which time the festive travel for Diwali, Bhai Dooj, and Chhath Puja will already be over. It therefore urged the court to hear it at the earliest.

Justice Vikram Nath, presiding over a three-judge bench, however, did not agree and told the applicant's counsel, "don't travel by air", before moving on to the next matter.

S Laxminarayanan, a social activist, had moved SC last year highlighting "arbitrary and opaque" pricing by airlines, during festival seasons and questioning state's inaction on it.

Hearing it in January this year, Justice Nath called it "exploitation". "We will definitely interfere. Just see the exploitation during the Kumbh and other festivals. Just see the fares from Delhi to Prayagraj and Jodhpur – three times the normal," Justice Nath had said then.

And while hearing it again on May 15, a bench of Justices Nath and Mehta told the government that "there has to be some rationalisation".

Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, appearing for the Centre and Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA), then said that the government was in the process of framing rules under the new Bharatiya Vayuyan Adhiniyam, 2024.

Popular Keralam preacher raped teen girl citing purification ritual, say police

Shaju Philip
Thiruvananthapuram, November 2

POLICE IN Keralam have arrested a popular Islamic preacher on charges of sexually abusing a minor girl repeatedly over a period of two months last year. Muhammed Niyas Jouhari, 34, was arrested on Sunday and sent to judicial custody.

A native of Kollam, he has been active on social media platforms for a while now, with his YouTube channel alone having over 2.25 lakh subscribers.

Police said the preacher allegedly sexually exploited the girl as part of a ritual-cleansing intended to "free her grandmother from the influence of an evil spirit".

Said an officer in Kollam's Ochira Police, "Jouhari has been popular as a preacher on social media. The victim's family has been following his social media pages. The 16-year-old girl and her grandmother went to meet Jouhari at his educational institution, which is meant for nurturing Islamic faith, last year."

The officer said, "The preacher allegedly convinced the woman that she is under the influence of an evil spirit and requires a purification ritual. He allegedly lured the woman and the girl to his rented premises, where he repeatedly raped the latter for several months starting from last October."

The officer said, "Recently, the girl, who has been living under the trauma of the abuse, shared the alleged incident with her friends, leading to a case against the preacher. Medical reports and mobile phone chats were considered before making the arrest."

He has been arrested under the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act and Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS) sections pertaining to rape and criminal intimidation.

Police said Jouhari's digital gadgets will be examined.

Jouhari, who runs the Habibiyyah Islamic Academy, recently courted controversy after he commented on the clothing of a prominent Muslim actor. The preacher had dubbed the attire un-Islamic.

Allahabad High Court recommends criminal contempt proceedings, FIR against lawyers

Amaal Sheikh
New Delhi, November 2

STATING THAT the Bar's obligation to speak truth to power does not grant a "license to incite violence", the Allahabad High Court has recommended criminal contempt proceedings against lawyers who allegedly assaulted staff and vandalised a courtroom on October 28.

The bench of Justice Ajay Bhanot and Justice Divesh Chandra Samant also asked the Registrar General to consider getting FIRs filed against those involved in vandalism, as well as those who allegedly circulated "false information" about the incident on social media.

"Anarchy is not a species of dissent. Freedom of speech at the Bar is not the freedom to slander the Bench," the court said, observing that the legal process had no space for intimidation and violence.

Referred the matter to the Chief Justice to launch criminal contempt proceedings against lawyers linked to the courtroom violence, the bench said, "The actions of the said lawyers... scandalised and lowered the authority of the court... (it) also interfered with the due course of judicial proceedings and obstructed the administration of justice. The aforesaid actions of the said lawyers prima facie constitute criminal contempt of this court," the bench said.

The suo motu contempt case stems from an October 28 incident in Court No. 49, where a group of lawyers allegedly shouted slogans and disrupted proceedings in protest against alleged misconduct by Justice Ajay Bhanot.

A day earlier, the Allahabad High Court Bar Association had sent a letter to the Chief Justice on the same issue. It had objected to reserved seating for police and assisting officials in the court and alleged that Justice Bhanot humiliated an advocate, forced him to apologise, and even threatened him with jail time.

Calling it "total falsehood," the bench dismissed the allegations. It said that the seating arrangement was intended to help officials follow proceedings and assist the court. It also clarified that "no order was dictated nor exists on the record" where the court is ordering imprisonment of an advocate.

Additionally, the bench said that a report submitted by the Registrar General stated that several state advocates, court staff, and a peon were assaulted in the ruckus. Videos, it said, citing the report, clearly captured the alleged assault by lawyers.

The court also criticised the circulation of what it described as false narratives about the incident on social media. "A frenzy of social media falsehoods caused the carnage of truth. In fact, truth has ceased to be relevant," it said.

Siang project row: Arunachal CM writes to protesters, promises dialogue, transparency, public consultation

Shinjini Ghosh
New Delhi, November 2

ARUNACHAL PRADESH Chief Minister Pema Khandu on Monday reached out to locals protesting against the 11,200-MW Siang Upper Multipurpose Project (SUMP), saying their concerns will be addressed through open dialogue, transparency and meaningful public consultation.

In an open letter, Khandu assured the indigenous communities that "no decision has been made" regarding the construction of the proposed dam. He reiterated that currently the government is only talking about the Pre-Feasibility Report (PFR), as that is "the first step towards establishing facts".

The CM's assurance comes in the wake of the ongoing protests against the proposed project. The Siang Indigenous Farmers' Forum (SIFF) on Monday alleged that the Arunachal government had not consulted the landowners who would be affected by the project.

It also alleged that a lack of transparency and awareness among the local communities regarding the project has led to a loss of trust in the state government. SIFF spokesperson Tagori Mize said the state government did not discuss the merits and demerits of the proposed project with the affected communities.

"The government never went to either the private landowners or the community landowners. There was a lack of transparency and community members were not taken into confidence. That is why the common people are raising their voices," Mize said.

Arunachal CM Pema Khandu

Khandu in his letter said decisions will come later, and only through open discussion with people. "Fear of uncertainty is understandable, but our promise is clarity, with a clear roadmap and continued support. We will never abandon our people midway," Khandu said.

The Chief Minister also said "some people and some groups are spreading false information" about the proposed project. "They claim that a decision regarding the dam has already been taken, that families will be forced from their homes and that land will be taken without consent. None of this is true," Khandu said in the letter posted on X.

"Dialogue requires trust and mutual understanding, and we remain committed to dialogue, consent and finding a constructive way forward," Khandu said.

The 11,200-MW Multipurpose Project is touted to be India's biggest hydropower project. Both the central and state governments have maintained that the project is a national security issue and essential to counter China's mega dam project.

Indigenous communities along the banks of the Siang River have argued that the project is a threat to not only their sources of livelihood but also their cultural heritage.

Referring to an MoU signed between the state government and sections of the Siang Valley, Mize claimed there were inconsistencies in the same. "To gain a majority, some like-minded people were made to sign the MoU. In some instances, multiple people from the same family signed the MoU and they were counted as different households. That's how a majority was reached," Mize alleged.

BJP MLA Ojing Tasing, who represents Pangin constituency in Siang district, denied the allegations. Speaking to The Indian Express, Tasing, who is also a state Cabinet minister, said, "In the recent past there have been frequent leadership changes in SIFF. How will the current post holders know what happened when the MoU was signed?"

'Your Krishna, our Ram': Baba Bageshwar remarks trigger controversy

Anand Mohan J
Bhopal, November 2

A VIDEO of Bageshwar Dham head priest Dhirendra Shastri making remarks about Lord Krishna's appearance, posture and flute-playing has sparked controversy, prompting him to apologise.

Shastri made the remarks during a Ram Katha in Karera, Shivpuri district, while comparing the physical appearance and mannerisms of Lord Krishna and Lord Ram. He also contrasted their respective abodes, Ayodhya and Vrindavan, and questioned the significance of Krishna's flute-playing.

"Your Thakurji seems to be looking around in every photo. Even when he stands, he is crooked in three places. His feet are crossed, his waist is bent somewhere, and then, with his neck bent, he plays the flute," Shastri says in a now-viral video.

He then contrasts Krishna's posture with that of Lord Ram, saying, "Ours stands absolutely straight. His name is straight, he looks straight and walks straight. Yours is crooked, he looks crooked and walks crooked."

Referring to a flautist on stage, he says, "Playing the flute is a sport, but using the bow is no sport. The flute played by your Thakurji is no big deal. There's a man on stage playing the flute as well."

After the video went viral, Shastri faced flak from a host of religious leaders based in Mathura, who said that comparing Lord Ram and Lord Krishna in this manner was inappropriate and could hurt the sentiments of devotees.

They argued that both deities were manifestations of the same divine being and that such comments risked creating divisions among devotees. Some also questioned the language used to describe Lord Krishna's posture and flute-playing, warning that "religious figures should exercise caution while making public statements about revered deities".

Shastri said his remarks were part of an explanation of a devotional verse and had been taken out of context. He apologised if his words had hurt the sentiments of devotees.

"Some people have interpreted our words differently and drawn incorrect meanings from them. We humbly want to clarify that we did not intend to create any distinction between Lord Ram and Lord Krishna," Shastri said.

He cited examples of the gopis speaking playfully to Lord Krishna and saints using similar expressions in their devotional compositions. He said his remarks were made in the same spirit.

"I am not opposed to Lord Krishna. He is our Thakurji. We ourselves have repeatedly raised our voice for Krishna Janmabhoomi. His name is part of my own name. It is because of him that our lives have meaning," he said.

Shastri also said he considered himself a devotee of Lord Krishna and a part of the Braj tradition. "We did not try to divide society or create a distinction between the gods. Why would we divide God?" he said.

No plan for fuel hedging, but evaluating it as long-haul ops expand: IndiGo

Sukalp Sharma
New Delhi, November 2

AMID SURGING jet fuel prices, India's largest airline IndiGo has no immediate plans for fuel hedging, but has started internal discussions on whether it should do so in future as its long-haul operations develop over the coming years, CEO Willie Walsh said on Monday.

He also said the airline is in talks with the government on potential measures to mitigate high jet fuel prices, adding that it is open to participating in future government schemes on the issue if they are economically viable. No airline participated in the government's jet fuel price stabili-sation fund scheme when it was launched in June.

As per the sources in the know, the government could consider the scheme's revival to provide stable fuel pricing to airlines amid extreme price volatility in overseas market.

Recent rise in jet fuel prices has led airlines to hike fuel surcharge on flight tickets. However, the hikes are not enough to offset impact of high prices. In September quarter, IndiGo logged a loss of nearly Rs 1,880 crore. Jet fuel accounts for over 40% of IndiGo's total operating cost base, like other Indian airlines. This leaves Indian airlines exposed to global fuel price volatility.

Unlike European carriers that hedge between 70% and 80% of fuel needs, or Asian airlines that hedge around 40%, domestic airlines operate completely unhedged.

Centre steps in to protect bulk Scotch duty benefits

Mukesh Jagota
New Delhi, November 2

THE GOVERNMENT is taking necessary steps to address issues relating to the HSN Code classification of bulk Scotch whisky imports to ensure that the duty concessions negotiated under the India-UK comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement (CETA) are not impaired, senior commerce ministry officials assured industry representatives on Monday.

At a high-level stakeholder consultation with domestic distillers, multinational liquor companies and industry associations, the officials said the government's commitment to provide duty concessions under the CETA would not be affected.

They reiterated the government's commitment to providing a stable and predictable environment for the industry. FE

ANALYSTS SEE OVERALL EARNINGS PERFORMANCE FOR Q2 AS POSITIVE SO FAR

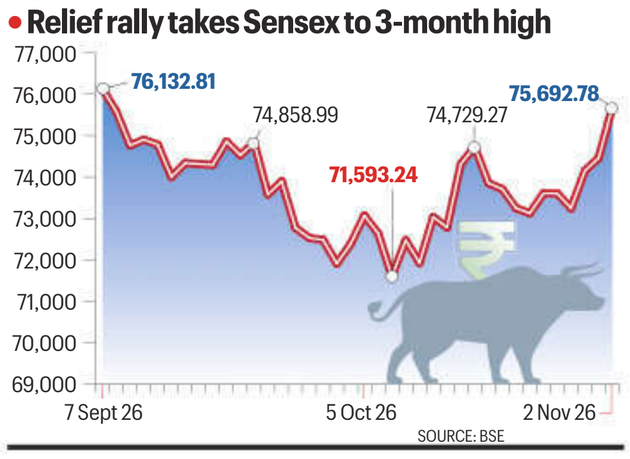

Stocks surge as RIL result, positive data lift sentiment

Akash Mandal
Mumbai, November 2

SENSEX GAINED 1.7% on Monday to its highest level in nearly three months as the index heavyweight Reliance Industries Ltd (RIL) posted better-than-expected earnings for the July-September quarter, geopolitical tensions eased a bit in West Asia, and positive macroeconomic data lifted sentiment.

In what analysts termed a "relief rally," Sensex closed the session at 75,692.78, its highest level since September 7, up 1,233.25 points or 1.7%. While Nifty 50 ended the session up 1.7% at 23,440.80 — its highest in five weeks. RIL shares skyrocketed nearly 12% after it reported record Q2 revenues and profits Friday. Incidentally, RIL has a nearly 8% weight in Nifty 50 — the third highest after HDFC Bank and ICICI Bank. It has a high weight on Sensex as well. Thus, a huge rally in the stock pushes benchmark indices notably higher. Apart from that, the mood was largely positive in the market, as around 65% of NSE-traded stocks ended the session in green.

Relief rally takes Sensex to 3-month high

SOURCE: BSE

Having been the worst-performing emerging market so far this year, the market gained around 2% in October, outperforming the likes of the US, South Korea, and Taiwan. While these foreign bourses were hit by earnings disappointments and AI concerns, India gained due to positive earnings.

Analysts see the overall earnings performance so far for Q2 as positive, which has helped lift near-term market sentiment. Big names like HDFC Bank, ICICI Bank, L&T, and RIL have beaten the Street's consensus on earnings for the quarter.

Even IT, which is expected to get more vulnerable as AI adoption rises, posted strong gains.

Several mid- and small-cap companies delivered strong quarterly earnings, signalling that results have been good for many pockets of the market.

Strong GST collections, which surged 23% year-on-year in October, are also a positive sign that the economy continues to do well, analysts said. "Overall, it is a combination of these factors that lifted the markets higher. Also, an absolute lack of negative surprises, combined with robust earnings performances, has turned sentiment positive in the short term," said Kranthi Bathini, Equity Strategist at WealthMills Securities. Relatively lower valuations compared to historical averages are also aiding the market, analysts said.

A Reuters report claimed that the Securities and Exchange Board of India has recommended that the government remove the long-term capital gains tax on foreign investors — a key measure for sustained foreign inflows. Despite market gains in October, foreign investors sold Indian equities for second straight session, dumping stocks worth $3.6 billion during the month. "I do not think the market was influenced by this a lot. While such talks (like tax reforms) keep happening on informal channels, we have to wait and watch if anything has been proposed officially. For now, it's just speculation," the research head at a top domestic fund house said. FULL REPORT ON WWW.INDIANEXPRESS.COM

Khambata declines Tata Trusts reappointment

George Mathew
Mumbai, November 2

Senior Advocate Darius Khambata's decision comes at a critical juncture, with his term due to end on November 9 and the dispute over the proposed Tata Sons listing showing little sign of resolution

IN A significant development in the escalating Tata Trusts power struggle, Senior Advocate Darius Khambata has decided not to seek reappointment as a trustee of Sir Dorabji Tata Trust (SDTT) and Sir Ratan Tata Trust (SRTT), raising fresh questions about the internal dynamics of the institutions controlling the Tata Group.

In a letter addressed to Tata Trusts Chairman Noel Tata and Tata Trusts, Khambata has conveyed that he does not wish to continue as a trustee. His decision comes at a critical juncture, with his term due to end on November 9 and the dispute over the proposed Tata Sons listing showing little sign of resolution.

Khambata has expressed dissatisfaction with the outcome of the Trusts' engagement with the Reserve Bank of India (RBI), indicating that efforts to find an alternative to listing Tata Sons have failed to produce a convincing regulatory solution.

Referring to the "astounding events" in August and September, he said the discussions with the RBI had, unfortunately, failed to produce any meaningful progress or satisfactory outcome in demonstrating how Tata Sons could implement the transparency and disclosure standards of a listed company, either by giving up its Core Investment Company (CIC) status or by restructuring its operations to avoid the last-resort option of a stock market listing.

He termed the September 17 board meeting that okayed a five-year extension for N Chandrasekaran and listing of Tata Sons as "a day that will live in infamy".

One reason for his decision to leave Tata Trusts could be that he would be voted out when his reappointment proposal is taken up on November 9, sources said. Vijay Singh and Venu Srinivasan have been opposing Noel Tata's proposals in Tata Trusts. Earlier, four trustees including Noel Tata, Neville Tata, and Bhaskar Bhat had defended the restructuring proposal sent by Tata Trusts to avoid listing. Khambata also supported the September 11, 2025, decision that preserved the Trusts' veto rights for Noel Tata.

His exit is important because it exposes the central dilemma confronting Noel Tata and the trustees opposing a stock market listing of Tata Sons. While the Trusts have consistently argued that the company should remain unlisted, they have struggled to demonstrate how it could meet the regulator's requirements without going public.

RBI had rejected Tata Sons' application to surrender its registration as a CIC in September, putting the company back on the path towards listing. Tata Sons board had pursued deregistration as a means to retain its unlisted status. Tata Trusts, which collectively hold around 66% of Tata Sons, have opposed the listing and pushed for alternative arrangements.

The Trusts have argued that RBI's rejection of the deregistration application did not amount to an explicit direction to undertake an IPO and that the company should explore other legally permissible options.

One proposal involved restructuring Tata Sons through a merger with two group companies, Tata Electronics Systems Solutions and Tata Consulting Engineers.

The proposed restructuring was intended to transform Tata Sons from a holding company into a holding-cum-operating company, potentially taking it outside the regulatory framework applicable to upper-layer NBFCs and allowing it to remain unlisted. But the proposal has triggered another round of confrontation within the Trusts.

Vice-chairmen Venu Srinivasan and Vijay Singh have questioned the manner in which the restructuring proposal was pursued, alleging that they were excluded from important discussions and decision-making. FULL REPORT ON WWW.INDIANEXPRESS.COM

FM: Govt to support growth through capex until pvt investment picks up

THE GOVERNMENT will continue to support growth by undertaking capital expenditure until private sector investment increases, Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman said on Monday.

Speaking at an event organised by HSBC, she said the government accords top priority to fiscal prudence and will continue to play the balancing act by being "creative" in continuing spending while pushing growth with capex. "Capex is a very important component of our growth strategy because till such a time when the private sector is also going to come in and expand capacities or establish newer capacities, it is important for the government to push through with the capital expenditure," she said.

53 of top 100 companies fail to disclose whistleblower complaints, says report

George Mathew
Mumbai, November 2

AS MANY as 53 of India's top 100 listed companies failed to disclose information relating to whistleblower complaints in their FY26 annual reports. A total of 1,129 complaints were reported across the companies covered by the survey, of which 13.37% remained unresolved at the end of the financial year.

The findings of a report prepared by Excellence Enablers Pvt Ltd, a corporate governance advisory firm founded by former SEBI Chair M Damodaran, raise serious questions about transparency, accountability and effectiveness of corporate governance mechanisms in India Inc.

While India's corporate governance framework may look impressive in annual reports, board presentations and regulatory filings, a closer examination of disclosures by leading listed companies reveals major gaps between compliance on paper and accountability in practice.

The seventh edition of the Annual Corporate Governance Survey of Nifty 100 companies raises questions on board oversight, functioning of independent directors, whistleblower mechanisms and accountability of corporate managements. The most disturbing findings relate to whistleblower complaints, a critical mechanism through which employees and other stakeholders can flag financial irregularities, misconduct and governance failures without fear of retaliation. Pvt electricity distributors: Centre wants more players, but Haryana doesn't

New Delhi, November 2

Mumbai is the only state with parallel electricity distribution licensing. REUTERS

ON OCTOBER 19, Haryana's power regulator approved the entry of a private electricity distributor in Gurugram and Nuh districts, in a move that was expected to give greater choice to consumers. On October 28, however, it decided "not to proceed further" with rolling out a parallel distribution licence to Eleven Power Pvt. Ltd.

The decision, taken on the directions of the Haryana government, came after opposition from both of Haryana's state-owned power distribution companies (or discoms), which raised concerns about the potential impact of parallel licensing on their finances.

What is notable is that the decision comes at a time when the Union government, also led by the BJP, is pushing for a framework that allows multiple electricity distribution licensees to operate in the same area. As per the Centre, this will expand consumer choice, improve service quality and enable more efficient use of distribution infrastructure. Both the Draft National Electricity Policy, 2026, and the Draft Electricity (Amendment) Bill, 2025, retain provisions for parallel licensing. The only such arrangement in India exists in Mumbai as of now.

The state government, invoking Section 108(1) of Electricity Act, explicitly told the Haryana Electricity Regulatory Commission (HERC) to not create or operationalise any parallel distribution licence in Haryana.

Under Section 108, a state electricity regulator must consider and follow written directions issued by the state government on policy matters that involve public interest.

Indeed, Haryana government's written direction cited concerns over consumer and public interest, financial implications for state revenues and existing state-owned distribution utilities, and public and employee agitations. The government said it was "gravely concerned" about the impact of licence on consumers and public interest, adding that the decision was a "complete deviation" from the state's existing policy. However, the government maintained that it was not examining the correctness of HERC's findings in its order granting the licence. Had the license granted to the private company, Eleven Power, taken effect, it would have marked the second instance of parallel electricity distribution licensing in India outside Mumbai, where Tata Power Company Ltd, Brihanmumbai Electric Supply and Transport Undertaking and Adani Electricity Mumbai Ltd (formerly Reliance Infrastructure) operate as distribution licensees in overlapping areas of the city.

While parallel distribution licensing remains rare in India, the Centre has been pushing for a framework to expand its adoption. In July, Consultative Committee of the Ministry of Power, chaired by Union Power Minister Manohar Lal, deliberated on a proposed framework aimed at promoting consumer choice, improving service quality and ensuring more efficient utilisation of electricity distribution infrastructure.

Why collared Kuno cheetahs cannot be live-tracked

Anand Mohan J
Bhopal, November 2

SATELLITE COLLARS fitted on cheetahs are not a live telecast and cannot provide continuous live tracking, Kuno National Park Director Uttam Kumar Sharma has said. The explanation comes as the state government has suspended six forest department officials in connection with the death of KNG22, a male cheetah who was found seriously injured in the Sheopur territorial forest division on October 25 and died during treatment.

How collars work

In his note posted on social media, Sharma sought to explain the limitations of satellite-based wildlife monitoring, saying that a satellite location only provides the geographical position of an animal at a particular point in time. By the time the information reaches the monitoring team and personnel reach the reported location, the animal may have moved several kilometres away.

"Therefore, let us get rid of the misconception that a satellite-collared animal is available for continuous live tracking, like a live television broadcast," Sharma wrote.

At Kuno, monitoring teams track around 15 cheetahs through a combination of satellite collars and radio receivers. Satellite collars provide location information over large and often inaccessible areas, while very high frequency (VHF) equipment is used by field teams to locate animals more precisely on the ground.

• TRACKING TOUGH

- Following a cheetah on foot is extremely difficult. Vehicles cannot move through forests in straight lines, as animals do.
- The actual distance covered by a monitoring vehicle can thus be several times the straight-line distance between two locations.

The collars are generally programmed to transmit location information at six-hour intervals. Sharma said satellite collars are expensive, generally costing around Rs 4-5 lakh each, and the frequency of transmission had to be determined by balancing monitoring requirements, battery life, and the expected duration of collar use.

However, if a scheduled transmission is missed, the gap between two location updates increases. If one update is missed, the gap can increase to 12 hours. If the next one is also missed, it can extend to 18 hours.

A temporary loss of satellite signal, he said, was not an unusual occurrence and could happen for several reasons. Dense forest canopy can interfere with the collar's ability to obtain an accurate GPS location, while rocky terrain, caves and deep valleys may obstruct satellite visibility.

Kuno's difficult terrain

Sharma said the limitations of satellite tracking were particularly significant at Kuno because of the extensive movement of cheetahs across the landscape.

Cheetahs are highly mobile animals and move an average of 6-8 kilometres a day. On many occasions, they cover 12-15 kilometres or even more, with their movements often concentrated during the early morning and late evening hours.

This means that by the time a monitoring team reaches the last reported satellite location, the animal may have moved several kilometres away and could have gone outside the team's VHF radio range.

US midterms & the Trump economy

The US economy is growing fast and stock markets are booming. Why, then, is cost of living the major issue? Inflation remains the big worry

UDIT MISRA

ON NOVEMBER 3, US voters will deliver their verdict on the performance of the second Trump administration and the Republican lawmakers in the US Congress.

Most opinion polls suggest that the results could go against the Republican Party. If so, the result could fundamentally alter the nature and course of the remaining two years of the Donald Trump presidency. In fact, the ramifications will be widespread, given how the Trump Administration's decisions — from slapping punitive tariffs to starting a war with Iran — have affected household budgets across the global economy.

Why do polls suggest a 'blue wave'?

Trump staged a remarkable political comeback when he beat Vice-President Kamala Harris in the 2024 presidential elections. Notwithstanding his checkered past —he is the first president in the US history to be impeached twice, and also the first former president and sitting president to have a criminal conviction on his record — Trump won in a landslide primarily on two big issues. One, he promised to curb and regulate immigration in a way that secures US borders. Two, he promised to address the cost of living crisis.

On immigration, the results of his policies, although controversial, have been effective enough for it to not be the biggest issue in the midterms. The number of migrants and refugees entering the US and the visas provided have fallen sharply, even as detentions and deportations of immigrants have spiked. However, on the economy, the concerns have only flared up. According to most polls, the economy is the single-most important issue on which votes will likely be cast. Trump's approval ratings on this count are at historic lows, and falling.

But isn't the US economy booming?

Yes, in many ways it is.

The US is the world's largest economy and yet, notwithstanding its large base or the many policy disruptions introduced by Trump during his second term, its GDP growth has been reasonably high. (Chart 1). When Trump took charge in January 2025, the US GDP was around $29.9 trillion. Since then, barring two quarters, the US GDP has often surprised on the upside and has now reached $33 trillion.

The International Monetary Fund estimates that the US's per capita GDP — GDP divided by population — has grown from $86,400 in 2024 to $95,200 in 2026 — a jump of around $8,800 in the first two years of Trump's second term. In the same period, India's per capita GDP has grown from $2,590 to $2,750, China's from $13,440 to $15,370, and France's from $46,300 to $51,450.

Unsurprisingly, the US stock markets have been skyrocketing. The NASDAQ 100 index, which features the most innovative and biggest non-financial companies, has gone from just over 21,000 to just over 28,000 while the broader S&P 500 index has gone from around 6,000 to the 7,600-mark. Further, fast GDP growth has also ensured that the US continues to have fairly low, and stable, levels of unemployment rate (Chart 2).

Then what is the problem?

Even before Trump's second term, the US's economic growth was by itself not the problem.

The US was the only major economy that recovered to its pre-pandemic growth path in the space of one year. In other words, it registered a genuine V-shaped recovery; it grew back to where it would have been without the Covid pandemic. In most other countries, this recovery — to go back to the same trend of absolute GDP — took a much longer time.

The problem in the US was affordability for an average American. That in turn depended on two factors: the rate at which prices went up (read inflation) and the rate at which wages or earnings went up.

Chart 3 shows that since Trump took charge, inflation rate has reversed its trajectory; it was 2.4% when Trump took charge but has not come back to that level since. At last count, it was at 3.7% — almost double of the US central bank target of 2%.

What's most damaging is that the main reasons for this spike in inflation rate are Trump's policy choices; first it was tariffs (which are a tax on US consumers) and then the war in Iran, which further spiked fuel prices. Since the Iran war, retail fuel prices have gone by almost 50%.

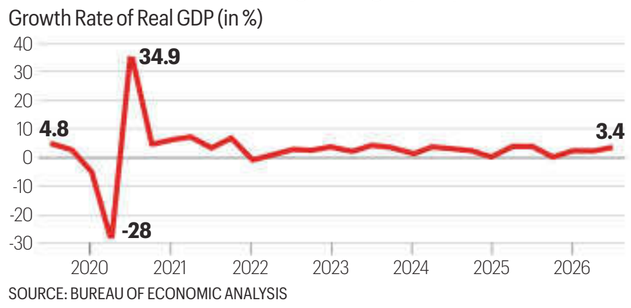

The spike in inflation has been such that it has robbed average US workers of any real earnings growth. Chart 4 shows the growth rate of earnings of US workers when adjusted for inflation. As the data shows, since the start of March, the growth rate of real earnings has turned negative every month.

Further, the government's own debts have continued to grow to alarming levels, leading to investors demanding higher interest rates for lending money. That has made loans costlier for the average American. In other words, things are costlier to buy with cash in their pockets. In real terms, most Americans are worse off than a year ago.

This explains the anger that many opinion polls are capturing, notwithstanding a fast-growing economy and a booming stock market.

Trump's claims

Trump has never accepted that his policy choices are hurting American citizens.

•

For months after taking charge, every time he was asked about the worsening economic state, he would blame his predecessor, Joe Biden.

•

In May last year, in an interview to NBC News, he even said that "the good parts are the Trump economy and the bad parts are the Biden economy".

Boost or barrier to the President: What midterms can deliver

ARAV SHAH & ANAGHA JAYAKUMAR

THE US is going to midterms, the polls that will determine the balance of power in the American national legislature, state governorships, and thousands of local offices for the remainder of the second Donald Trump presidency.

The midterms will see Americans elect all 435 members of the House of Representatives, 35 Senators, including two in special elections, and Governors in 36 states. The Senate and the House of Representatives together make up the US Congress.

Republicans currently control both Houses, although their majority in the House of Representatives is narrow. Both chambers must approve legislation before it can be sent to the President to be signed into law. The President has the power to veto legislation.

The midterms will also provide evidence of how voters are responding to the administration midway through its term, although state and local factors will shape individual races.

US Congress

The lower chamber, the House of Representatives, comprises 435 voting members who each serve two-year terms. The upper chamber, the Senate, comprises 100 members who each serve six-year terms, with roughly one-third of the Senate elected every two years.

Each state's representation in the House is proportional to the state's population, whereas every state gets two Senators irrespective of its population.

Bills concerning taxation and government revenue must originate in the House of Representatives, although the Senate can amend them. The Senate alone has the power to confirm presidential appointments, including Cabinet members and federal judges, and approve treaties by a two-thirds majority. The House of Representatives can impeach federal officials, including the President, while the Senate conducts impeachment trials and decides whether to remove them from office.

Why midterms matter for US

In the Senate, Republicans hold a 53-47 advantage. Democrats require a net gain of four seats to flip the chamber, navigating difficult toss-up races in states like Texas, Maine, Ohio, and Alaska. In the House of Representatives, the Republican majority is fragile, and generic ballot polling suggests Democrats possess a tangible path to reclaiming control.

Democrats are widely expected to win control of the House. A Democrat-majority House would give the party a greater say in government spending decisions, while empowering them to stall legislation championed by the Republican Party, launch investigations into the administration and subject senior officials to congressional scrutiny.

When the Democrats flipped the House during the 2018 midterms, House committees launched investigations into Donald Trump's businesses, his handling of the Russia investigations, and voted twice to impeach Trump.

• Anatomy of the US midterm elections

- The president is elected through the Electoral College. Most states award all their electoral votes to the statewide winner, making close states crucial.
- In the midterms, voters elect members of Congress and Governors. A state may elect a President from one party but choose a Governor or Senator from another party.

What's at stake on November 3?

435	35	36
House seats	Senate seats	Governorships

SENATE MAJORITY: Republicans hold 53 seats. Democrats and two allied independents hold 47. Democrats need a net gain of four seats for control.

SOURCE: COOK POLITICAL REPORT, OCTOBER 2026 RACE RATINGS.

Trump has said if Democrats control Congress, he would "probably become Mr. Veto", though he could "make deals at some point". A Democratic majority in the Senate could block or delay many of Trump's major political appointments and force negotiations with the White House over legislation. However, wresting control of the Senate, despite the Republicans' wafer-thin majority, still appears to be an uphill climb.

Why they matter for India

For India, the midterms are significant on two fronts: tariff implementation and immigration rules.

TARIFFS: Over the past year, Trump has repeatedly changed tariffs on Indian goods. In September, Congress passed legislation authorising tariffs of up to 100% on major buyers of Russian oil, affecting India. Trump subsequently waived these provisions in October. It illustrates Congress's power to legislate on trade, but also the considerable discretion it grants the President to implement or suspend tariffs.

If Republicans retain control of Congress, Trump will face fewer obstacles in advancing his trade agenda, while a Democratic majority in either chamber could block new legislation and investigate existing measures, though reversing them would be difficult owing to his veto power.

IMMIGRATION: The Trump administration has tightened H-1B visa rules, including extending a $100,000 payment requirement for certain new petitions until September 2027. Congress is also considering legislation to raise wage thresholds for H-1B-dependent employers. These measures have implications for Indian professionals and IT companies.

If Republicans retain both chambers, they could advance such restrictions through legislation. A Democratic majority in either chamber could block these Bills or demand greater scrutiny. But it would not overturn Trump's executive orders.

Grey market and IPO booms: What retail investors need to watch out for

George Mathew
Mumbai, November 2

BOOMING PRIMARY markets at times attract unscrupulous elements seeking to take advantage of the euphoria. In India, an unofficial IPO market is gaining traction as public offers — big and small — line up to raise funds from investors. Such a grey market takes advantage of regulatory gaps and operates beyond the reach of established regulatory mechanisms, according to market stakeholders.

In the grey market, shares of companies that are yet to list are traded. These markets are operated by players in Ahmedabad, Jaipur and Rajkot, according to sources in the official stock exchanges. The premium at which these pre-IPO shares trade, that is, the grey market premium (GMP), becomes an unofficial indicator of the premium at which IPO shares are purportedly expected to trade. Market stakeholders, who did not wish to be named, said even fund managers of mutual funds take a cue from these GMPs.

Genuine investors worry about such practices and equate it with illegal "betting activity in cricket matches" and a "parallel black economy". With a vibrant primary market, the scale of such unofficial speculative activity has risen, with IPO applications being 'trafficked' and premiums getting inflated. This, at times, encourages retail investors to mistake market hype for genuine demand, market players said.

In an October 21 representation to the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi), the Small Investors Welfare Association (SIREN) has called for immediate regulatory intervention, arguing that the widespread publicity surrounding unofficial premiums and application transactions raises serious questions about market integrity and the effectiveness of existing safeguards.

"What was previously a covert activity is now conducted in broad daylight across WhatsApp, Telegram groups and public tracking portals and others. This open black market makes a mockery of Sebi's mandate to maintain a fair, transparent and orderly market," said Arun Goenka, founder president, SIREN.

Sebi did not respond to queries from The Indian Express on the thriving illegal grey market. Market players said the government and the regulator are aware of the grey market. "It is an illegal activity just like gambling or betting. Is it for Sebi to act or the state police or other law enforcement agencies? It is a question for all," said a stakeholder who did not wish to be named.

Parallel market in the shadow of regulation

The grey market operates outside recognised stock exchanges, with transactions typically taking place through informal arrangements between buyers and sellers. GMP figures are neither official exchange prices nor guaranteed indicators of the eventual listing price, but they do influence investor sentiment, said market players.

A high premium can create expectations of substantial listing gains, encouraging investors to subscribe to an IPO without adequately examining the company's valuation, financial performance, business risks or prospects.

Retail investors who rely on such illegal markets to make investment decisions do so at their own risk, said a market player. But the promise of high gains continues to be a pull and unsophisticated investors get lured. Some take loans and some commit their hard-earned savings to invest. "When unofficial numbers are widely circulated, investors may interpret them as evidence of strong demand even though they do not necessarily reflect verified orders or actual subscription figures," the association said.

How does the grey market operate?

It operates by word of mouth. There's no paperwork or online activity. An investor buys one share of XYZ with an issue price of Rs 1,000 at a premium of Rs 300. After listing, if the share is quoted at Rs 1,400, he gets a profit of Rs 100 from the seller. On the other hand, if the share lists at a discount of Rs 1,200, he will lose money and pay Rs 100 to the seller. "Only the difference is paid. There's no transfer of shares or possession of shares. It's like betting in cricket matches. This is unofficial and illegal... and there's no legal sanctity," said an investor.

Small investors could pay the price

SIREN has drawn parallels with the frenzy surrounding the Reliance Power IPO years ago, warning that expectations of spectacular listing gains can leave retail investors exposed when market reality fails to match the hype.

Reliance Power shares were trading at huge premium pre-listing, but the stock crashed upon listing, going almost Rs 100 below the offer price of Rs 450 per share (Rs 400 for retail investors after Rs 50 discount).

This showed that an IPO is not a guaranteed route to listing gains. Nor does a high grey market premium establish that a share is worth the price investors expect to receive after listing. For smaller investors, the consequences of confusing speculation with reliable information can be particularly severe.

Can SEBI leave the questions unanswered?

SIREN has urged Sebi to choose between two broad approaches: enforce the law decisively against unlawful activity or examine whether a transparent, regulated mechanism could accommodate legitimate pre-listing entitlement transactions.

Under its enforcement proposal, the association has called for action against operators involved in illegal transactions, scrutiny of platforms publishing unofficial rates and investigation of financial channels allegedly used for such activity. Market players are not sure if Sebi is the right agency to wield its stick on such an illegal market.

The other alternative is to examine if certain transactions could be formalised through recognised market infrastructure, subject to appropriate safeguards. Such a proposal would require careful legal and policy examination; it does not mean that all grey market activity can automatically be treated as illegal or that formalisation would eliminate manipulation.

The central issue is not whether every unofficial premium is fraudulent. It is whether unlawful trading, deceptive promotion or manipulation is taking place and whether the authorities have adequate tools to detect and deter it.

"Sebi's position on the legality of different forms of grey market activity, the scope of its surveillance and enforcement efforts, and the possibility of investor advisories is therefore important. A response would help distinguish permissible conduct from potentially actionable violations," said a market observer.

BIHAR SAMVAD SAMITI

(IPRD, Soochna Bhawan Nehru Path, Patna)

NOTICE INVITING TENDER (NIT)

RFP No: 02/2026-27

The MD, Bihar Samvad Samiti, Information & Public Relations Department, Government of Bihar (BSS, IPRD), invites proposals from reputed agencies under the Two-Bid System (Technical Bid and Financial Bid) for Selection of a Public Relations Agency for media management, news tracking and monitoring, content development, crisis communications and communications outreach, for an initial period of two (2) years.

Issue of this RFP and selection under it shall not, by itself, bind the Department to award the work or enter into any agreement. The Department shall not be liable for any cost incurred by an Applicant in participating, and makes no commitment, express or implied, that this process will result in an award of work, an agreement or any commercial transaction.

Document Fee and Tender Processing Fee: Each Applicant must pay a non-refundable Document Fee of Rs. 5,000/- (Rupees Five Thousand only) and a Tender Processing Fee of Rs. 1,180/- (Rupees One Thousand One Hundred Eighty only) on the e-Procurement Portal by e-payment (NEFT/RTGS/Credit Card/Debit Card).

Earnest Money Deposit (EMD): An EMD of Rs. 5,00,000/- (Rupees Five Lakh only), non-interest bearing and refundable, shall be paid only by e-payment on the e-Procurement Portal before the last date/time for bid submission, failing which the bid shall be rejected. Bidders registered with MSME/NSIC for the relevant services are exempt from the EMD on submitting a valid registration certificate with the Technical Bid. The EMD is liable for forfeiture if the selected bidder fails to submit the requisite Performance Security or execute the Agreement within the stipulated period, withdraws/modifies its proposal during bid validity, or furnishes any information or document found to be misleading or untrue in any material respect.

The Proposal must be submitted online at https://www.eproc2.bihar.gov.in, where it can be found under the "Tender" tab on the home page, then Latest Tender, by searching Department Name as "Information & Public Relations Department, Govt. of Bihar".

The application procedure, eligibility criteria, evaluation methodology, terms and conditions and scope of work are detailed in this RFP, available for download from the e-Procurement Portal and the departmental website https://state.bihar.gov.in/prdbihar from 02/11/2026. The pre-bid meeting will be held at 03:00 PM on 18/11/2026. The last date for submission of proposal/bid is 08/12/2026 up to 15:00 Hrs. The Technical Bid will be opened on or after 10/12/2026 post 16:00 Hrs. Proposals will be evaluated as per the criteria laid down in this RFP, which should be referred to for complete details.

This RFP is issued in accordance with the Bihar Financial Rules (BFR), the General Financial Rules, 2017 (to the extent applicable and consistent with BFR), the Manual for Procurement of Consultancy and Other Services of the Government of India (for QCBS-based selection), the Bihar State Purchase Preference Policy, the public procurement policy for Micro and Small Enterprises, the Information Technology Act, 2000 (for e-procurement validity) and other applicable guidelines, as amended from time to time.

The Department reserves the right to issue addenda/corrigenda, amend any condition of this RFP, accept or reject any or all proposals, or cancel this RFP at any stage without assigning any reason, and no applicant/bidder shall have any claim or cause of action against the Department for the same.

• ROYAL STARS

BY GEORGIA NICOLS

ARIES (MAR 21 - APR 20): Your work routine might be interrupted today, or something related to your health or even your pet might create an unexpected hiccup. Nevertheless, this is a productive day. Review your values and guard against impetuous actions. Tonight: Get organised.

TAURUS (APR 21 - MAY 21): Parents should know this is an accident-prone day for your kids, which means keep your eyes open and be aware of toddlers at all times. Meanwhile, social occasions might suddenly change. Despite this, it's a productive day. Tonight: Socialise.

GEMINI (MAY 22 - JUNE 21): Your home routine might be interrupted today. Stock the fridge so you have food and drink on hand to deal with whatever arises. Small appliances might break down or someone unexpected might appear at your door. Tonight: Relax at home.

CANCER (JUNE 22 - JULY 23): Even though you might feel mentally restless, pay attention to what you say and do because this is a mildly accident-prone day. You might entertain at home. Tonight: You're eager to share ideas.

LEO (JULY 24 - AUG 23): Your energy is strong today and you feel hopeful and enthusiastic. Relatives and old friends might be back on the scene. Check your belongings, assets and money to prevent loss, damage or theft. Keep an eye on what you own. Tonight: Money ideas.

VIRGO (AUG 24 - SEP 23): Today the Moon is in your sign, which can make you more emotional than usual, but also luckier. Because the Moon is at odds with unpredictable Uranus, you might be obsessed about something unusual that's occurring. Stay chill. Tonight: You win.

LIBRA (SEP 24 - OCT 23): This is a restless day for you. Checks in the mail might be late, because money seems to be slow coming your way. Fortunately, you're still charming and diplomatic with everyone. Physical activities are good choices for you, especially as something going on behind the scenes might make you anxious. Tonight: Privacy.

SCORPIO (OCT 24 - NOV 23): This is a strong day for you because the Sun and retrograde Mercury are in your sign. In addition to which, Mars and Jupiter are at the top of your chart making you look great. Tonight: You're popular.

SAGITTARIUS (NOV 24 - DEC 22): You're noticed today. Perhaps it's because your obsession with something unusual is calling attention to you. This might hinder your relations with others. Tonight: You're admired.

CAPRICORN (DEC 23 - JAN 20): You're popular with others, especially younger people. Meanwhile, unexpected travel might be on the menu. Or perhaps travel plans are cancelled. Tonight: Explore.

AQUARIUS (JAN 21 - FEB 19): Keep an eye on your banking details and anything to do with inheritances and shared property. Something unexpected might impact your assets. Fortunately, you look good in the eyes of others; they admire you. Tonight: Check your finances.

PISCES (FEB 20 - MAR 20): Be diplomatic and cooperative when dealing with others, especially partners and close friends, because your obsession with something unusual and your feelings of independence might create a problem with someone. Tonight: Be cooperative.

Sooryavanshi, Rinku in India A squad for Rising Stars Asia Cup

Express News Service
New Delhi, November 2

INDIAN SELECTORS have named a formidable India A side for the upcoming Asian Cricket Council (ACC) Men's Rising Stars Asia Cup to be held in Doha, Qatar, from November 19 to 29, 2026.

The side is packed with players like Abhishek Sharma, Vaibhav Sooryavanshi, Tilak Varma [who is the captain of the side], and Rinku Singh.

India A are placed in Group B alongside the United Arab Emirates (UAE), Nepal, and Pakistan A. Group A comprises Bangladesh A, Sri Lanka A, Afghanistan A and Hong Kong, China. The top two teams from each group will advance to the semi-finals, scheduled for November 26 and 27.

The final will take place on Sunday, November 29.

INDIA A SQUAD: Abhishek Sharma, Vaibhav Sooryavanshi, Prabhsimran Singh [WK], Tilak Varma [C], Rajat Patidar [VC], Rinku Singh, Kumar Kushagra [WK], Suryansh Shedge, Shahbaz Ahmed, Vipraj Nigam, Harsh Dubey, Tanush Kotian, Harshit Rana, Prince Yadav, Arshad Khan

Rachin, Chapman ruled out ODI series

New Zealand will be without batsmen Rachin Ravindra and Mark Chapman for their upcoming ODI series against India, the country's cricket board said on Monday.

New Zealand Cricket (NZC) further said that Tim Seifert, who had been selected for only the last two matches of the five-match ODI series, will be in the squad for the full rubber, while Henry Nicholls will be available for the first to third matches. Dean Foxcroft has been called up for the fourth and fifth matches.

"A recent MRI showed Chapman's left hamstring requires another two weeks of rehabilitation before he is fully fit to return to the field, whilst Ravindra's right shoulder requires more recovery time before he's able to field at full capacity," said the NZC.

"Everyone knows what an asset Mark and Rachin are to this side so it's a shame they have to miss this series," said head coach Rob Walter. "I caught up with Mark last week and although he's disappointed he's working hard to get back on the field. With Rachin, his shoulder hasn't quite recovered to a position where he could field comfortably in white-ball cricket, so with the Test series later this month we don't want to take any undue risks."

IMPACT PLAYER

Dhir's journey from schoolboy's TV dream to India colours

A father's faith, a coach's guidance and years of perseverance have shaped Faridkot all-rounder

Nitin Sharma
Chandigarh, November 2

Naman Dhir was named India's impact player of the five-match T20I series against New Zealand. CREIMAS

WHEN NAMAN Dhir was in eighth standard, his father asked him a question. Did he want to see his name on the school honours board or on TV?

"TV," Naman said.

"I told him we would support him," Naresh Kumar Dhir told The Indian Express.

The second conversation came in 2021. Naman had not been picked for the Punjab side, and the family was thinking of sending him to his elder sister Sheenam in Edmonton, Canada. "Papa, give me one more year," Naman said.

On Sunday, Dhir Sr thought of both conversations. Naman was named India's impact player of the five-match T20I series against hosts New Zealand, and collected the medal in the dressing room. "To see him now play for India is a special feeling, and the result of his hard work," he said.

Growing up in the Mohalla Pukran locality of Faridkot, Naman played with neighbourhood kids in the street. His father worked at a medical shop, and Naman did well in studies too. Dhir Sr, who later ran a surgical wholesale business, remembers that the boy had only one demand from his maternal grandmother, Satya Sethi. "Naman would always tell her to bring a new bat for him," he says.

Young prodigy

In 2008, Naman was spotted playing near his home by Arunvir Devgan, the Faridkot Cricket Association's former physical trainer and a former junior team-mate of Yuvraj Singh. Devgan asked the parents to send their son to train under coach Gagan Sidhu.

Within years he was in the Faridkot U-14, U-16 and U-19 teams, a minor district in the Punjab Cricket Association's lower division.

"I was impressed by his bat grip and follow-through as a young eight-year-old. I took him to Gagan Sidhu. Sidhu paji worked a lot on his footwork.

A young Dhir with his late coach, Gagan Sidhu. EXPRESS

Naman once scored a quadruple century in a two-day U-16 match against Barnala," Devgan says. "He would shift to Patiala to train in the off season, and he knew minor-district players had to score heavily to make the Punjab teams. Once, when Naman had an exam in 11th, the teachers told his parents he could not miss it. But his father had so much faith in him that he made Naman skip the exam and play the match," adds Devgan.

Naman made the Punjab Ranji Trophy team in 2022 and hit two hundreds that season. In 2023 he was the second-highest run-getter in the Sher-E-Punjab league, with 466 runs at a strike rate of 192.56, and took eight wickets with his off-spin. The same year, Sidhu died of a kidney ailment.

> ARUNVIR DEVGAN, FARIDKOT CRICKET ASSOCIATION'S FORMER PHYSICAL TRAINER

Mumbai Indians picked him for Rs 20 lakh ahead of the 2024 IPL. He made a ten-ball 20 on debut against Gujarat Titans, hitting Afghanistan's Azmatullah Omarzai for three fours and a six. Later that year, they used the RTM card at the mega auction to retain him for Rs 5.25 crore.

"Naman was playing a match in Gujarat when he received the news of Gagan Sidhu's death. His bond with Gagan was like a godparent's, and he cried a lot that day. We wish Gagan was alive to see Naman play in the India jersey," says Dhir Sr.

Breaking the shackles

Naman made 252 runs at a strike rate of 182.61 in the 2025 IPL, and 318 at 147.22 in this year's. After the IPL he topped the Sher-E-Punjab T20 league, with 657 runs at a strike rate of 208.92 and seven wickets for winners Amritsar Soormas. Soormas batting coach Manish Sharma, a former U-19 World Cup winner, first saw Naman in 2017-18.

"Punjab had a triangular series of major district and minor district teams. That was the first time I saw Naman batting. He had good basics and was technically very sound. I remember recommending him to the selectors as a prospect. During the 2023 Sher-E-Punjab season, he showed his range of shots, including the pull, and his ability to counter short balls," says Sharma.

Days after Soormas won the title, Naman was called up for India's T20 and ODI sides for the home series against West Indies. He showed his hard hitting in a six-ball 24 in the rain-abandoned fifth T20I at Bengaluru.

In New Zealand he played an unbeaten, match-winning 15-ball 42 at number seven in the first T20I, then a 17-ball 31 in the second. He finished the series with 138 runs at a strike rate of 157.8.

Sharma sees Naman as a long-term middle-order option for India's white-ball team. "Naman decides early how to tackle pace, and he showed that in New Zealand too. He has worked on playing spin as well, and it was on display in Sher-E-Punjab, where he hit them with a straight bat."

Naresh Kumar Dhir had asked his son whether he wanted to see his name on TV. On Sunday, he watched it there.

• Number Plate

42

- Naman Dhir broke the record for the highest score by an Indian batter at No. 7 or lower in a successful T20I chase when he made 42 not out off 15 balls in the first T20I at Christchurch, which India won by four wickets.
- The previous best was by all-rounder Irfan Pathan who had made 33 not out off 16 balls at No. 8 against Sri Lanka in Colombo in 2009.

Siraj finds his rhythm ahead of ODIs, Tests

Express News Service
Mumbai, November 2

Mohd Siraj picked four wickets against New Zealand A. FILE

IN SEPTEMBER, while turning out for South Zone in the Duleep Trophy final against East Zone in Chennai, Mohammed Siraj candidly admitted that the two-month break from the end of the IPL to the two-Test series against Sri Lanka had affected his rhythm. "Every bowler's body is different, but mine doesn't handle long breaks well," the pacer said, admitting that he needed extended spells to get his body moving again.

Since then, Siraj has gone looking for that rhythm, first through first-class cricket, playing two Ranji Trophy games for Hyderabad before joining India A for the second unofficial Test against New Zealand A in Christchurch.

Though he is part of India's ODI squad for the five-match series against New Zealand, the management also wants him ready for the Tests later this month. This game, therefore, was a chance to get some overs and wickets under his belt.

He did just that on Monday. After finishing Day 2 with 1/49 in 16 overs, the 32-year-old needed one ball on the third morning to strike. Matthew Boyle, unbeaten on 107 overnight, pushed at a length delivery outside off and edged to Devdutt Padikkal at slip. The catch ended Boyle's 110-run innings and a 208-run fourth-wicket partnership with Dean Foxcroft. It was only the start.

He then removed Foxcroft for 93, getting one to jag back into the right-hander as he came down the track. Foxcroft missed his flick and was struck in front of the stumps.

At the other end, Mukesh Kumar was matching him. The Bengal seamer, who is not in the Test squad, had claimed two of the three wickets that fell on Day 2, leaving New Zealand A reeling at 13/3.

The contest between the two continued on Monday. Mukesh removed Mitchell Hay for 31, with Dhruv Jurel taking an edge behind the stumps, before Siraj bowled Brett Randell for five with a delivery that moved back in and hit the top of off. Both had three wickets at that stage, with the hosts placed at 291/7.

But Mukesh had the last word among the two Indian quicks. He dismissed Kristian Clarke for 41 and Fraser Sheat for 40, completing his 12th first-class five-wicket haul. He finished with 5/87 from 29 overs, while Siraj ended with 4/118 from 35 overs.

For Siraj, the significance of the outing lay as much in the workload as the wickets. His 35 overs gave him another long red-ball spell after his recent Ranji outings, and he was able to keep going even after New Zealand A's top order had made him work for breakthroughs.

Stubborn tail

New Zealand A had resumed at 218/3 and were eventually bowled out for 424, giving India A a 78-run first-innings deficit. After Boyle and Foxcroft were separated, Hay and Randell also fell in quick succession, but the lower order refused to fold.

Kristian Clarke and Fraser Sheat added 47 for the eighth wicket, and after Mukesh removed both, Lennox and Jarrod McKay added 55 for the last wicket before Washington Sundar removed McKay to end the innings. The final three wickets added 133 runs to frustrate the India A bowlers.

The visitors negotiated 11 overs without losing a wicket, reaching 32/0 at stumps. Yashasvi Jaiswal was unbeaten on 20 and Sai Sudharsan on 11. They still trail by 46, but on Monday, Siraj got the miles he wanted, and Mukesh won the battle of the pacers with his five-fer.

BRIEF SCORES: India A 346 and 32/0 in 11 overs trail New Zealand A 424 all out in 132.5 overs (Matthew Boyle 110, Dean Foxcroft 93; Mukesh Kumar 5/87, Mohammed Siraj 4/118) by 46 runs

• PANT UNLIKELY FOR THIRD INDIA A TEST

RISHABH PANT is unlikely to feature in India A's third unofficial Test in Lincoln scheduled from November 7 to 10 as he is yet to be declared fit from his side strain sustained during the Irani Cup game in Srinagar last month.

PANT IS doing rehabilitation routine at the BCCI Centre of Excellence in Bengaluru and is yet to clear the fitness test mandated to join the squad for the India A unofficial Tests against the Kiwis.

HIS NEXT fitness test is on November 9 and hence there is no chance that he will be playing India A's third Test.

Sarfaraz on India omission: I ask myself, 'Why should I work harder'?

Devendra Pandey
Mumbai, November 2

Sarfaraz Khan's last Test appearance was in 2024. FILE

SARFARAZ KHAN couldn't control his frustration and emotion as he spoke about his non-inclusion in the India Test team. His last Test appearance came in 2024 against New Zealand before warming the bench in Australia during the Border-Gavaskar Trophy and thereafter being sidelined completely despite scoring consistently in domestic cricket. On the sideline of the Ranji Trophy game against Railways, the Mumbai batsman put his heart out. From 97 kilograms to 77 kilograms to improve his fitness, the Mumbai batter has done everything possible to put his case forward.

To restart every season is getting tougher and tougher but Sarfaraz is not giving up. "Har subah utatha hoon, (I wake up every morning) and ask myself the same question. Why should I work harder and undergo the same thing again and again. I have played for India. I wake up at 5am in the morning and go to practice. Chahoon to Mumbai ke liye khel sakta hoon and I am still playing. Sometimes I get that question in my mind. But when I see that my father is working hard for me, mein unko liye ab score karna chahta hoon. This is the only factor which is motivating me," he said after scoring fifty at the Brabourne Stadium.

The selection committee picked him for two Test match series against Sri Lanka after Sai Sudharsan didn't recover from his injury. Sarfaraz says he didn't know that he would get a call for the Sri Lanka tour. "I was batting in the NCA. They called me there and I didn't get an opportunity. I came back and played cricket in Mumbai. I am just playing. They (selector) will call me wherever I get a chance. I will go and play. If they don't call me, I will play here."

Battling perception

When asked whether the selectors had clearly communicated the areas they wanted him to improve, Sarfaraz appeared to have more questions than answers. A perception has taken hold that he cannot bat in overseas conditions.

"When I went to the Indian team, I heard that I will be given more chances in Indian conditions but still I have a question. When I went to Africa, I scored 100 runs against the Indian team in 60 balls. When I went to England, I scored 100 runs in 60 balls. So I think when you come back (in India), you will get such a big rank turner in India. You struggle so much and suddenly you won't be able to work with such a difficult wicket. It's not that I didn't score outside. I scored outside too. That's their look out, that's their point of view. But my job is to play cricket, and I will continue playing," the Mumbai middle-order added.

He was hoping to be picked for India A squad for the New Zealand tour, but the selectors didn't pick him.

Somewhere Sarfaraz feels that he didn't get the support from the people who mattered. "Everyone knows that I don't have support in my life. If I have support, it is only from my father. No one has supported me in my life. But it's okay. I have worked hard. I fulfilled my father's dream. It's not easy to play in India in this generation. And I didn't score once or twice and played in India. I scored 300's, 200's, 250's.If someone supports me, it's my father. I will keep working hard as much as I can," he points out.

Openers set the tone

Railways needed to make the most of the helpful conditions on a hazy morning if they had to be competitive against in-form Mumbai. But openers Angkrish Raghuvanshi and Divyaansh Saxena negotiated the tricky period expertly as their century opening partnership helped Mumbai reach 247 for six on Day 1 against Railways on Monday.

Paliwal scores century without a glance at the scoreboard

Shuvaditya Bose
New Delhi, November 2

Services' Rajat Paliwal scored his 21st ton on Monday. EXPRESS

RAJAT PALIWAL has his idiosyncrasies.

On Monday, the Services captain ended a two-year wait for a Ranji Trophy century with an unbeaten 111 against Delhi. Yet, save for the applause of the opposition, he had no means of knowing he had reached the milestone. His scores are never shown on the scoreboard; the scorers have been instructed accordingly. "I have been following this since COVID. The scoreboard draws attention, so I have taken it out of the picture entirely so that I concentrate only on the game. Today, I realised I had scored a century only through the reaction of the Delhi players," he said.

Tuesday marks the start of his 16th year with Services, a career that has yielded 7,028 runs and 20 centuries before this one. The 21st, though, carried a significance of its own.

"This hundred is very special, especially because the team had lost four wickets for 40-odd runs and we needed this knock. This has come after a long time and at a critical juncture before a break, to set the tone for the next phase."

Paliwal had walked in at 27/3, on a pitch he described as one that "may not look dangerous at first, but sudden balls can behave unpredictably."

With no steady partner at the other end, Services' second-highest score being 33, he built vital stands with the tail and took his side to 266.

The innings followed an unbeaten 48 against Bengal and 44 against Maharashtra, the start of a comeback after a 2025/26 season in which he made 264 runs. "The previous season was not good, I'll admit. But I prepared well for this season. I started my preparation in May itself, and then performed in a competitive Inter-Services tournament. When you have runs under your belt, that confidence transitions into your Ranji Trophy performance as well. That is what happened with me."

At 34, Paliwal is reworking his game to prolong his career. "Until my thirties, my focus was only on my skills. But as I grew older, I realised that I need to work on both my fitness and my body to stay on top of my game. Paras Dogra has been an inspiration in this regard. He became a Ranji champion in his forties. When you look at him consistently performing at that age, you feel confident about yourself as well."

For Delhi, Aman Chaudhary was the most effective bowler, taking four wickets in only his second senior fixture. The left-arm spinner, 21, who models his game on Sri Lanka's Rangana Herath and is pursuing English honours, said: "I can only thank the selectors for picking me after watching me only in the nets. Before this season, I had played only one Cooch Behar Trophy match."

The day, however, belonged to Paliwal, who at 34 carries burdens beyond the boundary rope. As he posed for photographs, he asked that his team's front-of-shirt sponsor be kept in the frame. The reason was simple: "We overcame numerous challenges to finally get a sponsor on board. Warna Services ko kaun hi poochta hai? [Else, who cares about Services?]"

Paliwal's fight is to ensure people do.

India blank Korea 8-0 in ACT, to face them again in semi-finals

Dilpreet Singh (C) scored a brace in India's resounding win. HI

Express News Service
New Delhi, November 2

THERE WAS a time when South Korea ran India close on the hockey turf and caused them grief on a regular basis. That now seems like ancient history. India are the strongest team in the continent, while the East Asians are no longer the force they used to be, having failed to qualify for the most recent World Cup and Olympics.

The gulf in class was evident at Jalandhar's Olympian Surjit Singh Hockey Stadium on Monday, as India, bronze medallists at the last two Olympics, thrashed the Koreans 8-0 to finish their round-robin engagements at the Asian Champions Trophy.

Dilpreet Singh (8th, 40th minutes) struck a brace, while Jugraj Singh (11th), Harmanpreet Singh (15th), Shilanand Lakra (33rd), Sukhjeet Singh (34th), Sanjay (36th) and Angad Bir Singh (60th) were also on target.

After the 13-0 romp against Bangladesh, Craig Fulton's men did not have things all their way against China, Japan and Malaysia, but pulled away decisively in the second half of those games to maintain their winning streak. Against Korea, they hardly faced any resistance.

The tournament now shifts to Mohali, where India will play the Koreans again, this time in the semi-finals on Wednesday. Malaysia will face Japan to decide the other team in the title clash.

Fulton was delighted with his team's performance on Monday.

"We played really well. I enjoyed it. We played our style of hockey. We were good on the ball. When we start to move the ball, transfer the ball, it's difficult for them. That's a lot of goals," the South African was quoted as saying.

However, he said the big margin of victory would count for nothing when the two teams meet again in the last four.

"The pressure is different. We need a good start. That's the key."

Captain Harmanpreet believed the team is in a good space. "If you are getting opportunities and scoring, it's definitely an advantage. We are creating opportunities in every match, but sometimes we score and sometimes we don't. Next match is a new day, but we will come with the same attitude," he said.

Forward Abhishek was injured during the warm-up before Sunday's match against Malaysia, and there is no certainty of him being available for the semi-final.

From Nagoya to Doha: Shooters begin LA Games quota hunt

Little rest and new faces mark India's Doha World Championship campaign

Shashank Nair
New Delhi, November 2

THE INDIAN shooting team, like several other Asian squads, will be at a disadvantage at the ISSF World Championship in Doha, with the competition beginning this week.

As was the case with the Wrestling Worlds, India too has sent a squad with members of the Asian Games team that went to Nagoya. With little time to rest, the team is a mix of the Asian Games group usually expected to be the first names on any squad list, followed by an inexperienced group of shooters who performed well enough at the multiple domestic trials but have had limited exposure to competitions outside the country.

The timing of the Asian Games has meant that European countries will come to Doha fresher. The World Championships will also officially be the start of the qualification cycle for the Los Angeles Olympics. Three quota spots will be on offer in each of the 12 individual Olympic events. "There is no turnaround time," admitted Indian shooting's high-performance director Pierre Beauchamp. "If you look at the Olympics and Asian Games, it takes several months for people to psychologically and emotionally recover. And there's no recovery time. So for European teams, this is a huge advantage, because there will be over 100 countries there that will go up."

The short turnaround affected some of the Indian wrestlers – particularly Sujeet Kalkal, who couldn't train after his gold medal at the Asian Games and was undercooked for the Worlds. With some of India's best shooters, the challenge is similar.

Take the case of Manu Bhaker. India's double Olympic bronze medallist failed to win a medal in either the 10m or 25m pistol events at Nagoya, but is now one of the established names along with Suruchi Phogat in a pistol team that is largely untested barring the duo. Beauchamp said that the coaches have tried to deal with the constraints. "When you're not completely recovered, there's a cognitive deficit and you need to find a way to re-energise yourself. So we've had several workshops with the athletes about what their focus points are. Coaches are doing debriefs on a regular basis, helping them to set meaningful goals, so that they can reset quickly," he says. "There's only so much you can do."

Fresh names

Other than the duo, the 10m pistol teams on both the men's and women's sides are largely untested. Kamaljeet Sohlot, whose first big-ticket event was the Nagoya Asiad, where he won mixed-team gold with Suruchi, leads the men's team along with first-timers Ravin Kumar and Jaypal Malviya.

The third shooter in the women's 10m team, Sainyam Vij, exemplifies the churn within the team. Bhaker, Suruchi and Esha Singh are all within the top 15 in the world, and that lends itself to fewer chances in the bigger events, especially in the 10m pistol. But the proximity of the events means that, in the end, a good average in the trials can open the door to an opportunity — one that Vij has put herself in a position to take.

Winning an Olympic quota in her event also comes with perks domestically. Under the rejigged Olympic Selection Trials for selecting the squad for the LA Olympics, winning a quota comes with a bonus point that gets added along with the average score at the trials. In a hotly-contested discipline, it could add up. Vij might be new to the locales of a Worlds, but she knows how this plays out.

"The competition in this game is with yourself, so you need to be better than yourself from before. I don't focus on anybody, what they are doing, what they are shooting, what's their score. I focus on my mind that I have to improve my score. I know what scores will help me get into the team, or what scores are enough to get into the finals," says Vij.

India had stitched together 22 quotas ahead of the Paris Olympics. It was a marked improvement from the 12 they had earned ahead of the 2016 Rio Olympics, and the 15 they had at Tokyo. Beauchamp said the aim is to pick up as many quotas as possible and get to that magical number of 24.

"You need to demonstrate patience, belief in your team and belief in the country that we will come through by the time we get there," said India's HPD. "If you remember the last cycle, we were missing a quota for the women's pistol. We sent a group to Rio and they achieved the quota at that. So we have all of this on the calendar. It's all there and we're planning for it."

Manu Bhaker will lead an inexperienced pistol team at the Worlds. ANI

• India's new faces

When Samrat Rana made his World Championships debut at the previous edition, few would have expected him to go on to win gold. Yet two years later, Rana is not part of India's team, nor is Paris Olympics bronze medallist Sarabjot Singh. It is another example of the churn that has become commonplace in Indian shooting, particularly in the pistol events.

10M MEN'S TEAM Perhaps nothing exemplifies the frequency of change better than the 10m pistol team. 24-year-old Ravin Kumar will make his international debut in Doha - and it will also be his first time travelling abroad, having taken his first-ever flight to reach the World Championships.

Then there is 31-year-old Jaypal Malviya, who will be competing at only his second international event. Both Malviya and Kumar earned their places in the team through their performances in the domestic trials, with their averages enough to secure a place on the flight to Doha.

25M RAPID FIRE PISTOL
Gurmeet Singh, who finished seventh at the Rio Olympics, returns to the national team after almost a decade. Suraj Sharma, who made his senior international debut only this year, is also part of the squad, with Bhavesh Shekhawat completing the team.

Dhinidhi wins India's first global swimming medal at Youth Oly

Pritish Raj
New Delhi, November 2

DHINIDHI DESINGHU was once afraid of going into a swimming pool but on Monday, the 16-year-old made history by becoming the first-ever Indian to win a global medal in the sport after clinching a 100m freestyle bronze at the Youth Olympics in Dakar, Senegal.

Dhinidhi clocked 56.27s in the final to set a new national record, lowering her own previous mark of 56.57, set at the Indian Championships in Ahmedabad on June 18. The teenager from Bengaluru had earlier topped her heat in 56.80 seconds to qualify for the final as the third-fastest swimmer. Croatia's Ana Bobanovic (56.22s) and Alyssa Lawson of New Zealand (56.53s) were the only swimmers quicker than her in the heats.

Dhinidhi's medal also opened India's account at the ongoing Youth Olympics.

The prodigy, who made her senior Olympics debut in Paris at 14, was more happy with her timing.

"I wanted the gold and my plan was to go sub-56s. When I saw the result on the board, I was not exactly thrilled. But when I stood on the podium, the feeling of winning a medal finally sank in," Dhinidhi told The Indian Express from Dakar.

Before traveling to the Youth Olympics, Dhinidhi had set a target of lowering the national record.

"I didn't think much about the medal when I landed here. My whole focus was on improving my personal best. But as I topped the heats, the confidence of a podium finish came naturally," she said.

Dhinidhi swam a strong second half after clocking 27.31s over the first 50m, being placed fifth at the turn, before making up time and places to finish third behind Bobanovic and Lawson.

"I didn't swim here for three days after landing due to the pool's closure. The weather was also hot and sticky but I think now that I have settled in, I will perform well in my next events," she said.

Dhinidhi is set to compete in the women's 200m individual medley on Wednesday and the 200m freestyle on Friday.

"I am proud of her. She has achieved what no other Indian swimmer has done," Dhinidhi's mother Jesitha said. "She has always been a hardworking athlete and today's result was just the culmination of her efforts over the years."

Generational talent

Dronacharya awardee coach Nihar Ameen, under whom Dhinidhi trains at Dolphin Aquatics in Bengaluru, calls her a generational talent.

"When she came here, she had no idea what swimming was. She was a nine-year-old training with kids four or five years older than her," Amin told this newspaper.

The coach said that Dhinidhi targeted a personal best, but the medal is a historic one.

"I always told her to work hard and the medals will come. Her target was to get the personal best and in the process, the medal arrived. I believe she will do better in the 200m freestyle."

Dhinidhi trains under Amin and Madhu Kumar at the academy.

"When we first saw her and how crazy she was about working hard, we realised that we have got a special talent. Sometimes, we have to call her out from the pool, she is that kind of an athlete," Amin added.

At the age of 16, Dhinidhi has experience of competing at the Olympics, Asian Games and World Championships. Amin believes she is a potential flagbearer of the sport in the country.

"She is going to raise the standard of the sport in the country. She is already dominating at the national level, has defeated Chinese swimmers in age-group competitions, and has now won a global medal. All these are signs of what she can do when her body reaches its full potential," the coach felt.

With a couple of events left, Dhinidhi has the opportunity to further burnish her credentials and make a name for herself in a sport where Indian has hardly had any success.

Father in coach's seat is not ideal, says Kharb Sr

Shivani Naik
Mumbai, November 2

ONE OF Indian badminton's (sport's at large) biggest problems in the past many years has been excessive interference of parents in coaching matters. Devender Kharb who sits for daughter Anmol's matches and was again courtside when she made her first Super 500 semifinals at Hylo Open, has decided to step back and hand over the guiding reins to a professional coach, saying, there are drawbacks to controlling that aspect of an athlete's game.

"I realised if she trained under a proper coach instead of being coached by me, it was far better for her game," Devender said, while informing that Anmol had shifted base to National Centre of Excellence, Guwahati, and was now being coached by 54-year-old Malaysian coach Sankar Annamalai.

"Coaches like Park, Sankar Sir can help players go from 0 to 100. Main toh kuchh nahi hoo unke experience and tactical understanding ke saamne (I'm not as adept at formal coaching as them)," he would say.

Anmol Kharb was beaten by PV Sindhu in the Hylo Open semis. FILE

Elaborating on the issue where he gave it a a go for couple of years, but found himself out of depth in seniors, he admitted, "At best I can motivate her if she's slumping in a match. If she makes too many mistakes, I would get angry like a father would. But that doesn't work for the athlete. It's a bad idea and she needed a professional coach," Devender added. Anmol defeated Wotld No 12 Line Christophersen and No 21 Unnati Hooda in back-to-back matches at Saarbrucken, but lost to PV Sindhu who went on to win the title.

The Faridabad parent also realised that as the level of play on the Tour increases, he found himself at a loss of the exact coaching tips needed in crucial moments. "Pro coaches can instruct when to move from defense to offense. I realised I was only reacting to her points and not anticipating them or what opponent was trying to do. All the badminton I know is because of Anmol, otherwise I'm just a national kabaddi player," he would add, having mulled over the decision and packing her off to Guwahati a month and half back.

Earlier, she had trained at the Gopichand academy, but headed back home for her Class 12 boards interrupting the stint. "Gopi sir training was excellent, she really picked up a lot there. Kamaal hi khelne lagi thi. But we insisted she focus on studies for 6 months so that couldn't be helped. We were training on our own at that point but she was struggling without a coach," he added. BAI secretary Sanjay Mishra would suggest she move to Guwahati and OGQ and Yonex lined up to fill in the funding gaps for 6-8 tournaments out of 20-22.

It's been a tough two bridge-years to seniors for the 19-year-old. "Meeting top names like Chen Yufei, An Se-young and Putri Kusuma Wardani in first round can be tough," he says of 4 such occasions, though the remainder of the tournaments offered the reality checks needed.

"She kept fighting, she's always been good at that. But I realised it would be better if a coach like Sankar Sir went with her instead of me," he recalls. "After coming back from Hyderabad her game went down. Now her attack is better, stamina work is better that shows in court speed. Technically, she's using her wrist more than her shoulder, and that helped her beat World No 12," he says, speaking from the Korea Super 500 where she plays this week.

While she rushed and made some wide errors against Sindhu, Devender reckons Unnati's was a match she could have wrapped up in two, even as the latter showed grit to fight back in semifinals. "Sindhu ke saath mahaan coach the (Irwansyah). And her cheering squad definitely succeeded in distracting Anmol over 3 crucial points at least. These are things that are bound to happen and she needs to learn to play through it," he recalls. It was yet another occasion when he realised a proper coach like Sankar, Park or Gopichand or Gurusaidutt could've guided her to deal with it better. "I hope Sankar Sir can travel with her and help her game," he added, looking ahead to next season.

Mercedes driver Antonelli becomes youngest champion in F1 history at age 20

Associated Press
Mexico City, November 2

AFTER CROSSING the finish line of the Mexico City Grand Prix behind race winner Max Verstappen and Lewis Hamilton, F1 history-maker Kimi Antonelli placed his hands on the steering wheel and his voice cracked as he said, "We did it, we did it." Although the 20-year-old Mercedes driver finished third in the Mexican capital on Sunday, he became the youngest champion in the history of Formula 1.

"I'm still trying to realize and understand what just happened, when you work so hard and then you finally achieve it is truly special," said Antonelli, who was joined by his parents and younger sister. "All the emotions come, to be able to witness this moment with my family is a moment I will always remember." Antonelli, who secured the title with four races remaining, said the final lap was complicated by the excitement of what he had achieved - he began to savor it even before crossing the finish line.

"I think I lost two seconds because I could not see ahead, I think I saw two Ferraris," he said with a smile. "It was very special, a lot of memories went through my mind at that moment, and I let it all out after achieving one of my biggest dreams.

Sebastian Vettel was the previous youngest champion at age 23 in 2010.

Although the Italian driver knew, after winning the United States Grand Prix, that the title was firmly within his grasp, his first few days in Mexico were not easy; he fell ill, even though he claimed on Sunday to be in his best physical shape.

But the greatest challenge was the mental battle that came with having the achievement so close within reach.

"The weekend has not been easy; I kept hearing the same thing over and over again. It is not easy to hear congratulations on a win when the job is not yet done. But hearing it repeatedly made me realize that I could actually achieve it." Verstappen, meanwhile, claimed his sixth victory at the Mexico City Grand Prix, further cementing his affinity with the circuit.

"The Max-ico' Grand Prix will be a great name to call it," Verstappen said with a laugh. "To be honest I love the city and the fans, but I have no idea why I have won it six years, it just happened. It always comes together for me here."

> Although the Italian driver knew, after winning the US GP, that the title was within his grasp, his first few days in Mexico were not easy

"For 73 years, our country has waited for this moment, and today an entire nation will celebrate one of its own reaching the very pinnacle of our sport," said Formula 1 CEO Stefano Domenicali.

"Today, his name joins the legends of our sport. A new chapter in Formula 1 history has been written, and I firmly believe this is only the beginning of an extraordinary legacy."

Infighting in Ferrari

Hamilton, who had secured pole position on Saturday, lost it on the fourth lap while battling for the lead with Leclerc. Hamilton briefly went off track, dropping back to third place.

The maneuver between the two Ferrari drivers was investigated, resulting in a five-second penalty for Leclerc - a decision that left seven-time world champion Hamilton fuming.

"The stewards are basically handing Charles this win. We agreed in the drivers' briefing," Hamilton said. "The problem with a 5-second penalty is that he's got clean air and doesn't have to manage (the car) like the rest of us. He should have just given the position back." Shortly before the red flag caused by Bottas' crash, Hamilton radioed, "We've got problems ... big, big problems." On pulling into the garage, he appeared visibly frustrated with his team.

Leclerc said after the race that he wanted to give the position back to Hamilton, but Verstappen got between them.

"At that point it did not matter because Max passed us and the race was done," Hamilton said. "I am happy, but we lost valuable points we could have easily been 1-2 today, but your teammate works against you, we just have to figure it out and something needs to change for sure."
